SEQUOIA DECK SEES DRAFT OF REORGANIZING

President and Director of Budget Finish Economy Plan.

(Associated Press.)

On the awning-covered decks of the yacht Sequoia, President Roosevelt and his guardian of Federal expenditures—Lewis W. Douglas, Director of the Budget—yesterday drafted into near-final form a wide governmental reorganization program through which they expect to produce savings of more than $300,000,000 during the next fiscal year.

The encompassing proposal is viewed by them as the final major step contemplated toward meeting President Roosevelt's campaign pledges of chopping 25 per cent from Government expenditures and bringing the budget into balance by spending at least $1,000,000,000 less than appropriated for the current fiscal year.

Rejection Called Unlikely.

The Chief Executive is expected to send the completed reorganization plan to Congress within the week, where approval is expected. More sweeping in character than the program proposed by President Hoover last year and rejected by Congress, the Democratic plan is considered by leaders on Capitol Hill to have more chance of adoption because of the broad provisions of the economy bill.

Whereas one branch of Congress could reject the Hoover set-up—and the House did—disapproval of the Roosevelt plan would require a two-thirds vote of each branch and with the heavy Democratic majorities this is generally accepted as unlikely.

Not only is menacing opposition considered improbable, but the administration is reliably reported to be planning to ask immediate approval so that the reduction in expenditures can become effective June 1 instead of resting before Congress for the 60-day period of waiting prescribed in the economy bill.

Three major steps already have been taken in the direction of producing reductions and balancing the budget. Grants to war veterans were cut $400,000,000 by executive order, and Douglas estimated an additional $50,000,000 would be saved by using interest payments on loans to veterans to provide the 1934 share of the adjusted compensation certificates maturity fund.

Another $125,000,000 in saving is estimated by the administration as the

Sunday School Teacher Is Drowned With Pupil

Baltimore, May 21 (A.P.).—The attempt of a Sunday School teacher to save one of his pupils resulted in both being drowned here today during a class outing. They were the season's first water victims.

The teacher was Clarence Bailey, 23, and the pupil, William "Bunky" Wallace Ahrens, 9.

Agents to Conduct Bankruptcy Probe

(Associated Press.)

The Department of Justice disclosed last night that two agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation had been dispatched to investigate the "general bankruptcy situation" in the middle district of Pennsylvania, presided over by Judge Johnson.

Officials at the Justice Department declined further comment upon the investigation. No details were forthcoming as to what the agents would seek or what had prompted the inquiry. J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, could not be reached for a statement.

Cussin' Out

Commander of U. S. Fleet Moves to Stop Sailors Using Profanity.

Norfolk, Va., May 21 (A.P.).—A ban on profanity and obscenity in the Navy is contained in orders received by naval authorities here from Admiral R. H. Leigh, commander in chief of the United States fleet.

The sailor now found guilty of "cussing" will be subject to disciplinary action. The order, naval officers said, applies to the enlisted personnel ashore or afloat.

"It is directed," the order said, "that all commanding officers take immediate steps to eradicate this undesirable habit of profane and obscene language heard and to take suitable disciplinary action in the case of each infraction reported."

U.S. SPECIAL AGENTS TAKE WAXEY GORDON

Gang Chieftain Accused of Tax Evasion Traced to Mountain Hideout.

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Waxey Gordon, one of the few remaining gang chieftains of the Metropolitan area, was captured in his Sullivan County hideaway today, and returned to New York to face charges of evading the Federal income tax.

Gordon, whose name has been linked in one way or another with those of Arnold Rothstein, Jack (Legs) Diamond, Vannie Higgins and Vincent (Baby Face) Coll, all of whom now are dead, had been missing since two of his reputed aids were slain in Elizabeth, N. J., April 12.

He was traced by two special agents of the Internal Revenue Department to a cottage on White Lake in Sullivan County.

Arrested with him were his two bodyguards, who described themselves as Hyman Pincus and Joseph Arendt.

United States Attorney George Z. Medalie accompanied by Police Inspector Francis J. Kear and several detectives went to the State Police barracks at Hawthorne and returned with the prisoners.

Gordon is charged with conspiracy to defraud the Federal Government of income tax payments totaling $382,974.46 for the years 1930 and 1931.

An anonymous letter received by New York police led to the arrests. Authorities said Gordon had been living at the Sullivan County place, called Mansion Cottage, for more than a month.

Police of New York and New Jersey sought Gordon for questioning in connection with the killing of Max Greenberg, and Max Hassell in an Elizabeth Hotel. Greenberg and Hassell were shot to death shortly after Gordon left the hotel, where he had been in conference with them, police said.

7 Log Drivers Killed In Dynamite Explosion

Quebec, May 21 (A.P.).—Seven log drivers were killed and three others seriously injured today by the explosion of a box of dynamite in a small boat on the Montmorency River.

The explosive was being carried in a skiff for use in releasing jammed logs on the Anglo-Canadian pulp drive on the river.

Lightning Strikes Rifle; Man Carrying It Killed

Purdin, Mo., May 21 (A.P.).—A bolt of lightning which struck the barrel of a rifle he was carrying on his shoulder while hunting squirrels today killed Eldon Glore, 24, near his farm home 10 miles west of Purdin. The body was found by his father.

Boy Thwarts

Abduction of Sister, 8, by Half-Clad Woman and Nude Male Helper.

Denver, May 21 (A.P.).—Police tonight were searching for a woman who, half clad and accompanied by a nude man, attempted to abduct Betty Lee O'Dell, 8, from her bed early this morning.

Grabbing the girl by the neck and muffling her cries with one hand, the weird assailant, described by Betty as having long black hair falling to her waist, dragged the little girl through the back door of the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. O'Dell, to the back yard, where the naked man stood waiting.

Sudden screams of the girl's brother, Elwood, 14, who witnessed the abduction, caused the couple to drop Betty and flee.

Except for another small girl, a friend of Betty, and a 7-month-old baby, the children were alone in the house while their parents attended a party.

CAPITAL FLIER BADLY HURT IN PLANE MISHAP

Trapped in his spinning airplane, crashing out of control from a height of 500 feet, Lyle N. Jordan, 209 Ninth street southwest, 28-year-old head of the Jordan flying service, operating from Beacon airport below Alexandria, Va., was possibly fatally injured late yesterday, when the ship struck nose-first on a plowed field several yards beyond the airport.

Caught in Ship's Current.

The two ships, flying some distance apart, circled the field several times, onlookers reported, while Jordan apparently tried to avoid his fellow pilot's maneuvers.

Reaching the edge of the airport, Jordan, flying directly above Soloman's ship, banked sharply to the left in a side-slip to separate the two planes, witnesses said. The wings of his ship were caught in the terrific air current behind the other plane, and watchers on the ground saw Jordan's biplane suddenly spin toward earth.

Nose first, the ship crashed to a nearby field. Bystanders rushed to the wreckage and extracted the unconscious form of Jordan. He was taken in a passing automobile to Alexandria Hospital, where it was found he had suffered concussion of the brain, internal injuries, a possible fractured pelvis and severe lacerations to his head and body.

Pilot Prepared for Craft.

That Jordan expected his ship to crash and knew he was helpless to prevent the accident was evidenced by his presence of mind in cutting the ignition switch to prevent fire. He also threw off his goggles to avert being cut by breaking glass.

The wrecked plane, its nose buried in the ground, was ordered left where it fell for inspection by Department of Commerce authorities.

Jordan's plane, one of his own, was equipped with a new motor, said to be an Ox-5. Employes of the airport said the life of such an engine is more than 1,000 hours. This motor, they said, had been flown only 40 hours.

Jordan was a partner of Reginald Schraeder, 720 F street southwest, who was in business with James F. Howell, pilot of a plane which fell at Hybla Valley Airport on August 22, 1932, killing himself and two passengers.

Editor Gets Life Term For Slaying Constable

Eugene, Oreg., May 21 (A.P.).—A circuit court jury today convicted Llewellyn A. Banks, former editor and orchardist, of second-degree murder for the death, March 16, of George Prescott, Medford constable. Edith Robertina Banks, jointly tried with her husband on a charge of first-degree murder, was acquitted.

The jury's verdict, returned 22½ hours after that body was given the case, makes a sentence of life imprisonment mandatory.

Minister Is Sentenced For Resisting Officer

Colorado Springs, May 21 (A.P.).—F. P. Peate, local head of the United Front, Communist organization, and the Rev. I. G. Sanger face jail sentences following their conviction in District Court on charges of resisting an officer in an eviction proceedings.

Peate was sentenced to 30 days and Sanger to 10 days in jail. They were accused of leading a small crowd which carried furniture back into a house after a constable had removed it.

Paraguay Reports Heavy Enemy Losses in Chaco

Asuncion, Paraguay, May 21 (A.P.).—The Ministry of War reported today that four Bolivian attacks were repulsed by Paraguayan troops in the Herrera sector of the disputed Gran Chaco territory with heavy enemy casualties.

Low Flying Airplane Crashes, Killing Pilot

Binghamton, N. Y., May 21 (A.P.).—Gerald F. Case, 37, an electrical engineer, of New York City and South Orange, N. J., was killed today as an airplane in which he was taking a young woman friend for a ride fell from a low altitude at Bennett Airport.

Cat Scratch

May Cost Life of Young Woman, Seriously Ill in Hospital.

Suffering from blood poisoning and erysipelas which developed from a scratch received last Sunday when a small kitten she was holding clawed her chest, Miss Dorothy Bailey, 24, of Clarendon, Va., is in a serious condition at Garfield Hospital.

Not thinking the injury serious at the time, Miss Bailey was inclined to let it go without professional treatment, but when the wound began to show signs of infection and continued to grow steadily worse, a doctor was called and the woman was removed to the hospital. She is being kept in an isolated ward, as erysipelas is highly contagious.

At her home it was said that the

BONUS ARMY'S CAMP TO BE STRUCK TODAY

Tension Rises as Government Plans for Ouster of Nonworkers.

In an atmosphere alive with tension, the administration-approved bonus camp dies at Fort Hunt today and in its stead a veterans' reforestation conditioning camp will arise.

About 60 per cent of the nearly 3,000 bonus marchers in the camp on the Potomac have signed blanks signifying willingness to take part in the reforestation experiment with the veterans.

The rest, with sullen cries yesterday of "forced labor" and turned up noses at $1 a day wages, will be forced to leave the camp today. Veterans' Administration officials and deputy marshals have indicated they will brook no loitering by men refusing to join the reforestation ranks.

There will be only one way for the evacuated bonus marchers to come—through Washington. Whether they will seek to make a demonstration remains to be seen. A bristling Virginia State trooper camp guards the other exit from Fort Hunt, and Gov. Pollard has given orders that the bonus march shall not go back through the Old Dominion.

A rumor that a heavy Midwestern contingent would make for nearby freight yards was met with a stern warning by Federal authorities that such a move would be met with immediate and strong action.

At 7:15 this morning the men are to be lined up on the spacious parade ground at the erstwhile military post. There the ones who are to take the woods jobs and the ones

Mountain Blazing After Heavy Blast

Durango, Colo., May 21 (A.P.).—Flames leaped from Carbon Mountain, disintegrating peak of the Rockies, after an explosion started avalanches on all sides of the big black mound tonight.

The fire roared upward from a 315-foot fault in the side of the mountain and touched off a forest of pine trees. It spread rapidly and there were three separate fires late tonight. In addition to the trees, gases coming from deep down in the mountain were also on fire.

Tonight was the first time that flames have been seen, although the gas has been present since the first explosions were heard several months ago. Geologists, who inspected the peak, said the whole inside of the mountain, seamed with coal, probably is on fire.

Tannery Vat Fumes Kill 5

Bystander Perishes Trying to Rescue 4 Employes Who Toppled Into Sludge Pit They Were Cleaning When Overcome by Poisonous Gas.

Newark, N. J., May 21 (A.P.).—Overcome by poisonous fumes, five men died today in an open sludge drainage vat at the Hess & Drucker tannery here. Four of the victims were employes of the tannery; the fifth was a bystander who perished trying to rescue them.

The dead were Paul Bosak, 25, and his brother, Stephen Bosak, 21; Stephen Remics, 28; John Pasnick, 33, and Leonard Nedelak, 28.

Three city firemen, struggling to rescue the doomed men, were overcome by the gas from the vat, and taken to the city hospital. One of them, Charles De Koch, narrowly escaped being the sixth fatality, losing consciousness and toppling into the sludge. His condition is serious.

The four employes of the tannery, working on a scaffold, were cleaning the vat, when Stephen Bosak, partly overcome by the fumes, slipped on the wet planking and fell into the vat.

Bosak's fall brought his brother and the two other workers to his aid. The efforts of the would-be rescuers brought them into too great proximity to the poisonous fumes. One by one they succumbed to the gases and fell into the sludge.

Nedelak, attracted by shouts, got a rope and had one of the four partly pulled from the vat when he was overcome and fell in.

Meanwhile, another bystander summoned the fire department, but when the rescue squad arrived and removed the men, they were all dead. Samples of the contents of the vat were taken for analysis by the city chemist.

The drainage vat is constructed under the sidewalk. Pipelines bring refuse, chemicals and leather from the tannery to the pit. The vat is cleaned once a month.

HULL TO BRING TARIFF BILL UP AT TALK TODAY

President Faces Decision on "Bargain" Feature of Measure.

The Roosevelt administration last night faced an imminent decision on its new tariff bill, stalled off for weeks lest the explosive subject derail other important legislation.

Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, yesterday disclosed that he expected to plunge deeply into the delicate question in a conference today with President Roosevelt.

The bill now being drafted is intended to give the Executive broad authority over tariffs, to be employed in the world monetary and economic conference in London.

As the bill now stands, its heart is the principle of tariff "bargaining"—lowering rates on certain products in return for concessions by another country on other goods. How much further it goes and whether it will contain provision for a horizontal slash in all tariffs, provided other countries do likewise, depends on the President's decision after his talk with Hull and other officials.

Bill Awaits Decision.

In fact, a definite decision is yet to be made on whether to send up the tariff bill at all. Up until a week or so ago it was definitely a part of the Administration's program. More recently the word used in referring to it is "probable."

With the London conference opening June 12 and the American delegation sailing a week from this Wednesday, the time is growing short for action on the concededly controversial question.

Official Opinions Differ.

Even among members of the administration differences of opinion exist. Secretary Hull before he took his present post advocated a 10 per cent cut in tariffs by all nations, although he now concedes this is only one of many methods of attaining the desired goal of lowered trade barriers.

Assistant Secretary Raymond Moley of the State Department says the idea is "not to cut off the top of the wall," but to "open doors in our walls opposite doors in other walls"—apparently a reference to reciprocal, bilateral tariff bargaining.

In some quarters the view has been expressed that with American commodity prices now definitely on the rise, this is a bad time for action on a bill bestowing powers to lower American tariffs. Rising domestic prices in the past have brought forth sentiment for higher tariffs to protect the American market.

Such considerations account for the deliberation and care the administration is giving the matter, particularly in view of its desire to avoid protracted debate which would keep

Plane to South America Returns to Le Bourget

Paris, May 21 (A.P.).—The airplane Arc-en-ciel (Rainbow), piloted by Jean Merinos, completing a round-trip to South America, intended to show the feasibility of transatlantic passenger and mail airplane service, landed at Le Bourget Field this evening from Toulouse.

Four Powers Indorse Duce's Plan for Peace; U. S. to Quit Isolation

Will Make Six Major Points in Disarmament Talk.

Geneva, May 21.—The United States is prepared to disregard its traditional policy of isolation and enter a consultative agreement with other powers in case of war, Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate to the Arms Conference, will declare tomorrow in outlining President Roosevelt's armament policies to the world.

The United Press is able to say on high authority that this will be one of six major points in the Davis speech tomorrow afternoon, giving the long-awaited pronouncement on how far the United States is willing to go in cooperating with Europe for peace.

Security Guarantee.

The United States is prepared to consult with other nations in case of a "war of aggression," it was learned. The policy would include willingness to guarantee security insofar as this point in the program to be enunciated by Davis stresses that Washington is ready to promise no neutrality once the guilt of aggression is determined.

However, final decision on any action by the Government of the United States must be reserved for the Senate, it was understood Davis will say on behalf of the President.

Other major points in tomorrow's United States declaration—the Roosevelt six-point program—will include these, it was understood:

1—All nations should accept the MacDonald conventions as the basis of the world arms limitation treaty.

Progressive Disarming.

2—No re-armament for any nation.

3—An aggressor would be defined as any nation whatsoever sending military forces across her own frontier.

4—Progressive abolition of aggressive weapons.

5—Rigid disarmament control, with a rapid investigation on the spot in case of violations, in addition to periodic automatic examinations to see that the treaty is observed.

The second point was regarded as aimed directly at Germany, which has held up the arms conference by persistent demands that she be permitted to re-arm if France and the other former allied powers fail further to live up to the Versailles treaty and disarm.

200,000 in Roumanian Parade of Confidence

Bucharest, Roumania, May 21 (A.P.).—A multitude estimated at 200,000, brought here in special trains from all parts of Roumania, passed before Premier Vaida-Voevod today in a demonstration of confidence in the government and against revision of the post war treaties.

The event lasted seven hours and was said to be the biggest popular demonstration in the history of Roumania. It closed with an ovation to King Carol.

Hawaii Asks Congress Act to Curb Stowaways

Honolulu, May 21 (A.P.).—The Territorial Senate has adopted a resolution asking congressional action to curb stowaways, who are arriving in Hawaii in increasing numbers from the mainland.

Hardly a boat sails from the Pacific Coast for the islands without at least one aboard. When possible the stowaways are transferred at sea to ships going in the opposite direction and are returned to the point of embarkation.

Gang Raiders Kill Former Convict

Passaic, N. J., May 21 (A.P.).—Angelo Zarella, 39-year-old former convict, was shot to death today in a pool room here, and another patron of the place was badly wounded during a gang raid which was disguised as a holdup.

Police said they were convinced the three gunmen who invaded the pool room went there to kill Zarella, and not for robbery. The authorities said they knew of no motive other than gangster vengeance.

Anthony Ciearella, Clifton, was wounded in both legs and one arm. Police believe the bullets that hit him were stray shots. It was said he probably would recover.

Hail Pact

American Officials Greet European Acceptance of Mussolini's Plan.

(Associated Press.)

Informal European approval of the Mussolini peace plan was hailed by American officials last night as an indication of increasing international harmony, augurring well for the London economic conference and the Geneva arms reduction parley.

With Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy entering into a pact for the preservation of peace through the coming decade, there was a disposition here to believe that it might be easier to meet the demands for security, upon which France predicates any arms reduction.

It was regarded as auspicious, too, that the informal agreement was reached on the eve of an expected statement of the American position on national security.

CAPITAL MAN HELD IN CAR-CRASH DEATH

Marvin Gore Arrested After Police Find Companion Dead in Auto.

One man was killed and another held under bond of $2,000 by Prince Georges County (Md.) police early yesterday, after an automobile careened from the road and crashed into a tree on the Defense highway near Bladensburg, Md.

His skull crushed, Foster A. Anderson, 35, said to have lived at 1108 K street northwest, was found dead in the front seat of the car. Marvin C. Gore, 27, who gave an address in Southeast Washington, told police he was riding with Anderson, but escaped injury when thrown clear of the wreck.

Gore said they were returning from a visit to friends near the Bowie race track. Anderson, he said, went to sleep at the wheel while driving. The former's body, however, was found slumped in the center of the driver's seat.

Indications that perhaps Anderson was not driving led police to arrest Gore. He was later released after posting a bond of $2,000.

Anderson is believed to be from Jacksonville, Fla. An inquest into the death will be held tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the Bladensburg Fire House.

Seattle Ship "Lost" In Alaskan Waters

Seattle, May 21 (A.P.).—A brief message today from Capt. Charles West, of the small Seattle trading vessel Kingston, which was on its first trip to Alaskan water, reported that it was "lost" in Whitestone narrows near Sitka, last night.

Seven seamen were aboard, but no mention was made of tragedy, and William Semar, general manager of the Northland Transportation Co., said he presumed they were all safe. Semar said the narrows were shallow and shore was easily accessible.

The company later notified the Salvage tug Akutan, at Kechikan, to leave for the scene, which is about 200 miles to the northwest.

Girl Branded

Young Wife Says She Was Overpowered in Park; Burned With Acid.

Dallas, Tex., May 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. Lois Anderson, 18, suffering from three burns outlining the characters "M. 3.," told police today she had been overpowered in a park and branded with acid.

Mrs. Anderson said she was walking near the Midway in Fair Park last night when two or more men suddenly seized her from behind and placed a moist cloth over her face, rendering her unconscious.

When she regained consciousness, Mrs. Anderson said, she found herself seated on a park bench, her clothes in disarray and the acid burns on her body, one on each arm and the other on her back.

Britain, France, Italy and Germany for 10-Year Pact.

Draft of Agreement Rushed to Geneva for Initialing.

Rome, May 21 (U.P.).—Acceptance by four major powers of Europe—Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy—of the Mussolini plan for a 10-year accord to keep peace was announced formally here tonight.

Premier Benito Mussolini, author of the pact, reached the agreement during secret week-end negotiations with representatives of the other three powers in Rome. A draft of the four-power pact was dispatched immediately to Geneva, for initialing shortly.

Adhesion of Germany to the Mussolini plan was approved by Wilhelm Hermann Goering, premier of Prussia and chief aid to Chancellor Adolf Hitler, who flew here last week from Berlin purportedly "on civil aviation matters."

Copies Sent to Capitals.

French Ambassador Henri de Jouvenel accepted for France.

Premier Mussolini, announcing agreement had been reached in a conference last night, said that copies had been sent to the other three capitals. The official signing of the treaty is to take place at Rome under present plans following the initialing—a preliminary form—at Geneva.

The conversations among Mussolini, Goering and De Jouvenel were most cordial, the communique said. Mussolini was particularly pleased at the turn which Germany has taken in the last few days regarding the maintenance of the European concord, which was understood to be Hitler's own expression, through Goering.

Mussolini received assurances of Germany's full cooperation.

Mussolini to Explain.

He and the other statesmen affirmed their belief that confirmation of the four-power pact will have an electrifying effect on the world economic conference, convening in London on June 12.

Mussolini is expected to make a formal detailed announcement on the pact tomorrow or Tuesday in the Chamber of Deputies.

Acceptance of the four-power pact came as a surprise here, as well as elsewhere in Europe. Little had been heard of the Mussolini plan since Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's visit here the week-end of March 19 when it was first formally broached.

MacDonald approved it at the time, inasmuch as it followed largely the lines of his arms readjustment plan, but France and Germany had failed

Levees Collapse, Flooding Farms

Memphis, Tenn., May 21 (A.P.).—The soggy, overburdened St. Francis River levee system collapsed near Bertig, Ark., early today, flooding additional thousands of acres and driving hundreds of families from their homes.

A rapid series of breaks, 14 in all, began about 3 a. m. They will affect both the Missouri and Arkansas sides of the river, flooding about 80,000 acres.

When the water at last cut through the dikes, the soggy earth gave away rapidly and by this afternoon some of the breaks were 250 feet wide. Dunklin County, Missouri, and Greene, Craighead and Clay Counties in Arkansas were in the path of most of the water.

JONES SEES CREDIT BECOMING NORMAL

Repayments to R.F.C. Show Increase While Loans Are on Decline.

(Associated Press.)

In the reopening of banks at the rate of 125 weekly, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, yesterday, saw an indication that credit for business is being diverted into more normal channels and the flow increasing.

Pouring of money by the corporation into business has decreased materially, Jones said in a statement. He added that repayments to the corporation are increasing.

Farmers and livestock men, who borrowed through the corporation's regional agricultural credit corporations, were described by Jones as repaying loans at the rate of $100,000 a day. They obtained $130,000,000 in seven months, he said, and have paid back $7,500,000.

Banks and other borrowers, who received more than a billion and a half, have repaid $500,000,000, he added.

"The advance toward national recovery, of which there has been a decided evidence now for a period of two months," Jones said, "is supported by information reaching the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Two essential elements on which this statement is based are the decrease in the number of applications which the corporation is receiving for loans to banks and the rate of liquidation on loans outstanding.

"Reports to Washington from the loan agencies throughout the country substantiate both of these conclusions, a clear indication that the period of extreme gravity is behind us.

"The most important duty of the corporation today is the restoration of sound banking in those communities where such facilities are either lacking or greatly curtailed. Figures now available for the month of April, show that through their own efforts and the assistance of Federal agencies, including the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, banks were being reopened at the rate of more than 125 a week. There has been an improvement in that rate during May."

2 Prominent Residents Report Loss of Dogs

Two dogs belonging to prominent Washingtonians were reported lost or stolen yesterday.

Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, wife of Admiral Grayson, of 3825 Wisconsin avenue northwest, reported to police the loss of a large Belgian sheep dog, gray and white, with no tail, which answers to the name of "Tiny."

Wild Auto Chase Ends on Sidewalk

A zig-zag chase through traffic along upper Sixteenth street northwest, between a police car and a suspected rumrunner, ended last night on the sidewalk at Sixteenth street and Columbia road, when the fleeing machine struck a tree.

Private J. W. Long, of the Tenth Precinct, sighted the machine traveling at a high rate of speed and gave chase. After the crash, he confiscated ten cases of alleged assorted liquors and an alleged smoke screen attachment.

The driver, who said he is Curtis Taylor, 18, colored, of 520 R street northwest, was held for investigation.

BONUS ARMY'S CAMP TO BE STRUCK TODAY

who are not will, under tentative plans, be separated.

During the forenoon, all equipment is to be turned in by men not staying, they to be "given the gate." The majority remaining will be switched to a tent sector not yet utilized and the forest army of veterans will be an actuality.

Emanuel Levin and Harold Hickerson, ousted Communist members of the veterans' "left wing" steering committee, were in camp yesterday, as was John T. Pace, of the unruly 1932 left wing in last year's bonus riots when two were slain and several were hurt, including two Washington policemen.

Arlington Pilgrimage.

Veterans Administration officials yesterday said the veterans' camp would start off with organization work, with the view of putting the camp on a thorough disciplinary basis, particularly regarding personal conduct of the men and along hygienic lines.

The faction-torn bonus army yesterday united in a journey to Arlington National Cemetery, where with bared heads they paid homage at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and at the simple graves of Eric Carlson and William Hushka, the two members of the 1932 bonus army who died in the riots here last July.

The bonus marchers hiked in commendable military order yesterday to the Unknown Soldier sepulcher after being deposited at the National Cemetery gates by the Veterans Bureau vehicles. They arrived by coincidence as a large group of New Jersey and New York Veterans of Foreign Wars men and a group of American War Mothers and V. F. W. auxiliaries appeared for their second annual pilgrimage to the patriotic shrine.

Veteran's Oration at Tomb.

After a short parley between leaders of the two groups, the bright, well-kept banners of the New York-New Jersey pilgrims were massed before the Unknown Soldier's resting place along with the weather-stained colors of the bonus army as both organizations paid silent tribute.

Skipwith Cannell, bespectacled and cultured Philadelphia veteran, then uttered the praise of the bonus army before the tomb of their World War comrade.

Mike Thomas, grim right wing leader, delivered a short address, and the bonus legions marched silently to the far corner of the soldier burial ground, where Hushka and Carlson rest. Speakers at the latter's grave were John T. Dear and Ben Adams and at the former's F. A. Blanchard.

Approximately 1,000 Washington and nearby Virginia motorists again passed through the Fort Hunt camp grounds yesterday, curiously eyeing the bonus marchers. The number of cars was somewhat lower than that visiting the encampment last Sunday.

Will Rogers' Capital Jokes Amuse Crowd of Notables

"Now, Mr. John Nance Garner, I don't want you to go to sleep this time. This is one speech you haven't heard before," declared Will Rogers, beginning his Washington radio broadcast in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel last night.

In the amused audience were many local and national notables. Among these were Vice President Garner, Senators McAdoo, Capper, LaFollette and Dill; Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Representative Virginia Jenckes and other members of the Senate and House.

As he came on the stage, Rogers carried a gavel. Using this as his authority, he "convoked" the Senate with admonitions to various members. He addressed Huey Long—"Huey Long, quit prowlin' around an' find a place to sit down. I'm shore there's people in Louisiana will be glad to dig you a place to rest." At this point, he annouficed that a White House bill had been received, not read, only the ayes counted, and passed. Senators Hiram Johnson and LaFollette were told to "make up your minds which side of the hall you're goin' to sit on, Democrat or Republican." The floor was denied Senator Borah on Russian recognition because Russia took five years to do what has taken President Roosevelt eight weeks.

Another "bill" was received and passed, sight unseen, which provided for complete cancellation of war debts, heavy loans to Europe, the gift of the Philippines to Japan, widening of the Mississippi, and deepening of the Grand Canyon. A rider dissolving the Senate was attached: "You can go home now—if you've got the nerve . . ."

Explaining his humor, Rogers declared, "I just watch the Government and report the facts." However, he asserted that in this session, the Senate had "acted so decent" that it could go home and be proud.

"President Roosevelt said, 'Let there be action,' and brother, I'm telling you, there's been action!" Turning parson, he took biblical parallels for recent political events: "Roosevelt led the Democrats out of Republican bondage, an' not only gave them milk an' honey, but a postoffice an' some beer. . . . The Republicans said, 'Come unto us all ye that are heavy-laden, an' the R. F. C. will succor thee, and oh what a sucker it's been. . . . It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to appear in public without a subpena." In the middle of these preachments, an alarm clock rang, terminating the boradcast.

After going off the air, Rogers wandered in his discourse from the Long Beach earthquake—"It was worse if it happened to you and not so bad if it happened to somebody else." Regarding the economic conference and the armament situation, he said: "If I didn't have any more friends than some of those European nations have got, I'd get another gun."

ROOSEVELT PICKING LONDON DELEGATES

Plans to Complete Party in Short Time; Confers With Senator Johnson.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt devoted himself last night upon his return from a cruise down the Potomac River to the completion of his delegation to the World Economic Conference. He conferred at length with Senator Johnson (Republican), California.

Johnson, a ranking member of the Foreign Relations Committee, is regarded as a choice by the President for participation in the all-important parley.

There was no certainty, however, after the White House conference whether the Californian was going to London. He declined to discuss the possibility in any way.

With the delegation leaving in another fortnight, Mr. Roosevelt plans to have it rounded out almost immediately and assembled for a series of conferences. Secretary Hull will head the group. James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio, and Chairman Pittman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are the other announced delegates.

It is known that President Roosevelt desires a Republican on the delegation and also a member of the House. Chairman McReynolds of the House Foreign Affairs committee is regarded as a logical choice.

With the war debts issue developing acutely just now in view of the fast approaching June 15 payment day, it appears certain Assistant Secretary Moley of the State Department will be kept here.

Moley, another White House caller last night, is the only man who has been with Roosevelt during discussion of war debts. He was with the President during the talks with President Hoover and Secretary Mills last winter upon this subject.

Owen D. Young, of New York, who was on two reparations commissions and the head of one, is on the tentative list of Mr. Roosevelt for the economic delegation.

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, also continues in the speculation over the delegation makeup. He is a Republican-Independent.

This week will also see a final decision by the President on the form, if any, of a tariff resolution to give him power to negotiate reciprocal agreements with other nations and lower the American tariff wall.

2 American Fliers Arrested in Mexico

Laredo, Tex., May 21 (A.P.).—Gen. Luis Horcasitas, collector of customs in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, said tonight John Puryea and Harold McCleod, American aviators, were being held there on charges of illegally entering Mexico with an airplane. He said the two Americans crossed the border in their plane last April, landing at Don Martin Dam with parts for a damaged airplane there.

The Mexican official said he had received reports that the damaged ship they were aiding was transporting alcohol, presumably to the United States, when it made a forced landing.

The plane of Puryea and McLeod was seized and is being held by Mexican authorities. Both men were brought to Nuevo Laredo for a preliminary hearing yesterday. Another hearing will be held tomorrow or Tuesday.

Miss Finch Dead; Ward of Dr. Abbot

Miss Frances Elizabeth Finch, 28, ward of Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, died yesterday at Providence Hospital following a long illness.

Miss Finch was graduated last June from George Washington University and later from a business college here. Before coming to Washington, two and a half years ago, she was a student at the University of Colorado.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Finch, of Boulder, Colo. Following graduation from the university and business college, Miss Finch became a member of the library staff of Smithsonian and later became active in the District Library.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. at Nysong's funeral parlors, 1300 N street northwest. The body will be sent to Boulder for interment, accompanied by Dr. Abbot.

MORGAN BANK PROBE TO OPEN TOMORROW

(Associated Press.)

The National Capital began to show signs of excitement yesterday over the approaching Senate inquiry into the great banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., as those in charge announced everything was set for the opening of questioning tomorrow.

The Capital has had many sensational Senate investigations, but this one, involving the Nation's most famous banking house, headed by a man who has been seen but little by the general public is expected generally to be a little different.

Word has come out of senatorial quarters that more elaborate preparations have been made for this inquiry than for any since the historic Teapot Dome investigation almost a decade ago.

Chairman Fletcher, of the Senate Banking Committee, and Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, announced yesterday they were ready, and that the hearings would open tomorrow as scheduled.

Morgan First Witness.

Pecora, who gained national fame for his conduct of the National City Bank investigation last session, said the first witness would be J. P. Morgan, jr., head of the banking house, and almost a legendary figure to the average American.

Back of Morgan, a dozen of the most active and best known members of the firm will be waiting under subpena to testify.

The Capital's interest in the investigation was whetted by the fact that this will be the first time the head of the House of Morgan has been called in a Senate investigation since the elder Morgan testified in the Pujo "money trust" inquiry a generation ago.

Pecora arrived in Washington Saturday to make final arrangements for the investigation and will confer today with Fletcher.

First Democratic Probe.

The Morgan inquiry will be the first investigation involving the operations of Wall street conducted under Democratic management as the Republicans were in power throughout the previous investigations.

While the Morgan hearings are in progress, Pecora's staff will stay in New York preparing for the next two inquiries, into Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co., both big private banking houses.

They are scheduled to come before the committee early in June, with two weeks allowed for completion of the Morgan case.

Huntington Rites To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Zachariah R. Huntington, 51, of Rockville, Md., who was fatally injured Friday in an automobile accident on Death Curve near Boonsboro, Md., will be held today at 11 a. m., at Christ Episcopal Church, Rockville. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Huntington was district manager in Maryland for the Peoples' Life Insurance Company of Washington. He was on his way home from Hagerstown when his car collided with a truck driven by Charles R. Snowden, of Cumberland. He died en route to the hospital.

He was a member of the Episcopal Church and the Kensington Lodge of Masons. A native of St. Marys County, Md., he moved to Rockville ten years ago.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Grace Huntington; three daughters, Mrs. Max Harrison, of Washington; Miss Audrey Huntington and Miss Margaret Huntington, both of Rockville; his father, Benedict Huntington, and six brothers, of St. Marys County.

Support of President Is Lauded by Mrs. Ross

(Associated Press.)

A tribute to "the intelligent, loyal support of the people" in helping to make possible the Roosevelt record was voiced yesterday by Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee and director of the United States Mint.

Mrs. Ross, in an address, declared "there is now deep satisfaction in the courage, resourcefulness and earnestness of purpose with which the administration is rising to its responsibility."

ENGINEERING SCHOOL TO BE CLOSED TODAY

Fort Humphreys Classes End Early to Provide Officers for Forest Camps.

Complying with War Department orders the Engineer School at Fort Humphreys, Va., will close today instead of June 2. The purpose of closing early is to furnish additional officers for the Civilian Conservation Corps camps. The company officers class consists of 20 officers of the Corps of Engineers, Regular Army, and two officers of the Royal Siamese Engineers. The class is completing a nine months course, while the National Guard and the reserve officers class are completing a three months course.

Two companies of the Civilian Conservation Corps left Fort Humphreys yesterday. The 304th Company, of 195 Maryland, men will go into a forest camp at Potomac Falls, 11 miles southeast of Oakland, Md. The company will be commanded by First Lieut. Donald W. Sawtelle, of the Third Cavalry, Fort Myer, Va., assisted by Second Lieut. Alexander G. Stone, Sixteenth Field Artillery, Fort Myer. Second Lieut. Pendall P. Williams, Field Artillery Reserve and four enlisted men.

The 377th Company, with personnel from Baltimore, will move to a forest camp at Richey, Md. This company will be commanded by First Lieut. Herbert B. Loper, from Fort Humphreys. He will be assisted by Second Lieut. Frederick J. Dau and Second Lieut. Lorne R. Guild and four enlisted men. At present this company consists of 30 members of the C. C. C. at Fort Humphreys. They will be joined by 25 more at Baltimore, and the remainder will be recruited later. Both movements will be made by rail.

A number of Army and Navy Medical officers have been detailed to Fort Humphreys for duty with the C. C. C. Among this group are Capt. Donald S. Snyder, of Fort Washington; Lieut. Thomas M. Arnett, U. S. N., and Lieut. Clarence P. Morrison, U. S. N., of Quantico, Va.

Utah Democrats Move For Vote Upon Repeal

Salt Lake City, May 21 (A.P.).—The Democratic State committee last night went on record as favoring submitting the State prohibition law to a vote of the people and calling upon Gov. Henry H. Blood to summon a special session of the State Legislature to make this possible.

U. S. REORGANIZING PLAN IS COMPLETED

result of governmental salary cuts, making close to $600,000,000 in budget reductions. The billion dollar mark is expected by the President to be approached as a result of the reorganization program including consolidation, curtailment and complete abolition of functions.

With these savings Douglas is counting upon the estimated $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 from beer revenue to produce a balanced budget.

Involving the laying off of thousands of Government workers throughout the country, the curtailment program is to reach its hand into every governmental department.

The Postoffice Department alone was slated for a curtailment approximating $150,000,000. Secretary Roper, of the Commerce Department, has announced that he expected to spend $26,000,000 next year as compared with $43,000,000 this year and appropriations for 1934 of $36,000,000. Secretary Perkins has been asked to cut $3,000,000 from the Labor Department's $13,000,000 fund.

"Luxuries" Curtailed.

While these general curtailments of what Roper has described as "luxuries" in Government are going forward, including a transfer of the Bureau of Mines to the Interior Department, a broad reduction in scientific research work, and an attempt to absorb independent agencies in centralized departments, a far-flung new Bureau of Transportation has been outlined for the Commerce Department.

Under the guidance of an assistant secretary for transportation, a four-section bureau was recommended by Roper, to include some of the administrative functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission and coordinated regulation of interstate carriers on land, sea and in the air.

Into this important bureau would be brought scrutiny of railroads, bus lines and trucks, pipe lines, commercial airplanes, the Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection, Bureau of Lighthouses, and control of interstate communications.

Outlined at the suggestion of President Roosevelt, there has been no indication from the White House recently, however, as to whether he will approve these broad shifts at this time or let some of the reorganization go over until the next session of Congress.

Reorganization History.

Reorganization of the steadily growing government has been a bone of contention in politics for years, particularly since its mushroom-like spread after the World War.

President Harding called in Walter F. Brown, of Ohio, later Postmaster General for Herbert Hoover. He made a study of the set-up, but no concrete steps of a general nature were taken. Later, Calvin Coolidge also dug into the question.

Last year Mr. Hoover issued executive orders providing for the realignment of 58 agencies, but these were the proposals overridden by the Democratic House.

Even before his inauguration Mr. Roosevelt sat down at Warm Springs, Ga., with his chosen director of the budget and went through the huge Federal budget item by item with the idea of finding functions that could be curtailed.

At that time it was not intended that Congress should convene until the middle of April, and the President intended to have his reorganization ready as one of his first major steps.

Secretary Roper, Swager Sherley, former member of Congress from Kentuck, Senator Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, and Walker D. Hines, former director general of railroads, were named to work out the scheme with Douglas.

However, the necessity of calling Congress in session immediately after the inauguration and the pressure of emergency measures has delayed the reorganization to the latter days of the session.

DETECTIVE TO OFFER MOONEY CASE CLEW

San Francisco, May 21 (A.P.).—From the shadowy background of the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing 17 years ago, a figure emerged here today with an assertion he holds a clew to the "real" solution of the crime.

Thomas J. Mooney himself, however, waiting the outcome of a California Supreme Court petition opposing his second trial for the murder of a bomb victim, admitted he was skeptical.

John P. Emerson, a former private detective, declared he was ready to present witnesses at the trial, now set for Tuesday, to back his story.

Emerson, records revealed, was mentioned in the trial of Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of Mooney, who was one of the original defendants in the bombing case. She was acquitted. The former detective is also mentioned in the Wickersham Commission report on the case.

His claim in brief, as presented through friends of Mooney, is that Mooney and Warren K. Billings, both serving life prison terms for the bombing, were victims of a "plot" which took an unexpected turn.

The bomb, he declared, was abandoned at Steuart and Market streets where it exploded, killing ten persons and injuring 40 others, by two men who had been employed to "plant" it in Mooney's home.

Despite his expressed scepticism, Mooney, at his cell in the San Francisco County jail, said "I have asked my representatives to give Emerson every aid."

Whether Mooney will have a second trial may be decided by the Supreme Court tomorrow, or the decision may be postponed indefinitely. In the latter event, Superior Judge Louis H. Ward, who granted the trial on an outstanding indictment, has announced Mooney must return to San Quentin pending disposition by the Supreme Court of the petition before it.

Camp Proprietor Held for Slaying

Anacortes, Wash., May 21 (A.P.).—Henry L. Cassidy, 49, motor car camp proprietor, was arrested today on a charge of slaying Mike Cassidy, his brother, and Edward Bennett, a friend, shot to death in a camp cabin. Mrs. Henry Cassidy was wounded.

Police declared Cassidy said he had heard the two men and his wife "plotting" to get control of his property. Angered, they said, he seized a pistol and fired seven or eight times through the cabin walls.

Friends of the family revealed Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy had been unable to agreed on a property settlement preparatory to a divorce.

Arrest Fails to Solve Mutton-Chop Mystery

San Francisco, May 21 (A.P.).—San Francisco's "mutton chop mystery" resulting from theft of four sheep from Golden Gate Park, led to an arrest, but no trace of the missing animals. Consequently, Municipal Judge Alfred Frits held that, in the absence of even one mutton chop, no corpus delicti had been proven.

He forthwith dismissed the suspect, James Sullivan, and the mystery remained unsolved.

Bomb Explosions Shake Four Havana Sections

Havana, May 21 (A.P.).—Five bombs exploded tonight in the Havana area.

One explosion occurred at 9:40 p. m. at Santa Catalina and Felipe Poey streets. Two other bombs went off about the same time near the Loma Del Mazo, residential section of the Vitoba suburb. Another bomb exploded in the Vedado, and a fifth in the Cerro section.

SCRATCH MAY COST LIFE OF PET'S VICTIM

young kitten which inflicted the wound had been at the house only a few days. Miss Baily carried the kitten with her about the house, a member of the family said, and it was while attempting to put it to the floor last Sunday afternoon that it dug its claws into her chest.

The scratch was treated with an antiseptic at the time and not thought serious, but by the next day it had become inflamed and the girl's father, Louis J. Bailey, engineer at the Walker Hill Dairy, called the family physician, who had the girl removed at once to Garfield Hospital. It was said there last night that she has an even chance for recovery.

It will be recalled that in 1929, Alvin W. Miller, principal of Central High School, died of erysipelas which developed from a cat bite, a case very much similar to Miss Bailey's.

Mr. Miller was bitten by the family pet one afternoon and infection set in almost immediately. His death came after a six weeks' battle against the disease by the best physicians in the East.

STIMSON DOCTRINE ON JAPAN ASSAILED

Col. House Asserts League Membership Would Have Halted Depression.

Boston, May 21 (A.P.).—The Boston Herald in a copyrighted story says Col. Edward M. House expressed his belief the Stimson doctrine concerning Japan is "needlessly dangerous and capable of unnecessary and perhaps harmful complications."

The newspaper says the 75-year-old expert on international affairs, who was President Wilson's most intimate adviser and was head of the American mission to the Paris war conference in 1917, expressed his personal views on the international situation at his summer home in Beverly Farms. It was on this estate that President Roosevelt, then Democratic nominee, called on Col. House last summer, and near where President Wilson and the colonel wrote the covenant of the League of Nations.

The paper says Col. House expressed himself in favor of abandoning the Stimson doctrine which, he said, almost resulted in "deplorable consequinces," for one which would be more conducive to enduring friendly relations between Japan and the United States.

The newspaper quotes Col. House as saying that the earliest active advocates of the League of Nations or a similar agency were Republicans such as former President Taft, Elihu Root and President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard.

Col. House expressed belief now more than ever in the league, the Herald says, and said that if the United States had joined the league there never would have been a world-wide depression. With the United States as a member, House was quoted as saying, the league would have been a powerful piece of international machinery which perhaps could have solved the problems of currency depreciation and tariffs, armaments and war debts.

Leake, Main Witness In Impeachment, Here

(Associated Press.)

W. S. Leake of San Francisco, self-described as a metaphysical student, and a central figure in the impeachment trial of Federal Judge Harold Louderback, today is expected to tell the Senate of his relations with the California jurist, long an intimate friend.

Answering a Senate warrant that he appear in person to testify in the proceedings, Leake arrived in the Capital yesterday accompanied by Federal agents.

His testimony, with which the House prosecution plans to deal at length in cross-examination, has been pointed to in some quarters as likely to be one of the high spots of the trial.

Farm Realty Values Show Widespread Fall

(Associated Press.)

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics yesterday reported farm real estate values on March 1 were 27 per cent below the average values for the prewar period, 1912 to 1914.

It reported, also, a sharp drop within the last year. On March, 1932, it listed values as 11 per cent below the prewar period and on the same date in 1931 as 6 per cent over the 1912-14 period.

The bureau said that declines during the last year have "been widespread" and generally uniform over the country. From 1929 to 1932, gross farm income decreased about one-half while real estate values during the same time shrank about one-third, it added.

Prisoner to Spend $20 On Interior Decorating

St. Joseph, Mo., May 21 (A.P.).—Gus Pusateri has five months in which to complete his interior decorating job. The field is his cell in the county jail. Pusateri, sentenced for selling liquor, didn't like its drab appearance.

Sheriff Otto Theisen agreed he might "do over" the cell at his own expense. Pusateri decided upon aluminum-colored bars, red lacquered floor and white walls. The job will cost him $20.

Husband, 80, Wants Wife to Attend College

Stanford, Ky., May 21 (A.P.).—Married when she was only 13 years old, Mrs. Margaret Carpenter Russell, 18, was one of six girls graduated recently from the Kings Mountain High School.

Her husband, Arthur Frank Russell, nearly 80 years old, said he wants his young wife to attend college next fall.

(United Press.)

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment in the hope that liquor revenue would reduce taxation would be the "most colossal loan shark transaction in American history," F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, said last night. He accused the liquor traffic of taking advantage of the Nation's economic distress to exploit the drink traffic.

It was the reply of prohibitionists to statements made by Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas and others before the House Ways and Means Committee that new taxes to be imposed to finance the cost of the projected $3,300,000,000 public works program could be removed after repeal of the dry act.

President Roosevelt, in a message to Congress on his public works-industrial control bill, also recommended that these taxes be lifted when the national income is increased by repeal and business recovery.

'Village' Pegasus Gallops For Coins of Bourgeoisie

Bards of New York's Bohemia Stage Exhibit in Washington Square; "Poems Exchanged for a Hamburger," One Girl Versifier's Sign.

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—The poets of Greenwich Village came down from their garrets into the bright May sunshine of Washington Square today, tacked their work along a green board fence and garnered from a horde of Sunday sightseers a flock of plaudits and one or two coins.

The exposition was patterned along the lines of the outdoor art exhibition of two weeks ago. It drew a large crowd, but not a poet could be found who had spotted a publisher in the throng.

Some 30 poets participated in the show, including Maxwell Bodenheim, resplendent in a flaming red necktie and a shirt of equally flamboyant blue. He sat on the sidewalk with his back against the fence, smoked his pipe and sold for 25 or 30 cents such titles as "Poet to His Love," "Advice to a Bluebird," "Death," and "Electric Song," which went:

Suicide in wires,
That's my weakness now,
Suicide in wires,
She's my baby now,
Snivel, drivel—
Father's dead
Electrocuted,
So loud, so dead.

And so on for two closely typewritten pages.

But even in that untrammeled atmosphere censorship reared what has been technically designated as its ugly head. H. T. Tsiang, youthful Chinese radical, who wrote "Chine Red," attempted to exhibit his "Poems of the Chinese Revolution," with foreword by Upton Sinclair.

Francis Lambert McCrudden, founder of the Raven Poetry Circle of the village, in charge of the show, unceremoniously removed them. He said propaganda was banned.

The poems brought from 10 to 50 cents, Margaret George Carvell selling one at the latter figure. Anca Vrbouska sold "Don Quixote" and "To the Sixteenth Century" for a quarter each to a benign old man, who said:

"Now tell me how you pronounce your name."

"Vrbouska," said the poetess.

"What?" said her customer.

"Vrbouska," she replied.

"Oh," said the old man, and walked away.

The poets did not learn the names of their patrons.

"It's enough that they have taste," Miss Carvell remarked.

"Yes, and money," added Miss Vrbouska.

Her poem about the sixteenth century started:

"Warmly you pour your songs into my veins,
"You sprawling, drinking, ecstasy-hunting poets."

Joe Vallon, secretary of the Vagabonds Club, had the optimism to mark "$100" and "$50" on some of his poems, but he sold them readily enough for 30 cents. Another exhibitor squatted beneath a sign which read:

"Ruth Rappaport—Poems exchanged for a Hamburger."

CHILDREN FIND BODY IN HOSPITAL CELLAR

Institution, Closed 13 Years, Yields Dissected Woman Packed in Trunk.

Ontonagon, Mich., May 21 (A.P.).—An embalmed body of a woman, cut into some 80 pieces and stuffed into a trunk found in the basement of an abandoned hospital in Mass City, presented county officials with a bizarre mystery today, but they said they believed the corpse was discarded by an interne who had used it for experimental purposes.

The hospital closed 13 years ago, but Sheriff J. J. Schon said he was told the condition of the well preserved body was not inconsistent with the theory it had lain in the basement that long.

A paper bearing the name of the Hannemann Hospital, Chicago, and that of "Mrs. A. Tong, 29," supplied the most tangible clew.

No Death Marks.

There were no marks to indicate the woman met a violent death. The investigation was complicated by the fact that the head of the hospital during its years of operation, Dr. W. B. Hanna, died two years ago. A former associate of Dr. Hanna in Mass City, said he knew of no corpse being brought there for experimentation and added that the manner in which the body was dissected did not indicate it had been done for scientific purposes.

The woman, whose features had a marked Oriental cast, was about 30 or 35 years old, officials said. No one who has viewed the body recognized her.

Children playing in the basement of the small frame building, which once was the hospital, made the gruesome find last night. The building recently was sold by the Mohauk Mining Co. to the Finnish Lutheran Congregation, of Mass City, and is to be converted into a church.

Tag Only Record.

Chicago, May 21 (A.P.).—A study of the records of the old Hahnemann Hospital, here, today failed to shed any light on the dismembered body found at Mass City, Mich.

The body was found in a trunk to which was attached a tag bearing the notation: "Mrs. A. Tong, 29 years old, March 9, 1889. Laceration of cervix terineum. Dr. Linlaw, Hahnemann Hospital."

Police, who received a communication from officials of Ontonagon County, Mich., asking aid in the investigation, went to the address of the old Hahnemann Hospital and found it to be now the Michael Reese Hospital Nurses' Home.

They later determined that the Hahnemann Hospital had become the Chicago Memorial Hospital in 1922. Investigation showed charts of the Hahnemann Hospital go back only as far as 1916 and old-fashioned ledger records as far back as 1891.

Authorities communicated with several physicians but could find none who remembered a Dr. Lindlaw. The Hahnemann institution was founded in 1853.

RED PRESS ADOPTS BELLIGERENT TONE

Japanese Militarists Are Warned Against Far East Encroachment.

Moscow, May 21 (U.P.)—A warning to Japanese militarists to abandon anti-Soviet schemes was sounded in the Soviet press today.

The warning cautions that "Japanese provocateurs are badly miscalculating if they suppose that the Soviet Far East or Transbaikal region is Manchuria or Jehol."

Tokyo reports of uprisings in the Soviet territories in the Far East, near Manchuria, are deliberate provocations, the press charged. The Izvestia regrets that Japanese "mischief-makers are walking about freely when they deserve to be in straight-jackets."

The Pravda in angry tone comments: "The Soviet Far East and Transbaikal are well protected—better protected than the inspirers of new anti-Soviet provocations suspect.

"Adventurist elements in Japanese imperialism are excited at their easy victories over the servile Chinese. The militarists in Japan apparently overestimate their capacities. We never doubted their real intentions, hence they'll never catch us unawares."

Peiping, May 21 (A.P.).—Sino-Japanese hostilities in north China have subsided, but the Japanese both north of Peiping and on the Lwan River front are slowly advancing toward Peiping and Tientsin, according to Chinese foreign office advices.

SOVIET ORGAN BIDS FOR U. S. RELATIONS

Holds This Country Must Recognize Communism to Obtain Trade.

Moscow, May 21 (A.P.).—A definite bid for the establishment of normal relations between Soviet Russia and the United States was sounded editorially today in the publication For Industrialization, organ of the commissariat of heavy industry.

The editorial at the same time laid down the principle that formal diplomatic recognition is the price the United States must pay before it can hope for any improvement in economic intercourse between the two countries.

Deliberately holding out bait for such a catch by hinting broadly of profitable business to be enjoyed by America once a normal relationship is established, the article declares that "the time has come when the question of the relations toward the Soviet Union has become the acid test of the wisdom of American political and business circles."

Referring to speculations abroad as to whether President Roosevelt's direct message to President Kalinin constituted recognition, the article says:

"We are not interested in such casuistry. We are for normal diplomatic relations with the United States as well as with other countries, but such relations do not belong to the category of philanthropic or abstract humanitarian ideas. They are based fundamentally on economy.

"Losses must occur when there is an absence of a firm legal base for mutual trade.

"President Hoover's policy was trade without recognition, the results of which are obvious. In 1932 the American exports to Russia were only $15,000,000, or $100,000,000 less than in 1930.

"Did the trade and industry of the United States win, after all? Did this policy of dealing without recognition prevent the general recognition of the Soviet Union as a world power?"

Police Push Hunt For Kidnap Author

Bronxville, N. Y., May 21 (A.P.).—Henry M. Lyons, New York insurance executive, and his family remained away from home all day today while police pushed their search for the author of letters demanding money from Lyons under threat of kidnaping his 5-year-old son, James.

Police Chief Elmer Van Buren said the amount of money sought was "considerably more" than $100,000, but declined to give the exact amount.

He also withheld details of the identities of three persons, a man and two women, who he said were sought for questioning.

Greatly Increased Use Of Cotton Is Predicted

New Orleans, La., May 21 (U.P.).—A "greatly increased" consumption of cotton if the business upturn continues, was predicted tonight by U. B. Blalock, Raleigh, N. C., president of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, who is here for a directors' meeting.

DEMOCRATS SEE BIG NEW YORK WET VOTE

Party Plans Overwhelming Majority in Tuesday Special Election.

Albany, N. Y., May 21 (A.P.).—Democratic leaders were planning tonight to roll up a huge wet vote in President Roosevelt's home State of New York at Tuesday's special election of delegates to a State convention, June 27, for approval or rejection of the congressional resolution for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Mr. Roosevelt's running mate in two gubernatorial campaigns, sent word to the capitol from Boca Grande, Fla., where he has been vacationing, that he will return in time to vote for the wet slate of 150 delegates. The drys also have a slate of 150 in the field. All delegates will be voted for on an at-large basis.

In announcing that he will be back in New York State in time to vote, Gov. Lehman urged the voters of the State to go to the polls Tuesday, calling the special election "one of the most important in the history of the State."

Postmaster General James A. Farley, national and State chairman of the Democratic party, will deliver an address tomorrow night to urge sympathizers of the wet cause to vote for the bipartisan wet slate.

Republican leaders appear somewhat less active than the Democrats in working to get out the wet vote for the bipartisan slate. There is considerable dry sentiment in the Republican ranks up-State. Six counties failed to provide any signatures for the wet delegates' nominating petition—Allegany, Orleans, St. Lawrence, Schoharie, Schuyler and Wayne.

First Lady Begins Drive From Groton

Groton, Mass., May 21 (A.P.).—After a pleasant week-end with her sons, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, left here this afternoon to drive to New York. Under a cloudy sky and with a cold wind blowing, she headed her automobile out of this hill town and started on her return trip to Washington.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here yesterday to visit her sons, Franklin D., jr., and John, students at Groton School, and was joined by her son, James, who came here from Boston. She watched Franklin row in a crew victory over Belmont Hill School, and today she attended chapel with the boys. She took them for a short drive around the countryside and after lunch bade them good-by.

Diplomas for 268 At Fort Benning

Two hundred and fifty-one officers of the Infantry and seventeen officers from other arms and foreign armies will receive diplomas today at the graduation exercises of the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

The class includes all officers who are completing both the company officers' course and the advanced course in the Infantry School and thirty-six who are completing the Tank Course. The Tank school was moved to Fort Benning from Fort George G. Meade, Md., last June.

Washington officers completing the courses are: Capt. Harrison B. Beavers, Capt. Joseph H. Hinwood, First Lieut. Brookner Brady, First Lieut. Robert N. Young, and Second Lieut. C. B. Herndon.

Pennsylvania Shows Marked Job Increase

Philadelphia, May 21 (A.P.).—The Pennsylvania Employment Commission reported today "the most definite upswing in jobs that has occurred over a period of two years was recorded in placements made last week."

"The week showed a marked upward trend in employment in the Philadelphia district," the commission stated. "Although the total of jobs was still trifling compared with the need for them, the turn seemed sharp enough to warrant renewed confidence." Many types of jobs offered were of a permanent nature, the report said.

Old 'Dance of Lion' Seen by Chinatown

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—New York's Chinatown witnessed the ancient and symbolic dance of the lion today, a dance that is unique in the East and is given only two or three times a century in China.

The Lion, composed of multicolored cloth and two perspiring performers, emerged from his den in Pell street at noon and danced until 4 o'clock while the sacred tympanum and three cymbals kept time. Now and then the dancers, who study for six years to master the intricate steps and gyrations, were relieved by substitutes.

The dance was followed by a parade opening the grand charity bazaar for China's war refugees.

Best Dollar Division For Food Suggested

(Associated Press.)

Heavy purchasing of milk, vegetables and fruit "if you have very little money for food" was recommended yesterday by the Labor Department in a leaflet, "How to Spend Your Food Money."

The pamphlet proposed the following as the best division of every food dollar available:

Milk or its equivalent, 25 to 30 cents.

Vegetables and fruits, 25 to 30 cents.

Eggs, lean meat and fish, 10 cents.

Bread, flour and cereals, 20 cents.

PERU TAKES LEAGUE TERMS ON LETICIA

Secret Session of Congress Ratifies Geneva Plan in Confidence Vote.

Lima, Peru, May 21 (U.P.).—Settlement of the Leticia dispute with Colombia on the basis of the League of Nations May 10 recommendations was approved by Congress, 64 to 23, in secret session today. The approval was in the form of a vote of confidence in the international policies of Foreign Minister Jose Manzanillo.

The league's recommendations, which have already been accepted by Colombia, provide for immediate evacuation of the Amazon River port of Leticia by Peru; an international league commission empowered to take over the Leticia corridor and administer it "in the name of Colombia," maintaining order by international forces to be selected by the commission; direct negotiations between Peru and Colombia aimed at final settlement of the dispute; payment by Colombia of the cost of the commission's occupation of the corridor.

Peru attached two conditions, asking that Colombia guarantee the lives of Peruvians in the Leticia area and that "serene, humane discussions of the September 1, 1932 incident (occupation of Leticia by Peruvians) be undertaken to settle the problem in a definite, honorable way."

Alfonso Lopez, Colombian political leader, whose conferences here last week with President Oscar R. Benavides resulted in the settlement, will leave Tuesday for Colombia. Lopez and his party had a narrow escape from drowning this morning when the amphibian plane in which they were departing lost a propeller and made a forced landing in Callao Harbor.

Columbia Offers Coed Agricultural Courses

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Columbia University, the largest institution of its kind in the world, now is going to offer coeducational courses in "milking the cows and looking after the poultry."

Prof. Thomas Alexander, head of the "new college," said today a 1,900-acre farm had been leased near Waynesville, N. C., and courses would begin there on June 1, when 60 young men and women take up residence.

Democrats Pick First Harlan County Slate

Harlan, Ky., May 21 (A.P.).—Encouraged by the Democratic landslide last November, Harlan County Democrats have named a ticket of candidates for county offices in an effort to break the hold of Republicans in this normally strong Republican district.

This is the first time in the history of Harlan County politics that Democrats have named a slate to oppose Republican candidates.

4 POWERS ACCEPT DUCE'S PEACE PACT

previously to fall into line. It is to be a "reinforced Kellogg pact for Europe," he commented then, to be known formally as the "four power pact for the maintenance of European peace."

Pact to Last 10 Years.

The chief idea back of it is to line up these four powers in enforcing peace on the continent for the next ten years. After that, the treaty may be renewed.

It was opposed by the smaller nations in Europe as a move by the big powers to take things into their own hands, and dictate what should be done not only on armaments in Europe, but possibly political affairs, tariffs and allied questions. France sided with these nations, which included Poland, Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Jugoslavia, but apparently was persuaded to change her stand.

The first sections of the Mussolini four-power pact outline the principle of the Kellogg pact outlawing war, but offer also additional sanctions, or penalties, to be taken in case disagreement is likely to lead to armed conflict.

MacDonald Favors Plan.

Mussolini and MacDonald, in broaching the plan, stressed that the MacDonald arms plan broadly corresponded to Mussolini's and that therefore the right-of-way would be given the Mussolini plan, and allow it to become the basis of necessary steps for a new European Locarno, or peace gesture.

In Rome, it also was felt that the present state of Europe made the leadership assumed by Premier Mussolini opportune, and MacDonald has let it be known he is prepared to use the pact as a move toward his own goal of peace.

MacDonald's willingness to accept the plan, he explained, was his desire to save the disarmament conference at Geneva by bringing all Europe into one general agreement against war.

Gulf Streak

Skipper Declares Famous Stream Has Moved and Increased Speed.

Boston, May 21 (A.P.).—Capt. George H. Grant, skipper of the steamship San Blas, came to port today with the assertion that the gulf stream, the river that flows through the ocean, had changed its course and increased its speed.

Grant said the stream, which affects climate, had abandoned its seaward trend north of Cape Hatteras and was running closer inland. He found it was running about 80 miles off Nantucket Lightship, whereas its normal course took it out to sea nearly 200 miles from the lightship.

The skipper said the stream had increased its speed from 3 to 5 knots with the result that the San Blas, on the way from Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, with a cargo of bananas, was able to reach port many hours before schedule.

The stream's temperature off Hatteras now is 72 degrees as compared with 60 degrees from normal sea water, Grant said.

He will report his findings to the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

HARRIMAN GUARDED TO PREVENT SUICIDE

Indicted Banker's Condition "Not Serious" Following Stabbing of Self.

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Nurses and guards watched at the bedside of Joseph W. Harriman in a Mineola hospital today to prevent the 68-year-old indicted banker, who stabbed himself over the heart with a 50-cent knife, from making a second attempt at suicide.

His life apparently saved because the knife struck a rib, Harriman was described by his physicians as "certainly not in a serious condition."

Hospital authorities said the banker was resting comfortably 24 hours after he tried to kill himself in an obscure inn at Roslyn, where he had gone after his disappearance from a nursing home.

Harriman was scheduled to go on trial tomorrow on charges of falsifying records of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., but George S. Leisure, his attorney, said an agreement had been reached with United States Attorney George Z. Medalie to postpone it a week because of the trial of Charles E. Mitchell, whom Medalie is prosecuting. It will not be necessary for Harriman to go to court tomorrow, Leisure said, and he probably will remain in the hospital until Tuesday.

Meanwhile, two representatives of his bonding company and a Federal agent stood guard over Harriman. The bonding company men, on duty all last night and today, called private detectives to relieve them.

The aged and infirm man was placed in a ground-floor room so, police said, he could not try to kill himself by jumping from a window. An adjoining room was assigned to Mrs. Harriman, who came to the hospital late yesterday.

Harriman's physicians examined his heart and expressed the opinion its condition was normal for a man of his age. He had been staying at the nursing home for treatment for what had been termed a serious heart ailment.

Pennsylvania Tornado Does $500,000 Damage

Reading, Pa., May 21 (A.P.).—Reading and Berks County today began to remove the debris of a tornado which caused damage estimated by authorities at more than $500,000 and brought minor injuries to a score or more persons.

The wind last night leveled a path extending from one county line to another, unroofed more than 100 homes, stripped trees of their foliage and uprooted many. It demolished the steeple of Trinity Lutheran Church and broke hundreds of windows in the business section here. The storm lasted only six minutes.

League for Peace Asks Arms Probe

(Associated Press.)

A resolution calling upon President Roosevelt to propose immediately a senatorial investigation of the private manufacture of arms was adopted at the annual convention yesterday of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Points which the requested inquiry would cover included:

Stock ownership by "leaders of public opinion and public officials;" financial support "given to militaristic organizations, such as the Navy League, the American Legion and other so-called patriotic societies;" lobby activities in general and specifically for defeat of the embargo bill in the past session; "efforts to prevent the success of the Geneva disarmament conference similar to those employed by them in 1927;" contributions to political parties "to control nominations and elections;" sales volume to Japan, China and South American countries in conflict "in defiance of the Kellogg pact," and profits of the industry.

Roosevelt Back After First Night Away From Mansion

President Combines Recreation With Conferences on Potomac Cruise, But Catches Only Eels and Crabs as Fish Snub Executive's Hook.

(Associated Press.)

A bit of fishing, a round of conferences and a good deal of rest and sleep was President Roosevelt's routine during a more-than-24-hour cruise down the Potomac River, which carried him as far as old Port Tobacco.

The President left Washington on the yacht Sequoia at 3 p. m. Saturday and returned at 8 last night, landing at the navy yard. It was his first night away from the Executive Mansion since March 4.

Members of the small party reported that although there was fishing, it was desultory and the fish snubbed the Presidential Hook. The small catch comprised principally eels and crabs.

Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, was along and in informal conversations took up the problem of Government reorganization, which is expected to slash more than $300,000,000 from next year's budget.

The discussions included other governmental problems also, but word was brought back that no decisions were reached, although the Executive order on reorganization is expected to be issued soon.

Leaving the navy yard after a round of formalities, the Sequoia reached well below Indian Head before she anchored for the night. The boat largely missed the sharp winds and rain which hit Washington a few hours after the President left.

The journey toward Chesapeake Bay was resumed early yesterday, and about noon the yacht reached Port Tobacco, a shipping point for cargoes that brought wealth to the colonies before the Revolution. Some members of the party went on land there, but Mr. Roosevelt remained on the Sequoia.

The return to Washington began shortly after 2 p. m.

Church Will Study Economic Matters

Columbus, Ohio, May 21 (A.P.).—Matters of economy seemingly will dominate the business sessions of the 145th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., which convenes here Thursday.

An abstract of legislation proposed by various of the 290 presbyteries of the United States showed today that 32 proposals are concerned with reducing representation or the number of meetings of the general assembly, reducing operating overhead or consolidating governing bodies. All are aimed at economy.

The data was offered by Dr. Lewis S. Mudge, stated clerk (executive secretary), when he arrived from Philadelphia to take charge of arrangements.

Free Insulin Plan Urged to Aid Poor

Rochester, Minn., May 21 (A.P.).—Free insulin for persons unable to pay was urged tonight by the committee on diabetes of the Minnesota State Medical Association at the opening session of the association's convention.

Though the recommendation was made only for Minnesota, the plan would be applicable on a national scale, Dr. Russell M. Wilder, of the Mayo Clinic, chairman of the committee, said.

Delegates approved the recommendation, which also urged the State society to negotiate with holders of the patent on insulin to place its manufacture on a nonprofit-making basis to make it available at cost.

PREACHER OUTLINES MISSIONS' DEFENSE

Points Out That Pearl Buck Does Not Advocate Discontinuance.

"What more glorious chapter has been written than that which presents to us the missionary work and workers from the first century to the present moment?" asked Dr. F. F. Molsopple, preaching yesterday at the Washington City Church of the Brethren.

"Illustrations selected almost at random from multitudes available show that the missionary has been and is the advance guard of the Christian faith and of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. This message has been powerful throughout the centuries for human enlightenment and human uplift. This is true regardless of the weakness or imperfections of the messenger. This fact speaks with trumpet tone in defense of the missionary enterprise.

"So potent is the Christian message in life-giving power that it matters little how strong or how weak the messenger is. Within itself is the power to bring a rich fruitage in the hearts and lives of men.

"After all, what group of people are 100 per cent effective? Missionaries like ministers are selected from the common people. They have like limitations and their selection for a high office does not transform their character. This has been true through the centuries.

Errors Already Known.

" 'Is there a Case for Missions?' by Pearl S. Buck, has thrown the missionary world into a confusion that almost borders on a panic. Those who have sincerely doubted the expediency of the missionary enterprise and those who have been its most virulent critics have, in effect, said, 'There, I told you so.' Many of the less ardent supporters of missions have allowed their ardor to subside. Most of the missionary churches have found their revenues decreased out of proportion to the intensity of the depression that has held the country in its grip for the past three years. Those who have been ostensibly 'rethinking missions' have in many cases arrived at a negative conclusion.

"However, upon a more careful examination of Pearl Buck's arguments we find that for the greater part they have been used by the most ardent supporters of the missionary cause. The errors she points out with her powerful descriptive style have been previously pointed out by the best friends mission work has ever had. One factor that has contributed largely to the so-called 'rethinking of missions' is the immense popularity, which has come to Pearl Buck as the author of 'The Young Revolutionist,' 'Good Earth' and other works, which has induced many who have never read other missionary writers to read 'The Case for Missions' and have thus found in narrow compass the bulk of all the criticisms that missions have received and for the most part, perhaps, probably deserves.

Would Not Discontinue.

"Having thus read the criticism they overlook her final conclusion in which she expresses her unwillingness to have the missionary enterprise discontinued and the missionaries withdrawn. Although the average missionary is described as inefficient, and that too much emphasis is placed on the monetary aspect of the work, she does not hesitate to pay high tribute to those worthy ones who exemplify the teachings of Jesus Christ by an exemplary life.

"In the history of our own race the time was when our ancestors were a savage people who roamed over northern Europe. Consecrated people who counted their lives not dear carried the message of Jesus Christ, the Lord of Life, to them, and thus developed a civilization of which we are proud to have a part. Thus we are debtors to those who have given all to us that is really worthwhile in this or in any other civilization, the love of our Lord Jesus Christ and His salvation.

"This is a debt that can only be repaid by us in turn sending to others the same word of truth, and light, and life. As Pearl Buck has truly written, 'The real Christian message is Christ.' 'I must be great enough to share Christ to keep Christ in me.' This is the real missionary challenge and we shall do well if we respond to it to the utmost of our ability. 'Cast thy bread upon the waters, for thou shall find it after many days.' 'For I am debtor.' "

Review at Fort Myer Tomorrow.

Today Means

"GEMINI."

IF May 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:50 a. m. to 12 noon, from 4:20 p. m. to 5:40 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 a. m. to 8:45 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 2:20 p. m.

Influences operating on this day will prove elevating in nature; people will feel uplifted and lofty and idealistic schemes and plans may be advanced. Interchange of ideas by mail rather than through personal contacts will prove more satisfactory on this day. Simple presentation of facts rather than oratory and persuasiveness will win the day.

Born on this May 22, the child will prove somewhat of a puzzle to his parents. He will be difficult to know, therefore difficult to handle, for he will seem to be several little people all in one. Invariably he will be loving and kind, though at times he will exhibit a mean side to his nature. It is possible that he will not go beyond the grade schools.

Born on May 22, you are a difficult person to "pin down" to anything. You are very much of a dreamer, and you spend most of your time kidding yourself into the thought that you are a pretty worth-while person. You may make a success of your life, but it will come about through no sustained effort in any one direction; you will stumble into it. In matters of love you are fickle; in money matters you lack judgment.

THE FEDERAL DIARY

By GEORGE D. RILEY

FOR some time it has been generally accepted that Noah Webster was the king word-juggler. Lately, he has had some competitors. Senators and members of Congress have been generously toying with words. Take the 30-year clause of the independent office appropriation bill.

First, referring to retirement, it carried the word "compulsory," next, "selective," then, "involuntary," and now "optional." It is admitted that the last word warms the cockles of the heart of all employes in this group.

These legislators, let it be said, are elected by the people to carry out their will. In more definite phraseology, to really look after national welfare in its broadest aspect. These kindly disposed solons have certainly had a great time toying. They succeeded in providing for a 15 per cent salary reduction for all Federal employes. That certainly was a humanitarian act!

Next, some bright-minded lawmaker, or should it be said, "politician," conceived the idea that all employes from overquota States should be summarily dismissed from the Government service. Theoretically, it was a clever conception and one destined to effect "economy" in operation.

The proponent was a Midwestern congressman and when he discovered that his State was quota overdrawn he was filled with dismay; he was panic-stricken. Let's try something else because, as the saying goes, "boys must be boys."

Then, it was proposed that all those who had served 30 years should be ousted without fear or favor and without consequence to the domestic affairs of individuals. President Roosevelt, in his inaugural address, made a fervent plea for conditions leading to happy lives.

Judging from all that has happened since the 4th of March, the sleepless nights that have been caused daily by shifting events and employes wondering what tomorrow might bring forth to create fear, it is evident that senators and members of Congress are recalcitrant in following their leader. Come on "boys," let's play follow our leader!

NO. 15 hole, 525 yards, par 5. Indian Spring, scene of The Federal Diary's first annual golf tournament, Thursday, is the first par 5 on the second nine.

A long drive leaves one in position for a brassie shot. That leaves you a short pitch. A sliced drive will get one into trouble in bad rough. The hole has to be played to the right because the green is guarded on the left by a large trap.

The United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, says Thomas F. Dolan, president, has petitioned the Postoffice Department to give consideration to employes in offices which will be relegated to third class July 1. "It respectfully suggests to the First Assistant Postmaster General that after relegation the then third class postmaster be instructed to retain in his employ those who were so employed at the time of relegation," says Mr. Dolan. "Assurance is given that this proposal will be given full consideration."

HARRY B. MITCHELL, president of the United States Civil Service Commission, makes this statement:

"Because of the recent reorganization there is apparently much public interest in the future attitude of the Civil Service Commission toward the merit system in Federal employment. The position of Commissioner Wales on this point is thoroughly established through his long years on the commission. Speaking for Commissioner McMillin and myself, I can give assurance that we are both supporters of the merit system in public affairs; that is, a system in reality based upon preliminary examination and advancement through merit. Where examination and proved efficiency have not entered into the selection of employes in the classified service, our attitude will be one of inquiry.

"There may be instances in which there have been efforts to undermine the real spirit of the merit system by the endeavor to continue and advance in competitive position men and women whose only claim to those positions has been political service rather than public service and demonstrated ability. In case any such instances should come to our attention, there will be inquiry to determine whether or not men and women have been brought under the protection of the civil service laws, or advanced in position, in violation of the spirit of those laws.

"If we decide, as a result of our investigations, that there has been violations of the spirit of the civil service laws because of political favoritism, then we will not hesitate to report to the President of the United States such facts as we have ascertained, with such recommendations as the facts seem to warrant."

Tournament Rules.

THE general committee, Federal Diary First Annual Golf Tournament at Indian Spring, Thursday, has completed rules for play. Pairings and starting times are about completed also.

When the tournament was announced the Federal Diary attempted to make clear the fact that the event would be free from cost, except caddy fee, and while hiring caddies is not compulsory, it is requested that they be used to facilitate play. There are no greens fees. Rules for the tournament, as announced by the committee:

In this Federal Diary tournament, sponsored by the Washington Post, to be played over the Indian Spring course, winter rules will be played on fairway, only; this means you may improve the lie, moving the ball not more than a club's length from the original lie and not nearer the hole. Ball in rough must not be moved, but played as it lies.

It is requested that for the benefit of those following, you level all foot prints in the sand traps—after you have played your shot.

Balls in line of play on green must be lifted (without penalty) and replaced. A ball on the green, moved by another, must be replaced. The player's ball, which strikes another player's ball, while on the green, incurs one stroke penalty.

All putts must be holed out—no gimmies.

You will note that the Indian Spring score card designates the out-of-bounds holes. The penalty for an out-of bounds is 1 stroke.

The Indian Spring Club professional has told you about the lake hazard before in this column and this is what the word "hazard" implies. If your ball goes into the lake, the next shot must be played back of the lake and ball must be dropped over left shoulder. Penalty for the lake hazard is 1 stroke.

If net score is below par; par only (71) will be allowed for purpose of awarding prizes.

Ties for low net, after the par rule as mentioned above has been invoked, will be played off on a date and at a place to be announced later. This play-off will be an eighteen-hole medal play original handicap allowance. In order to assist the committee in handling the large field of players, the play must be moved along as speedily as possible. This will require that each player engage a caddy.

Caddies will be furnished at the club at a fee to the player of 65c. The use of caddies will also better permit the replacing of divots and serve to retain the wonderful condition of those beautiful Indian Spring fairways.

George Diffenbaugh, pro, today describes hole No. 14, par 3 of 155 yards. "This is a very fine shot," George explains. "It is a one-shot hole. This hole will fool most anybody. Nearly always a breeze is stirring here and the hole must be played with a high iron with plenty of bite to hold. There are traps all around."

THERE IS NO "IF."
(Answer to a recent "If" in this column.)

THERE is no IF, we'll banish this depression and soon will ride again an even keel. This Nation has scant use for retrogression, for signs on every hand show renewed zeal. We shortly now will solve this complication and wheels of industry will leave the ruts. We hear no call for tears or consolation, our wounds though painful are not mortal cuts.

Most surely we can leave Doubt's brackish puddle, can soar above Fear's quagmire and Dread's bog like fools, we let Suspect our minds befuddle, but now Hope presses forward, cog on cog. We still retain unscathed our sense of humar; our love for fun and laughter is intact. Though we may have scant time for doleful rumor, our sense of true proportion is not wracked.

No people more admire Life's great successes and nothing gives them half so great a thrill as courage that surrounds all strains and stresses and bows the powers of nature to its will. Yes, surely, we can spend an extra "five-spot;" can take the rubber band from off the roll—can toss another ante in the jackpot to help some worthy cause attain its goal.

This land was built on faith by brains and labor and may its pristine glory never fade that made it so revered by friend and neighbor because it dared to call a spade a spade. Already we have packed our pains and sorrow and eagerly await approaching dawn, convinced that when the sun breaks forth tomorrow, the sign of dire depression will be gone. —Franklin Coffman, Agriculture.

I Have a Friend

I have a friend.

One of those rare, once-in-a-lifetime friends. A friend.

Yesterday the sun shone gloriously, birds trilled blithely, radiant blossoms tossed their heads in the breeze, and within me my heart was a lump of slag and bitters. Black despair coiled its slimy length about me. My eyes looked with dull disillusion upon the sun, the birds and the flowers. I hated everybody, particularly myself, and life wasn't worth living.

Today everything's different. The sun has slunk away behind a bank of black clouds. I don't know where the birds have gone. The fragrant flowers shiver and quake before the killing breath of a deadly blast. If flowers understand anything at all they know that their hours are numbered. But there's peace in my soul and a song in my heart and the world's not so bad after all. I've a friend.

If I hadn't made the mistake that I did, perhaps I'd never have found this friend. And when I weigh them, one against the other, I find that the friend so outbalances the error I made, I'm almost glad I was errant. Not quite, but almost.

For there's nothing in all the world worth quite so much to a man or woman as having a fellow creature say, "Now, see here, old cornflake, I know what you've done. I imagine you'll do it again. I know your faults, and I know your good points. You're a pretty swell egg sometimes and you're pretty much of a bum at others. But listen to me. If you're rich or poor, if you're good or bad, if you're young or old, if you're right or wrong, I'm with you. I'm your pal—your friend."

Who wants to be a King Midas, a Mrs. Astorbilt of the social register, or an Il Duce? Not me! You can take all your diamonds and money bags and social prestige and offices of power and throw 'em in the lake as far as I'm concerned.

I'd rather have my friend!

G. U. CLASS OF 1916 DINES AT SHOREHAM

Representative Thom Guest of Honor as Law School Group Celebrates.

Representative William R. Thom, of the Sixteenth Ohio District, was guest of honor at a dinner of the Class of 1916 of Georgetown University Law School, Saturday night at the Shoreham Hotel.

Representative Thom, a member of the class, greeted his classmates of 17 years ago during a reception at the hotel between 7:30 and 8 p. m. Shortly following, members of the class marched to the dining room accompanied by the R. O. T. C. band of Georgetown University playing class and school songs.

Condon Also Speaks.

The address of welcome was given by Representative Francis B. Condon, of Rhode Island, member of the class. Other addresses were made by Justice Jesse C. Adkins and Justice Joseph W. Cox, of the District Supreme Court.

While taps were sounded by a member of the band the class stood at attention in reverence to deceased members of the class. Their names were read by Sefton Darr, toastmaster.

Members of Class Present.

Members of the class present were Charles Walter Baker, Hagerstown, Md.; Carl Budwesky, Alexandria, Va.; Francis B. Condon, Rhode Island; Lawrence W. Corbett, Alexandria, Va.; Charles Brooks Deveny, Fairmont, W. Va.; George W. Kennedy, Silver Spring, Md.; Willis E. Ruffner, Greensburg, Pa.; Fitz W. Woodrow, Columbia, S. Alaskan Finishes 2,700-Mile Mush

Spokane, Wash., May 21 (A.P.).—Clyde C. (Slim) Williams, with his dog team and a 680-pound sled, arrived here today after "mushing" 2,700 miles from Copper Center, in the Alaskan interior, en route to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago.

The slim, bronzed adventurer carries no tent nor stove, and gave away a shaving mug to save a pound of weight. His eight dogs are a cross between wolves and malamutes, one of them being three-quarters wolf.

"People wonder why I don't carry a whip and a gun for self-protection," Williams said, "but a man who uses a whip on those kind of dogs don't get far."

ROOSEVELT TO FACE TARIFF BILL TODAY

Immediate Action Seen.

Action also is expected almost immediately in the selection of the remaining members of the American delegation to the economic parley. Reported under consideration to supplement the present line-up of Secretary Hull, chairman; Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, and former Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, have been such men as Owen D. Young, Newton D. Baker, Bernard M. Baruch, and Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, Independent Republican.

Considerable comment was caused here over the week-end by an address by Assistant Secretary Moley in which he warned against expecting too much from the London conference. He emphasized domestic affairs as paramount and predicted it would be "difficult to make extensive attacks upon trade barriers, however much this may be desired."

Official Washington also noted public pronouncements by two members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee—Borah of Idaho and Lewis of Illinois, the Democratic whip.

Ascribing the troubles of Europe to the World War peace treaties, the Idaho Independent Republican asserted that heavy armaments exist there to maintain the frontiers established at Versailles and that revision must be brought about before there can be real disarmament.

American action even by cancellation of the war debts would not help, he said.

Wants Capital Conference.

Lewis spoke against talking war debts with the debtors anywhere but in Washington, lest the matter be decided in an atmosphere of prejudice.

Concerning a consultative agreement for the maintenance of peace, he said the only kind the Roosevelt administration would stand for would be one involving simply participation by this country in friendly efforts at adjustment of a dispute—Not sitting in judgment and joining in measures of coercion against one or another.

Full light on the administration's policy in this regard was predicted by State Department officials in an address to be made today at the Geneva arms conference by Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate.

With events following one another in dramatic succession, a Japanese delegation arrives tomorrow for a series of White House conversations in which Japan's military policy concerning China and her attitude toward disarmament are expected to figure prominently.

SYNOD TO DISCUSS LUTHERAN MERGER

Installation of New Officers Also Feature of Last Convention Day.

Discussion on a proposed merger between the Reformed Church in the United States and the Evangelical Synod of North America will feature today's meeting of the forty-eighth annual Atlantic District Conference of the Evangelical Synod of North America, at Concordia Lutheran Evangelical Church. Following the discussion, a petition to adopt the proposed plan of union will be forwarded to the general conference.

Other business, scheduled for today, the last session of the conference, consists of the appointment of delegates to the general conference, to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, in October, and the installation of recently elected officers.

Addresses will be made by Herr Friedrich W. von Prittwitz und Gaffron, former German Ambassador; the Rev. Charles Enders, who will speak on "The Oxford Group Movement," and Dr. H. R. Niebuhr, professor of Christian ethics at Yale University.

Those taking part in yesterday's service were the Rev. E. T. Henzel, of Albany, N. Y., who preached at the German service on "The Gifts and Tasks of the Church," and the Rev. E. J. Paetzold, of Irvington, N. J., who spoke on "Christ and the Rising Tide of Nationalism."

Japanese Envoys Visit World's Fair

Chicago, May 21 (A.P.).—Members of the Japanese delegation en route to Washington to confer with president Roosevelt prior to the economic conference in London arrived today and visited the 1933 world's fair.

Viscount Kukujiro Ishii, privy councilor, and Eigo Fukai, vice governor of the Bank of Japan, headed the delegation.

Richard Southgate, assistant chief of the United States Division of International Conferences, met the party on the West Coast last week when the delegates arrived, and is accompanying them to Washington tomorrow.

Northeast Boys Club May Organize Band

Plans for organizing a band at the Northeast Boys Club, 1863 Kramer street northeast, will be discussed at a meeting of the boys and club officials at the clubhouse tomorrow night. H. J. Smith, retired member of the United States Marine Band, has volunteered to act as instructor.

Mr. Smith has taken an interest in formation of amateur bands in Washington and is particularly anxious to establish one at the Northeast Boys Club. He plans a regular band of wind instruments. The meeting will be called at 7:30 o'clock.

Cadoan Players To Stage Revue

The fourth annual spring revue of the Cadoan Players will be presented at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Woodside School auditorium, Woodside, Md. The revue consists of three one-act plays under auspices of Court Forest Glen, Catholic Daughters of America.

Charles Logsdon plays the role of famous artist turned woman-hater; the "only girl" is played by Winifred Huck, while Eugenia Hardy portrays his sister. Others in the cast are Lucy Beall, Alice Watts, Dorothy Shannon, Ione Beall, Helen Haltigan, Dorothy Rueth, Edith Lusby, Deborah Brennan, Marion Tyler, Mildred Smith and Marion Rueth.

Misundertsandings and mistakes follow in rapid succession in "The Man From the Mutual," with Dee Shannon as the French maid, who is mistaken for a famous actress, and Marion Rueth as the real star and Joseph Haltigan as an insurance man mistaken for a movie magnate. Frank O'Connor and Marion Rueth are the newly weds. Alice Watts, John Victory, Dee Shannon and Robert Garrison play in "When the Wife's Away," the third comedy.

Consumption Problem Called Farmer's Own

Amherst, Mass., May 21 (A.P.).—The farmer in the future must place much more emphasis on the whole problem of consumption of his product, Prof. Edmund de S. Brunner, of Columbia University, today told the fourth regional conference of the American Association for adult education.

At an evening session, Prof. Brunner said the farmer must pay more attention to the balance between supply and demand.

Weblike Wire Causes Phone Short Circuits

Spokane, Wash., May 21 (A.P.).—Weblike copper wire, invisible at 20 feet, is causing telephone linemen heresbouts lots of worry and work. The wire has been found draped across telephone lines six times in the past two years in this region by workmen seeking the cause of short circuits.

Its origin is unknown, but some have said that birds carry it.

Jobless Waitress Plunges to Death

El Paso, Tex., May 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. E. J. Redford, 30, of San Francisco, plunged to her death today from the third-story hotel room of Joseph E. Walter, widely known racing man and secretary of the Juarez, Mexico, racing meet just ended.

Walter was questioned by police and later released. He told officers Mrs. Redford, an acquaintance, jumped from the window in a moment of despondency. She had come to El Paso seeking work as a waitress, he said.

Police announced she left a note saying she was "through with it all." Assistant District Attorney John Penn said he was convinced she committed suicide.

Founder of League Outlines Dry Law

Oberlin, Ohio, May 21 (A.P.).—Standing where 40 years ago he pleaded "for a militant Christian organization to repress and suppress the organized liquor traffic," a founder of the Antisaloon League tonight outlined a four-point program for "the second dry war."

At a preliminary meeting of the Antisaloon League in the First Congregational Church, Howard H. Russell asserted "the ideals for the first war of 1893—unity, persistency, victory—are the ideals of 1933 for the second."

The first point in the new battle against liquor, he said, involved a test in the United States Supreme Court of the new 3.2 per cent beer.

MIDSHIPMEN HEAR WASHINGTON BISHOP

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 21.—Many of the advance guard of visitors for commencement week at the Naval Academy attended divine services in the academy chapel this morning and heard the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, preach. The chapel was crowded to capacity. Commander Frank H. Leah, chaplain, assisted in the services.

Bishop Freeman's discourse was a fitting prelude to the approaching finals, as it took the form of a message directed to members of the graduating class. He told the graduates that while there may be discouraging features, still they will have the heritage of the highest traditions, and are really fortunate in being handed great and difficult problems.

Another prelude to "June Week" came tonight at the Christian Association meeting when the annual presentation of Bibles to the graduates was made. For over 60 years the Bible has been provided for graduating classes of midshipmen by the American Seamen's Friend Society, of New York. Tonight's presentation was made by the Rev. George S. Webster, veteran secretary of the society, who also gave a talk on the work done by that organization for more than a century.

With the final examinations of the graduates over and annual tests of the three lower classes practically completed midshipmen of the regiment are virtually released from the more rigorous academic routine, although events leading up to commencement day, June 1, will not get under way until Saturday.

The battleship Wyoming, under command of Capt. Benjamin T. Dutton, which will convey undergraduate midshipmen on their summer practice cruise, has arrived in the bay off Annapolis, and will be open to visitors during the week.

Legion Will Seek Boxing in Arlington

Represented by a large delegation of its members, the Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, will urge the passage of the proposed boxing ordinance by the Arlington County Board at its public hearing on the question tomorrow night. According to Howard Duckson, chairman of the athletic committee of the legion, a large number of other citizens are expected to attend the hearing and support the measure.

Among orgahizations which advocate the passage of the ordinance is the Arlington County Welfare Board. Under the provisions of the ordinance the welfare board would receive 25 cents on each ticket sold, the money so derived to be expended in relief work in the county.

The ordinance is proposed by Board Member Lyman M. Kelley and while there will be opposition, indications are that the board will approve the measure. Following its adoption by the board it goes to circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy for his signature before becoming law.

Opera Ballet Stars To Perform Here

A trio dance recital by three soloists of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet of New York City, Miss Lillian Moore, of Baltimore; Miss Elizabeth Belcher, of Philadelphia, and William Rodon, of this city, will take place tomorrow night at 8:50 o'clock in Pierce Hall, Fifteenth and Harvard streets, sponsored by music and drama leaders here.

A feature will be a ballet composed by Adolf Torovsky, of this city, organist and choir director of Epiphany Episcopal Church, which is called "Rehearsal." It will be danced by Miss Moore and William Rodon, with the composer as pianist.

Members of the National Woman's Party, headed by Miss Mabel Van Dyke and members of the Pierce Hall Players, will assist by serving as ushers for the recital, which is sponsored by Mrs. Aurora M. Foston and other members of the Columbia Players and by many music leaders here.

Parade of School Patrols Saturday

The second annual parade of some 3,000 members of the A. A. A. school patrols in the District of Columbia, originally set for May 13, and postponed, will be staged Saturday starting at 3 p. m.

This announcement was made last night by the District of Columbia division of the American Automobile Association, sponsors of the school safety units. Patrols from nearby Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and North Carolina will participate.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, will act as grand marshal. The parade will start from John Marshall place and Pennsylvania avenue, and will move west on Pennsylvania to Thirteenth, south to E, west to Fifteenth, south to Constitution avenue and west to the Ellipse.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

It has come to be a habit with commentators upon the cinema to appraise the performances of Mary Pickford upon the audible screen wholly as the undertakings of an actress inured to the practices and requirements of the silent pictures, but completely unfamiliar with the technique and usages of the stage.

Mary Pickford

This is an understandable but none the less conspicuous fallacy. The development of the motion picture to its present place of eminence as the principal factor in mass entertainment is, of course, inseparably interwoven with the career of "America's sweetheart," but it should not be lost sight of that instead of being unschooled in the technique of stage action, Mary, Mary Pickford—or Gladys Mary Smith, as she was known before the late David Belasco encouraged the adoption of the more familiar nom de theatre—had had an extensive and arduous stage training long before pictures ever came into vogue.

Born in Toronto, Ontario on April 8, 1893, the precocious little Gladys Smith made her debut with the Valentine Stock Company in her native city in 1898, much as Helen Hayes Brown at a similarly youthful age appeared first with the old Columbia Players in this city. Her assignment in her debut performance was the role of Cissy in "The Silver King." Her next appearance was in "The Little Red School House" and in 1902 she was "starring" as Jessie, the child, in "The Fatal Wedding."

These engagements were followed by a tour as Mignon in "Bootles' Baby," a whirl at Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin"—a work that is about to be revived in New York, by the way, with Otis Skinner in his original role of Uncle Tom—and a considerable season as little Willie Carlyle in "East Lynne." She subsequently toured with Chauncey Olcott in "Edmund Burke," in 1906, and in 1907 her first notable Broadway appearance was celebrated in the role of Betty in the Belasco production of "The Warrens of Virginia."

It was this season under the Belasco banner that so impressed the wizard of stagecraft that in 1913 he arranged for her stellar appearance as Juliet, the little blind girl, in his own production of "A Good Little Devil," a piece in which she appeared locally at the National Theater with signal success.

It is interesting, in the light of subsequent events, that Ernest Truex, so recently seen in the flesh in Edouard Bourdet's "Best Seller," at the National, and even more recently in the title role of "The Warrior's Husband," on the screen at Loew's Fox, now occupied by Miss Pickford in "Secrets," played opposite Mary in "A Good Little Devil," while William Morris, father of Chester Morris, also of screen fame, appeared in the same cast.

It was after the long run of "A Good Little Devil" that Mary devoted her entire attention to the cinema, appearing first for the old Biograph Co., in D. W. Griffith's production of "The Violin Maker of Cremona."

While her long career before the cameras prior to the coming of sound and dialogue to the silver sheet caused her to be idealized almost beyond any human power to fulfill through any such mundane medium as ordinary human speech, there still is ample evidence in "Secrets" that Mary Pickford is an intelligent and charming actress, even if not the embodiment of all the divine qualities with which she was imbued by an adoring public during two decades of decorative but inarticulate triumph.

Her enduring place among the foremost luminaries of the screen has been honestly earned and is rightfully hers.

Tonight will be "Texas Night" at the Earle Theater.

Miss Nancy Garner, cousin of Vice President John Nance Garner and headline artiste on the current stage program, will have as her guests a group of Texas friends prominent in official Washington, as well as members of the President's Cabinet and their families.

Headed by Vice President Garner, the party will include Cordell Hull, Secretary of State; William H. Woodin, Secretary of Treasury; George H. Dern, Secretary of War; Claude A. Swanson, Secretary of Navy; Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture; James Farley, Postmaster General; Homer S. Cummings, Attorney General; Harold Ickes, Secretary of Interior; Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor; Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce; Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt; Senator Morris Sheppard, Senator Tom Connally, Representatives Luther A. Johnson, Milton West, R. M. Kleberg, Fritz G. Lanham, Tom Blanton and George Terrell.

What! No Amarillo Jack Snider and barbecued beef?

After embarking at Bremen for New York, Guthrie McClintic decided to leave the steamer at Southampton, England, to go to London to await the premiere of Clemence Dane's drama, "Wild Decembers," which is announced for May 29.

This is the play written at the suggestion of Katharine Cornell, who holds the rights to the American production.

Diana Wynyard, one of the most discussed of recent British actresses to reach the American stage and screen, is to act the role of Charlotte Bronte and Brian Aherne, Miss Cornell's leading man in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," who also has taken a recent try at the films, will appear as Branwell Bronte in the English presentation.

Miss Cornell, in the meantime, is appearing in Sidney Howard's "Alien Corn" in the Plymouth Theater in Boston. Following this engagement, she will appear in the play at the Forrest Theater in Philadelphia for one week, beginning May 29, and in the Harris Theater, Chicago, for two weeks, beginning June 5.

Sidney Howard, as of course you know, it was who authored "The Silver Cord," which, in celluloid form, now is the screen feature of RKO-Keith's, where Gene Dennis is baffling audiences by her psychic powers on the stage.

There is an interesting display of ship models on view in the lobby of the Palace Theater during the engagement there of "Hell Below," featuring Robert Montgomery, Madge Evans, Walter Huston and Jimmy Durante. The collection consists exclusively of sail boats and the models are the property of members of the Washington Model Yacht Club and belong to what is known as the "International Class A Models."

These tiny craft may be seen racing almost any Sunday on the reflection pool of the Lincoln Memorial, where on July 1 elimination races will be held to determine which boats will represent the United States in the international cup races at Gosport, England, in August.

The law of compensation, it seems, is still in operation. I mean that after years of laboring on the other side of the cameras two of the boys finally have got their pitchers took as full-fledged subjects for the newsreels.

Marvin H. McIntyre, "Mac" to you and you and you, long identified with Pathe News, and Stephen T. Early, "Steve" to you and you and you, too, similarly associated for a long stretch with Paramount Sound News, and both now of President Roosevelt's secretariat, are telling how it is done as stars of the last issue of the Fox Movietone News—and if that isn't a species of rank treachery to the hands that fed them, then I don't know what it is.

But then no man is a hero to his valet.

Several American screen stars are now in London, or on their way there, to appear in coming attractions from the Gaumont-British studios.

James Gleason, who will play the role of an erratic talkie director in "Orders Is Orders," is one of the latest to join the migration from Hollywood. Charlotte Greenwood, another American stage and screen star, will be seen in another important part in the same picture. Percy Parsons, Cyril Maude, Jane Carr and Donald Calthrop are among the several English stars in the cast.

Conrad Veidt, seen here recently in Gaumont-British's "Rome Express," who is one of the best-known European players in this country, heads the cast of "I Was a Spy."

Among the other players who won their laurels in Hollywood, who are to be seen here shortly in other Gaumont-British pictures, are Boris Karloff and Anthony Bushell, in "The Ghoul;" Edward Everett Horton, in "Soldiers of the King," and Leslie Fenton, in "F. P. I."

That's swell. Now maybe we can dig up some little thing with George Arliss, Diana Wynyard, Leslie Howard, Charlie Chaplin, Charles Laughton, Basil Rathbone, Herbert Mundin, eBryl Mercer, Noel Coward, or Beatrice Lillie in it to send back over there.

Hands across the back fence, sort of, or something.

Nonstop to Berlin Wiley Post's Plan

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—A projected nonstop flight from here to Berlin will be the first of Wiley Post's world-girdling trip next month, the Oklahoma City aviator said today.

Post, who shares with Harold Gatty the record for a round-the-world flight, announced he would attempt to complete the 13,950-mile trip within 144 hours. But cutting 2,000 miles from the course he and Gatty took, he hopes to reduce the time by two and a half days.

The flight, he said, probably will start from Floyd Bennett Field soon after June 20. He will use the same plane—the Winnie Mae—in which the 1931 journey was made.

Canadian Agent's Son Dead in Net

Seattle, May 21 (A.P.).—A drowned man was identified today, the coroner's office said, as Herbert Magee, 36, an unemployed iron worker and World War veteran and the estranged son of a retired high official of the Canadian government.

The body was found entangled in a fish net about 100 feet from shore, yesterday, in front of the home of his sister, Mrs. Meredith Croup. She said he had been afflicted by fainting spells and probaly fell into the water.

The coroner's office said he was the son of the Right Honorable William D. Magee, of Westminster, B. C., Dominion land agent for the Canadian government for 36 years.

Sylvan Theater Will Open With 'Pirates of Penzance'

The 1933 Summer Festivlas at the National Sylvan Theater in the Monument Grounds, presented under joint auspices of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, with financial assistance from the National Capital Civic Fund, will open June 7 with the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance," preceded by a Gilbert and Sullivan festival concert by the United States Army Band.

The committee has arranged for a series of light opera performances by the Estelle Wentworth Opera Group. One will be given each month, June, July and August, with "The Mikado" in July, and "Pinafore" in August, if present plans hold. In addition, a series of three festival concerts by the Army Band, Marine Band, and Navy Band will be given, featuring outstanding soloists with each band. It is expected that Anne Yago McGuffey, prima donna contralto, and Justin Lawrie, baritone soloist and director of music of Foundry Methodist Church here, will be two of the soloists during the summer.

There will also be a succession of dance festival concerts by outstanding dance groups of the city; a program of native Negro dances and spirituals; a program by juvenile groups; a lantern festival with choral groups participating; and at the close of the season, the presentation of "The Forty Thieves" adapted from The Arabian Nights.

Disarmament "Encouraging."

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Dr. John T. Morse, 88-year-old Boston historian, returning today from a seven months' tour of Europe, said the fact the nations of the world are getting together at a disarmament conference "is an encouraging sign."

LA FARGE PRINCIPAL MEMORIAL SPEAKER

Tablet in Honor of Cardinal Unveiled at Gibbons Institute, Ridge, Md.

The Rev. John La Farge, S. J., made the principal address at the unveiling yesterday of a memorial tablet erected in the entrance of the Cardinal Gibbons Institute at Ridge, Md., commemorating the late prelate's "interest and generosity" in connection with the founding of the establishment of the institution which Father La Farge founded.

The Rev. Mother Katherine Drexel, Mother Superior of the Order of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament, which maintains many colleges for Negroes throughout the United States, unveiled the tablet, which is executed in bronze with a portrait in relief inscribed "James Cardinal Gibbons" as its principal feature.

The Cardinal Gibbons Institute was established a few years ago as a center of education for Negroes living on the isolated peninsula of southern Maryland where the English Jesuit priest, Father Andrew White, landed in 1634 and founded St. Mary's City as the first capital of the colony.

Anticipating the forthcoming Maryland Tercennial celebrations, a stone memorial altar will be dedicated today at a point overlooking the historic landing place on the St. Mary's River of Father White and the company of 128 people who sailed from Cowes, in the Isle of Wight, in the Ark and the Dove in 1634. The altar has been erected by the Order of the Pilgrims of St. Mary's and is to be dedicated by Father La Farge.

Chairmen Named By Social Council

Three important changes in committee chairmanships of the Council of Social Agencies were announced yesterday by Frederic W. Perkins, president of the council.

Walter H. Davidson has been appointed to head the family welfare committee, succeeding Dr. Francis J. Haas. Mr. Davidson has had years of experience in this work. Before coming to the Red Cross in 1916, he had charge of public welfare in western Canada, three years of experience as head of the Detroit Community Fund, and for the past four years has been assistant manager of the Eastern area of the National Red Cross.

Miss Louise McGuire, of the National Catholic Social Service School has been named chairman of the policy committee. She succeeds Dr. Laurence J. Shehan, assistant director of the Catholic Charities. Dean Hill Stanley has been appointed chairman of the Legal Aid Bureau, succeeding Louis Ottenberg. Mr. Stanley served as president of the Harvard Legal Aid Bureau.

Mikkelson Model Home Is Thronged

Hundreds of persons visited yesterday the latest model home of The Washington Post at 6412 Beechwood drive, in Beechwood, the beautiful development of G. F. Mikkelson & Son., builders of this exhibit dwelling.

Features of the house are a step-down living room of unusually generous proportions, first-floor study with built-in bookcases and cupboards—with connecting lavatory; bay-window dining room, butler's pantry, concealed radiation, four bedrooms and two baths on second floor, master bedroom with private bath and two cedar closets; spacious recreation room with fireplace, knotted pine walls, linoleum floor and side lights, maid's room and bath. Torrid Heat oil burner, and garage for two cars.

The home is open daily until 9 p. m. To reach it, drive out Connecticut avenue to Thornapple street, turn left two blocks to Beechwood drive and left again to house.

Indian Relief Flight Is Adjudged Best

The Navajo Indian relief flight of January, 1932, was adjudged the most meritorious flight in the Army Air Corps last year by a Board of Officers convened in the Office of the Chief of the Air Corps to decide upon the annual award of the Mackay Trophy, it has been announced at the War Department.

In view of the fact that 14 Air Corps officers and one Medical Corps officer participated in this flight, and since it was impractical to name the participating officers individually, the awarding board designated First Lieut. Charles W. Howard, Air Corps, to receive the trophy as commander of the Eleventh Bombardment Squadron and representative of the organization.

A severe storm had isolated the Navajos when Lieut. Howard established a flying bread line into the mountains, dropping food and supplies to the Indians. The officers flew more than 15,000 miles on this mission.

Spanish Institute Officers Inducted

Stanley Riggs, director of art and archeology, received the presidential inauguration, with Benjamin Cohen, counselor of the Chilean Embassy, as vice president.

The board of councilors installed follows: Mrs. Harriet Chalmers Adams, Mrs. Truxton Beale, Miss Ruth Wilson, Antonio Alonso, Mr. Cohen, Dr. J. de S. Coutinho, Felipe de Berris, Dr. Henry Grattan Doyle, Dr. Gil Borges, Dr. Fernando Ortiz, Mr. Riggs, Dr. Alexander Robertson, Dr. David Rubio, Dr. John T. Vance, Angel Cabrillo Vasques and Dr. Gonsalo Escalumbide.

Senator Tyson's Widow Succumbs in Knoxville

Knoxville, Tenn., May 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. Betty McGhee Tyson, 68, widow of Gen. Lawrence D. Tyson, member of the United States Senate from 1924 until his death in 1930, died here today.

She suffered a stroke of apoplexy last Friday.

IDEAL FATHERHOOD IS PASTOR'S THEME

Hamline Preacher Declares God-Like Character Is Greatest Legacy.

"The greatest legacy a father can leave his children in any age is that of a God-like character, ever associated with the things of religion," the Rev. H. W. Burgan said yesterday at the Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church.

"Joseph, a Tribute to Father," was the preacher's topic. He drew his text from the twenty-seventh verse of the first chapter of Luke, "A virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph of the house of David." Mr. Burgan said in part:

"The mission of Jesus was to interpret God to humanity. In the Old Testament He was a God of righteousness. The unique contribution of the Hebrew was to express this righteousness.

"Jesus, was to more completely present the character of God to men. How would He do it? The Old Testament writers had seen in God's relation to his creatures that of a contract-maker—the God of the Covenant. The later prophets saw Him as the soul of honor in contractual relations with mankind. To complete this progressive revelation of the character of God is the mission of Jesus. What figure shall He use in his description of God?

Homely Illustrations.

"We know that Jesus took from His early every-day experiences many illustrations to make clear in later life the spiritual truths He desired to impart. In these illustrations Jesus recalls the candle lighting all that were in the little Nazareth home, the poor home where the loss of a coin was traged; watching the leaven do its work with the dough, fellowshipping with the shepherds as they cared for the sheep, the sower sowing his seed, etc.

"When Joseph and Mary lived in the mean town of Nazareth, there were in the home with Jesus four younger brothers and at least two sisters. He daily watched Joseph's relation to these younger children. He saw the father's love expressed in many ways, for the boys—Simon, Joses, James and Judas, and the two daughters in the home. The result was that when he went into His public ministry to interpret God to humanity, He could think of no finer picture to paint of God than that of an affectionate father. Hence, the prayer which teaches the world begins, "Our Father." His most cherished parable is the one of the prodigal son which depicts in fascinating fashion the role of fatherhood.

Uplifting Quality of Parents.

"Modern psychology emphasizes the lasting quality of those spiritual impressions made upon individuals when they are young. From the earthly side of Jesus' life recognition must be given to the splendid characters of both Joseph and Mary. Nothing else in the environment of Jesus in His Nazareth home was particularly uplifting, only the quality of the parents in that home raise it above the common homes of men. To cause Jesus so persistently to use the figure of father for God there must have been associated with Him early in life, during that impressionable period, an ideal father in the person of Joseph.

"The few times the family is mentioned as a unit it is always as being the place of worship—the temple—husband, wife and the child, Jesus. Joseph should become an inspiration to all fathers in this age, when the problems of home life seem increasingly perplexing."

League to Learn Plight of Jews

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Representatives of 29 organizations affiliated with the American Jewish committee decided today to create an emergency advisory council to deal with the Jewish situation in Germany. Dr. Cyrus Adler, of Philadelphia, presided.

At the request of the Jewish war veterans, Samuel Untermyer, lawyer, today agreed to plead the case of oppressed Jews before the League of Nations and the World Economic Conference.

In announcing his acceptance Untermyer said he was doing so on condition all veterans' organizations in this country lend their support.

Final Dance Planned By Community Center

The final indoor dance concert program of the season by the Community Center Department, will be presented Wednesday night in Roosevelt High School Auditorium, when the Evelyn Davis Senior Dance Group gives it annual festival, assisted by Roosevelt High School Glee Clubs, and sponsored by the Washington Branch of the American Association of University Women and the Zonta Club.

Alden Finckel, Miss Martha McClelland Stevens and Thomas Simmon, of New York City, have composed musical settings for the dances, for which the accompanists will be Mrs. Alice Finckel and Miss Stevens. Miss Emma Louise Thompson will conduct the Glee Clubs in their numbers, comprising three spirituals, as choral accompaniments to a new dance entitled "Marching to Glory," based upon Negro church ritual. The ensemble numbers on the program have been created and directed by Miss Evelyn Davis, who will also be in several solo numbers.

Light From Star Will Start Plant

Chicago, May 21 (A.P.).—The cosmic ray along with the light from the distant star Arcturus is going to make itself useful at the World's Fair.

Under the direction of Dr. Arthur H. Compton, of the University of Chicago, widely recognized as one of the greatest authorities on the cosmic ray, apparatus to harness it for the purpose of officially starting an automobile assembly plant at the fair grounds has been set up.

Light from Arcturus will be caught at Yerkes Observatory and utilized to open officially the fair illumination Saturday night.

TARIFFS AND RECOVERY.

General agreement on the administration's reconstruction plans is evident from the testimony presented before the ways and means committee. Labor is willing to indorse the sales tax, or any other levies considered necessary, and industry is willing to give the President extraordinary powers over its interests for the period of the emergency. Each group is ready to compromise in the hope that this program may start the country on the high road to prosperity once more. Labor desires a larger program of public works. Industry would like to see the proposed bond issue of $3,300,000,000 substantially reduced. But all these suggestions are being subordinated to the larger purpose of the measure.

With this substantial indorsement from both capital and labor the recovery program is certain to become law. Indeed, its enactment was hardly open to question when President Roosevelt sent it to Congress. The President is so confident that it will be approved that he is already formulating plans for its administration, and industries are beginning to outline "fair competition codes" by which they will regulate their own conduct until the emergency has passed.

If the reconstruction program is successful it will raise American prices, eliminate surplus production and increase the purchasing power of the people through higher wages. There is a wide disparity between wages in the United States and other countries, and for the most part prices are considerably higher here than abroad. Elevation of the economic plane on which the United States is operating will afford an excellent opportunity for other countries to dump their surpluses and the products manufactured under the influence of their depreciated currencies upon the American market. Greater tariff protection will be necessary to reserve the benefits of this program to American enterprise.

Efforts to raise farm prices have been postponed because of the tariff truce. Secretary Hull is going forward with plans for a general reduction of tariffs at the World Economic Conference. It will be utterly impossible to carry out the industrial reconstruction plan while cutting down tariff protection, so long as the foreign standard of living is so low. The United States must move toward readjustments in one direction or the other. If protection is to be gradually diminished this country must prepare itself for world-wide competition by cutting down wages and prices. On the other hand, if the administration is determined to preserve the American stanard of living, to keep American workingmen above the status of the peasants in Europe and the industrial serfs of Japan, substantial protection is absolutely necessary. Democrats as well as Republicans recognize this fact. Congress ought to consider this aspect of national policy with the utmost care in connection with the reconstruction bill and the plan of Secretary Hull to raise the foreign standard of living by lowering the American standard.

BRITISH PRICE LEVELS.

With the abandonment of the gold standard and the gold embargo, precipitating conditions in many ways similar to those existing in England following such action in September, 1931, brokers and careful buyers are investigating the effects of the earlier steps taken abroad. Situations differ, in that Great Britain was forced to suspend note redemption through heavy losses of gold, yet in order to expand foreign trade wanted to keep prices from rising; while here gold was abandoned with reserves still intact, and the expressed desire was to increase prices and wages to help internal conditions.

On the London exchange, as in New York, the immediate effect was to send security prices upward. Within three months after England had left the gold standard the pound sterling declined nearly one-third, measured in terms of dollars, but the security boom reached its peak by the middle of October, a period of only six weeks. From a discount of 32 per cent in December, 1931, the pound rose to only 23 per cent below par in April, 1932. The rise in British commodity prices was sustained longer than that of securities, lasting nearly five months, though the high point was an increase of only about one-third the depreciation of the pound.

Within two weeks commodities shot up 8 per cent, but in the following five months a further increase of only 3 per cent was registered. This rise brought the advance to the high point of an 11 per cent increase. From February of last year there has been a gradual recession in these prices and although the pound has been at an average discount of 30 per cent, the price level of British commodities had fallen last month to a point below that of September, 1931. The 11 per cent rise in commodities had no appreciable effect upon wages paid to British labor.

ITALY'S ABSURD PROPOSAL.

Every attempt that is made in Europe to discuss the war debts owed to the United States emphasizes the almost insuperable difficulties that are to be encountered at the forthcoming economic conference. European governments have no thought whatever of economic cooperation that does not include the war debts. Reduction or cancellation of the debts to America is their first concern. But there is such a wide gulf between what Europe wants and the United States is willing to give that agreement seems out of the question.

Finance Minister Guido Jung, of Italy, who has just returned to Rome from his conference with President Roosevelt, has presented to the Chamber of Deputies a report calling for an 80 per cent reduction in the war debts. A few years ago the United States reduced the Italian debt by 80 per cent, and only insignificant payments have been made. Now Italy wants the remaining 20 per cent of her debt reduced again by 80 per cent. That is about as near to cancellation as one could get without wiping out the debt entirely.

Italy's reason for suggesting another 80 per cent reduction is that Germany and the other central powers have ceased to pay reparations. In the 15 years since the war closed Italy, France, Belgium and Great Britain have exacted enormous sums from Germany and paid very little to the United States. Having driven the Reich into bankruptcy, they now seek to escape their obligations to American taxpayers on the ground that Germany can pay no more.

Signor Jung ought to realize after his visit to Washington that the proposal which went through his hands to the Chamber of Deputies is an offense to the American people. It serves only to arouse feelings in Congress and to accentuate the probability that Congress will not give President Roosevelt authority to make a new settlement of the debts.

This issue looms up as the greatest obstacle to the World Economic Conference. Nothing can be gained by ignoring that fact. European countries are determined that the debts to America shall not be paid, and the American people are determined that the debtors shall give some equivalent for debt concessions. President Roosevelt has promised to consider any appeals that are made respecting the debts, but European statesmen ought to realize that any scheme to effect an 80 per cent reduction is too absurd for discussion in Washington or anywhere else.

POOR MISSISSIPPI!

Mississippi has acquired the habit of coming out last in nearly every comparison of the achievements of the American States. No one State leads the rest in all respects. The honor points are rather well distributed. California takes first place in per capita wealth; Massachusetts, in education; Minnesota, in health, and Maine, in public order. A very recent survey gives the State of Washington first place in cultural and intellectual development. But Mississippi nearly always brings up the rear or is very close to it.

The cultural-intellectual study was made by the American Eugenics Society. It is based on mental tests among school children, army intelligence tests, illiteracy percentages, magazine readers per 100 of the total population and various other tests. Mississippi was given a rating of minus 10.92, compared with a rating of plus 9.03 for the State of Washington. Plus ratings were also given to California, Massachusetts, Oregon, Connecticut, Wyoming, Colorado, Vermont, Montana, Ohio, New Hampshire, Minnesota, New York, Rhode Island, North Dakota, Iowa, Utah, Nebraska, Michigan, Nevada, Illinois, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, Maine, Wisconsin, New Jersey and Kansas, in the order named. All the rest were negative, with Mississippi on the far end.

Mississippi is deficient in hospitals, colleges, libraries, natural resources and business centers. It has a disagreeable climate—only Florida and Louisiana being wetter, and only Florida, Louisiana and Texas being hotter. It has fewer newspapers per capita than any other State. No other State is so deficient in hotel accommodations as is Mississippi. Only South Carolina and Alabama have fewer retail sales per capita. Mississippi's illiteracy is notoriously high.

A few years ago the American Mercury made a general classification of States, using, for the most part, figures supplied by the Census Bureau. It is needless to say that Mississippi was the last State on the list. The general classification showed Mississippi to be last in wealth, last in education, last in public order, and next to the last in health. Now the Eugenics Society had added to this indictment: "Last in intelligence and culture." Alas, poor Mississippi!

EXCLUDE SMUGGLED ALIENS.

It is strange indeed that Congress has delayed enactment of the bill to prevent alien seamen from being smuggled into the United States. The Government maintains the most rigid immigration restrictions on the theory that available jobs in this country should go to Americans. Yet Congress seems indifferent to the smuggling of aliens through American ports in the disguise of seamen.

Aliens are known to pay from $200 to $400 to be landed safely in the United States from Europe. Chinese pay as much as $1,100 for free passage under the American immigration bars. They pay for the privilege of being a "seaman" on a ship coming into an American port. Being permitted to go ashore with few restrictions, they disappear and become competitors with the millions of American citizens who are looking for work. A report from the committee on immigration and naturalization estimates that at least 500,000 individuals have been smuggled into the United States since 1921. This practice continues on a large scale because it is profitable to shipowners and to the aliens who deprive Americans of their jobs.

The measure designed to correct this evasion of the immigration laws has been reported twice by committees of the House and four times by Senate committees. It has passed the Senate twice, but has been lost each time in the political shuffle. Now it is again before Congress. No legitimate opposition has been registered against it. In the interests of American shipping companies that do not indulge in smuggling immigrants and in the interests of workingmen in all parts of the country this measure should be passed. Congress is already guilty of unconscionable delay on this bill. Even though the calendars of the present session are crowded with emergency measures, it would do well to add the exclusion of bogus seamen to its measures for the benefit of the unemployed.

NEW YORK ATTACKED.

A hidden enemy is worrying the American metropolis. Attacked from within, it is not being eaten out of house and home this time, but literally having houses eaten out from under the occupants. The invaders are termites, or white ants. This tropical pest appeared a few years ago in New York, no one knows how, and has multiplied its millions so rapidly that this year serious damage has been done in nearly every section of the metropolitan area.

The termite eats wood, boring from within joists and rafters, hollowing out the interior and leaving a shell that collapses if it bears any weight or strain. A veritable panic has fallen upon the householders of some sections, as the invaders are unseen and may not be detected in an edifice until they have done irreparable damage.

These insects nest in the ground, and even when they must travel over a cellar wall or cement foundation to reach the timbers of the superstructure, they build a little tunnel against the wall so that they can move upward without being noticed. Houses have been so riddled by these voracious insects that whole floors have collapsed; or preliminary warning may be given by a piano falling into the cellar. While the suburbs have been more severely affected by the invasion of ants, Manhattan proper has not escaped, and one mid-town theatre building may have to be condemned.

Ridding an infected house is a difficult undertaking, and termite proofing may cost anywhere from $500 to $2,000. The experts of the Department of Agriculture advise, however, that in building houses provision can be made to exclude the ants at comparatively small cost, by inserting metal sheets to prevent passage, processing the wood, etc.

If Nicholas Murray Butler will just be patient, he may get the job of liquor dictator when repeal has been completed.

If the world will adopt the American naval rotatory plan, universal disarmament will be accomplished in no time.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT

From the Milwaukee Journal.

Mrs. William A. Moffett stopped in Chicago the other day on her way westward to join her children. The widow of Rear Admiral Moffett, whose life was lost when the Akron fell, was flying West with her son, Ensign Moffett, stationed in the Aleutian Islands with the naval air service. She will make her home near another son, Lieut. Moffett, stationed at San Diego with the airplane carrier Lexington, and near her eldest daughter, wife of a former lieutenant in the naval air service. Her youngest boy is entering the Naval Academy. "Of course he will be a flyer, too," his mother says. And the little daughter, Beverly, wants to be a flyer.

We read this and could think of no word good enough. Courage and stout-heartedness undaunted by the tragedy of the Akron, the risks of the air. The husband and father believed in flying, believed in his country's service, gave his life to it, laid down his life for it. He was such a husband and father that all his children want to do the thing he cared for. And Mrs. Moffett is such a mother that they all have her encouragement.

Death and chance come to all, and all there is left is what was done with life while it lasted. Out of a family which has almost literally lived in the air, it is not strange that Admiral Moffett, who never hesitated because there might be danger, is gone. But it is a tribute to his courage, to his character, to the faith his family had in him that one and all, they think today the finest life is the one he chose.

The risks may be greater in a life that is constantly exploring and must take chances. Yet if death calls too soon—at least life has been worth living, the torch has been borne high, the heritage of serving one's country has been accepted eagerly. For such hearts of oak, the price that may be demanded is not too high.

POST HASTE.

For the moment it seems polite to consider identical silence on June debts a coincidental chorus, not a rehearsed concert.

Congress is hustling to finish up all its assigned chores even though it questions the President's compliment in wanting it scatterd impotently to the four winds before the economic conference meets.

Some folks think the effort to stabilize exchange is getting the horse and cart before more powerful mechanized movements.

Industry is getting all set to cooperate, but, apparently not so much with trust in a dictator as expected relief from anti-trust restrictions.

Gen. Johnson will be a good man to have standing by to see to it that synergized corporations do not become collusionized monopolies.

Before we make any hasty agreements it will be well to remember that pegging the pound is not a matter of either guesswork or experiment.

The growing market for hay-burning mules is a warning to Congress not to try to boost the gasoline tax too high.

Let the legislators also beware that in outlawing unsound issues they do not cripple the entire security market.

The President warns of the real estate racket and Miss Perkins denounces the employment sharks who are muscling in on the Shoals project.

While discussing economic questions with Viscount Ishii, might he not be asked whether the Army is also sending a representative to consider armaments and foreign aggression?

Geneva is to hear today how much world police duty Chief Roosevelt thinks Uncle Sam can be counted on to do, if any, when the nations throw away their obnoxious, noisome and offensive weapons.

There are just plain optimists, and then there is Secretary Hull, who believes the world trend toward economic self-sufficiency can be reversed.

Is that nice and friendly of France to withhold word that she isn't going to pay the June installment until the day before it is due?

THE MISER.

Somewhere within a hovel still he stays,
Counting the coins which he has saved for years.
In all the hardships of these dreary days
Nothing unusual to him appears.

No one there is who thinks of him as friend,
His hoarded money still is boxed secure.
He has not lost what he refused to lend,
Of every buried talent he is sure.

He chuckles to himself and counts his gold
And glories in the fact he has it still.
His heart, just like his hovel, bleak and cold,
Is not disturbed because the winds grow chill.

Though thousands suffer, he is used to pain;
Though all about him now have loss to brave,
Unchanged his ways of living still remain,
Who robbed himself his own few coins to save.

I fancy I can see him gloating o'er
In some deep corner of his hovel floor—

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ONE morning in the spring of the year a man walked a country road to enjoy the odor of apple blossoms and new-plowed earth. At the crest of a little hill he quit the road and began to climb a fence that inclosed a pasture.

He was seen by three watchers—a thief, a poet, and a buzzard that circled in the sky.

"He's planning to rob that farm house," said the thief.

"He is looking for wild flowers," said the poet.

And the buzzard, dropping a little lower, thought to itself: "He's after that dead sheep in the hollow."

It is our nature and practice to attribute to others the motives that would be ours if we were in their place. It isn't in human nature to credit others with a nobility of purpose of which we are incapable.

Consider the matter of personal publicity.

Those who earn their living by serving the public are often made conspicuous. Their activities make news. And when one of them does anything at all out of the ordinary, people who lack discernment sneer in chorus: "It's a publicity stunt. He's trying to attract attention."

It is true that vain people, in public service as in private life, delight in showing off. Their desire for publicity is evidenced by the unnatural things they do to gain it.

But if a man is made conspicuous by his job, it is stupid to assume that he plans or welcomes the publicity that is given to everything he does.

Much depends on the nature of the act. If it is one that would be worthy of headlines, though done by some person unknown to fame, then it may be a bid for publicity. But if it is one that any obscure person might do without attracting unusual notice, it is clearly no effort to win public attention. The resulting publicity is not a result of the man's act, but of his job.

As a matter of fact, the average public servant hates publicity and longs for the privacy and freedom enjoyed by the obscure. He is stared at and pointed at until he feels naked. He is like a strange animal in the zoo and his life is one long third degree.

Coolidge yearned to travel, but his fear and hatred of being made conspicuous kept him in hiding among his old friends.

Garbo covets decent privacy, and her effort to obtain it is called a publicity stunt.

We are cruel to those who serve us. How would you like it if you couldn't for a single hour escape the prying eyes of strangers except by hiding?

POLITICAL COMMENT

Congress and the Debts.

Topeka Capital.

A showdown between the President and Congress is reported by some of the Washington advices as inevitable and imminent, to come on the President's request for power to deal with the foreign debts. Many Congressmen in their campaigns last fall committed themselves against any and all reduction of the foreign debts, and will be embarrassed to grant the power asked by the Executive.

Whatever the sentiment in the country on the foreign debts, however, it should support the President in asking authority to deal with them in view of their importance as a factor in the London economic conference next month. Congress with public approval has given the President such extensive power, even to determining on his own motion the money standard of the Nation, that it can scarcely balk at a request which merely implements the American delegation in negotiations so far reaching that they include money standards, currencies and tariffs. If it can trust the President in these greater matters it can surely trust him not to give away the valid claims of this country without consideration in the matter of debts.

Appeal to Sanity.

Boston Transcript.

To call the President's speech a bold bid for world peace is to understate its significance. In reality, it is an appeal to the world to come to its senses, a warning to Germany, France, England and every other nation, including our own, that once again the world is at the crossroads, just as it was in 1914. If the world wants another war, all it need do is travel in one direction, perhaps the easy direction. If it wants to avoid another war, it must move swiftly and decisively down another path. The latter course will be harder. It will demand sacrifices, but can any nation's memory be so short that it will now refuse to yield something in order that there shall be no repetition of the holocaust of 20 years ago?

One thing the drys won't be able to say. They can't assert that prohibition made the country prosperous and that repeal is going to cast it into the dumps.

Going Up.

Boston Transcript.

The Washington wire carries good news from the Federal Reserve Board's advisory council. The latest meeting of this important committee finds an upward trend of business conditions and sentiment quite widely prevailing throughout the country. Since the members of the council comprise practical bankers from each of the twelve Reserve districts, their statement to this effect may be taken not only as representative but also as free from political buncombe.

"Doctor" Roosevelt.

Buffalo Courier-Express.

President Roosevelt will receive the degree of doctor of laws from the Catholic University of America at its commencement exercises in Washington on June 14. This is our first intimation that Mr. Roosevelt is not an LL. D. He has not been wearing his honors thick upon him, however, and the designation—if a duplicate or otherwise—can do him no harm.

No one can reasonably deny, however, that the President has earned the title of doctor of laws. He has been immensely active, not only in prescribing new laws for the land, but in improving our national well-being with a more vigorous application of time-tried remedies.

THE ONCE OVER

COVERING TERRITORY.

President Roosevelt, as if he didn't have troubles enough at home, turned his attention the other day to the world and sent an appeal to 54 nations asking them to act their age.

• • • •

He asked them to take the pledge against wars and sign a pact against aggression.

• • • •

The most surprised ruler on the list was probably Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. She was left a little breathless, but promised to see what she could do about keeping her country from attacking anybody.

• • • •

Belgium, Haiti and Panama were among the other nations urged to refrain from "invading the territory of other countries." They thanked Mr. Roosevelt for the compliment.

• • • •

King Fuad of Egypt got a copy, too. He scrapped four war camels and suspended work on a new barge.

• • • •

Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia; Faisal I, King of Iraq, and Prajadhipok of Siam were also on the list. Selassie said he hadn't a war in mind, and Prajadhipok showed figures to prove his fighting elephant herd is on a peace basis.

• • • •

The Emperor of Japan was included in the President's appeal asking nations to promise a policy of nonaggression.

• • • •

The Emperor said he agreed with President Roosevelt absolutely with regard to invading another's territory, and would immediately urge steps to see that the Chinese withdrew from China.

• • • •

Herr Hitler, of Germany, was so affected by Mr. Roosevelt's appeal that he became two other fellows and startled Europe by making a sensible speech.

• • • •

Showing that he had a change of pace, Hitler crossed his audience and indorsed almost everything Mr. Roosevelt said. It begins to look as if Adolf had at last realized that a good impression abroad wouldn't do him any serious harm.

• • • •

Mussolini said nothing, but it is unofficially reported that he immediately reduced himself to three scowls an hour.

• • • •

Despite centuries of evidence to the contrary, he still thinks the people of Europe and Asia can live happily, even if they tried being good friends.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Protests Against Increased Income Tax on Low-Salaried Citizens.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read that the sales tax seems doomed by Congress, and that a further income tax, lowering the exemption limit, is being seriously considered. May I urge you to oppose such an unjust addition to the already heavy burden of the man with the small salary? Strenuous and immediate opposition is needed if the taxpayer is to be saved from this outrage.

It is not surprising that Congress, after its wild performances in appropriating gigantic sums of the people's money for enterprises of doubtful value, should be "seeking additional sources of revenue." When these vast projects, advocated by professors and other theorizing advisers of the administration, some of them with more or less radical leanings, were being put forward, little was said as to how they would be paid for. Now the public is realizing that these measures can only be financed by further oppression of the taxpayer. But of all the oppressive tax schemes proposed by Congress, an increased income tax is the worst.

Men Can Be Employed in Navy and Army at Less Cost Than in Woods.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We feel that with so many young men idle, the United States Navy ought to be thrown wide open for their well-being. Navy recruits can be cared for at less cost than can those of the new forestry army. This is true of the Regular Army also. What sort of economy is it to "boost" the costlier while pinching the more economical agencies.

Colorado Society Holds Reception and Dance.

A large majority of the 500 transplanted Coloradans now living in Washington met the members of the Colorado Congressional delegation at a reception and dance at the Wardman Park on Saturday night. Many friends renewed acquaintance for the first time in Washington, and declared that the event was a pleasant substitute for a trip to the Rockies.

Recent news from the Centennial State was brought by several prominent visitors. Mrs. Valentine Fisher, of Boulder; Col. L. C. Paddock, editor of the Boulder Daily Camera, and Mr. Tom Morrissey, well-known Denver attorney, were among the guests of the society.

This was the first social event of the reorganized Colorado Society. The organization flourished during the years of the World War, but since then has been inactive.

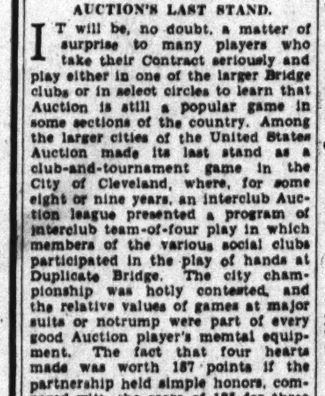
AUCTION'S LAST STAND.

IT will be, no doubt, a matter of surprise to many players who take their Contract seriously and play either in one of the larger Bridge clubs or in select circles to learn that Auction is still a popular game in some sections of the country. Among the larger cities of the United States Auction made its last stand as a club-and-tournament game in the City of Cleveland, where, for some eight or nine years, an interclub Auction league presented a program of interclub team-of-four play in which members of the various social clubs participated in the play of hands at Duplicate Bridge. The city championship was hotly contested, and the relative values of games at major suits or notrump were part of every good Auction player's mental equipment. The fact that four hearts made was worth 187 points if the partnership held simple honors, compared with the score of 185 for three Aces, frequently determined the eventual contract. For instance, a player was often faced with close decisions as to whether or not he should try to make four spades with simple honors, worth 191 points, in preference to a safer game contract of five diamonds, which under the same conditions would net only 190.

However much we may think that Duplicate Auction accentuated unreal values, as Duplicate Contract does, in making a difference in the value of game-going contracts, unquestionably many fine defensive plays were made in Auction, even with the slight information given in the bidding compared with the precise information ordinarily conveyed in reaching a game declaration at Contract.

One of the last hands played at Duplicate Auction in Cleveland was the one below, in which South was eventually forced to a contract of five spades:

South, Dealer.

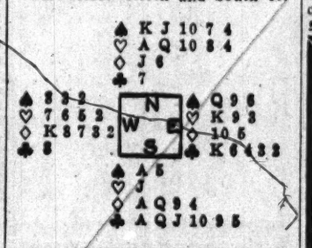


At every table but one, six spades were made, and at that table the Small Slam at Auction was defeated only by the skillful playing of Mr. O. E. Emrich, who was a member of the last championship Auction team in Cleveland. He held the West hand and opened with the heart King, which was, of course, the universal Opening. Other players shifted at this point to either a trump or a club, and permitted the making of the remaining tricks. However, Mr. Emrich, by the comparatively rare expedient of giving the Declarer a ruff in the weak trump hand, held the contract to five. He continued, after leading the King, with the Ace of hearts, thereby forcing a ruff by Dummy, which effectually prevented the setting up of the club suit for discards of losing diamonds. Ordinarily it is extremely bad play to deliberately give the Declarer a ruff in a hand weak in trumps, but the good player sees the situations which are exceptions as well as the situations which prove the rule.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If you, as East, were playing to defeat a contract of six clubs and your partner had opened the spade 8, what line of defense would you adopt when you eventually won a trick with the club King?

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
Part-score: North and South 60.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT is expected to speak during the May ball, which she will attend in the Seventh Regiment Armory in New York tonight, and which will be heard over WJSV and WRC at 10:30 o'clock.

The ball is being given to raise additional funds for the work started by Mrs. Roosevelt in providing rest rooms and lunch rooms for unemployed women.

Many stage, opera, screen and radio stars will cooperate in providing the entertainment, including Gladys Swarthout, Queena Mario, Frank Chapman, Mario Chamlee, Frances Alda, Grace Moore, James Melton, Fred Astaire, Dorothy Stone, Jimmy Durante and Frances Williams.

Burton Holmes, traveler; Floyd Gibbons, radio reporter; Phil Baker, stage and screen comic; Ben Bernie, Paul Whiteman, Charles Lyon and Wallace Butterworth, announcers, will cooperate in giving NBC listeners a description of the opening of the Chicago exposition next Saturday.

Lyon will speak from a point of vantage near the entrance to the stadium; Holmes will be heard from the Congress Hotel, where he will watch the parade and compare it to the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition, which he witnessed 40 years ago; Gibbons, equipped with powerful binoculars, will be on one of the towers of the sky-ride; Butterworth will describe the scene from a blimp, while Bernie, Whiteman, Baker and others will speak from the exposition grounds.

The evening broadcast will include songs by Lawrence Tibbett, Metropolitan Opera star, and music by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra with a chorus of 2,000 voices.

The choir of Sacred Heart Church will be heard over WRC tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Henry C. Harding, of Washington, has offered broadcasters the free privilege of using his newest song, "Fill the Glasses to Roosevelt."

The Tommy Sawyers Music Company, also of Washington, is offering copies of "A Little White Cottage," "free of charge and with permission for unrestricted use."

THE first observance of Maritime Day, named by Congress to commemorate the first transatlantic steamship voyage, 114 years ago, will be marked by a special program in which former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, will participate.

Gov. Smith will speak from New York and Senator Robinson from Washington. They will be heard over WRC network at 5:30 p. m.

It was on May 22, 1819, that the S. S. Savannah steamed out of Savannah, Ga., and a month later arrived in England. Several times en route she was sighted by sailing vessels which believed her to be a ship on fire.

The Rt. Rev. Joseph McMahon, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, in New York City, and president of the Associated Catholic Camps, will outline the purpose and mission of the camps in a broadcast at 1:30 p. m. over WMAL.

"Richelieu," or "The Conspiracy," a historical play in blank verse by Bulwer Lytton, which deals with the attempts made in France to overthrow Cardinal Richelieu, will be presented by the Radio Guild Players under Vernon Radcliffe's direction this afternoon at 3 o'clock over WMAL.

David Ross, who's still on the gold standard with his Poet's Gold, and gold-medal diction, says the Congressional theme song seems to be Silver Threats Among the Gold."

"UNCLE Tom's CABIN" will be presented over a National Broadcasting Company network next Thursday night at 10 o'clock, by a distinguished cast of actors.

It will be the same which is in the Players Club revival of the play, including Otis Skinner, Thomas Chalmers, Fay Bainter, Elliot Cabot, Lois Shore, Elizabeth Risdon, George Gaul and Eugene Lockhart.

Even this will be a little tame beside an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company we once saw billed to play in a tent, as we were passing through Kalamazoo (former home of Nelson B. Bell and Maynard O. Williams, the great traveler). The Kalamazoo "Uncle Tom" show advertised two Uncle Toms, two Elizas and two Little Evas.

The tragic climax of the war between the Lone Star Republic and Mexico—the fall of the Alamo—will be the colorful material of the "Bar X Days and Nights" dramatization as its second historical presentation over WJSV, at 7:15 p. m.

Oswald F. Schuette, of the broadcasters, has been raising E. C. Mills, of the composers, because the latter sent out a list of unidentified compositions, in which was included none other than our old friend, "The Star-Spangled Banner."

"As a part of the effort of the American Society of Composers to exact royalties for a large list of compositions, Mr. Mills is now trying to identify among its members, the composer, author or publisher of 'The Star-Spangled Banner.'" Mr. Schuette said yesterday, "To do this he has sent his members a long list of 'unidentified compositions.'

"It is difficult to see how broadcasting stations should be required to know what compositions are controlled by composers' society when they apparently don't know themselves."

Mr. Schuette wishes Mr. Mills luck "in his interesting search for the composer of 'The Star-Spangled Banner.'"

T. V. SOONG, finance minister of China, will be guest of honor at a dinner of the China Society of America at the Waldorf. Microphones will carry his address to the WMAL audience at 9 p. m.

The heading on a press release, "Frankfurter Heard in Home Hour," sounded as if there had been a marvelous radio accomplishment which might be of interest to Coney Island. A closer scrutiny of the release shows that it is merely an advance on the talk by Prof. Felix Frankforter over WMAL at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The guitar effect achieved by the Pickens Sisters is effected by pinching the nose with forefinger and thumb as the girls hum their theme song.

It was Jane's idea that started the trio on their own special technique.

TWO famous war-time flyers of the Army Air Corps, Capt. Harry Buckley and Lieut. Lansing Holden, who were comrades of Frank Luke, jr., the "balloon buster" of the Army's war birds, will tell of the life and exploits of Luke during the Hollywood-on-the-Air program over WRC at 11 p. m.

Luke, the American war ace, was killed after seventeen days in action but in that brief period accounted for a great many enemy balloons.

Harry Reser started broadcasting nearly eight years ago with a specialty banjo orchestra. He has broadcast each week without interruption since, but now there is only one banjo in the band. That one is Reser's and he only plays solos.

Jimmy Wallington's knowledge of dogs probably saved the life of his full-blooded bull terrier, poisoned this week in the Wallington yard at Bayside, Long Island.

Recognizing poison symptoms a few minutes after the dog had eaten something, Wallington rushed his 65-pound thoroughbred, Pat, to a Long Island animal hospital. There the doctor told the announcer he had saved the dog's life by his quick action.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK—Personal notes off a New Yorkers cuff:

Wandering along the East Side, one runs into a "gents furnishing" store which has its dingy windows crammed with more vagrant merchandise than a bargain day grab bag.

One of the many signs on its front reads, "Dress Suits for Rent." Above and below these signs are other placards reading, "Free Soap." It is not specified whether the free soap is for the dress suit or the wearer.

Frisco—Joe and a cigar to his intimates—once explained why he stutters. "Playing these four-shows-a-day-houses," he said, "you g-g-get to repeating yourself."

Too, Joe Cook wires in this epigram: "Some girls," he has decided, "are too dumb to be natural. They must have rehearsed."

Their Nights Out.

These baby cameras, which can be hidden in the palm of the hand, have frightened out many of the celebrated habitues of Broadway night life. They have been caught in too many informal moments by amateur photographers.

Crossing Lexington avenue, I bumped into Barbara Newberry. "Where to?" inquires I. "To the boiler factory," says she. That, it was surmised, was a vaudeville theater.

Alice Leone Moats has upset Emily Post and all the other etiquette arbiters with her book on the proper thing to do and say in this modern day of surprising manners.

Miss Moats is young, pretty in a Dresden china shepherdess way, and very smart. Born in Mexico, she was educated in Europe's most exclusive classrooms, and now she prefers New York as a cosmopolite's ideal place to live. Yes, a blonde.

Double Liberty.

There are two statues of Liberty in New York. One is the original in the harbor. The other is a reproduction, and a very good one, atop a storage warehouse in the West Sixties.

Incidentally, Bedloe's Island, on which the statue stands, is a military reservation and only one civilian has ever lived there. That was a newspaper man who liked the place, and so the soldiers allowed him to bunk there during a summer.

Another fact about the statue is that it aways when the wind blows briskly across the harbor. But there is no danger. It is simply set that way so it can absorb all shocks.

Many buildings in Manhattan are set the same way. For instance, the New York Central Building has a foundation of pneumatic springs.

WALTER MILLER, long and lean and left-handed, who does the side-arm pitching for the White Sox, sidetracked the Nats yesterday with two hits in a pretty romance of the pitching mound that brought back memories of 1929 and his forlorn exit from the Cleveland Club.

He couldn't pitch any more for Cleveland. He had a sore arm and was washed up. He stayed out of baseball for three years and tinkered unsuccessfully with his salary wing. Then he had his back treated as a last resort. Something seemed to snap into place and he applied for a job this spring with the White Sox. Yesterday they took a chance on Miller and started him for the first time.

Heinie Manush made a hit off Miller in the first inning. Seven innings later Goose Goslin made the second hit off him. That was all. The Nats' hitters pulled up with a collection of sore backs and a 6-to-0 beating. Miller was that good.

Miller Always Ahead Of Hitter.

A Federal tax on strikes, both called and swung, would have wiped out the national deficit yesterday. Miller was throwing his side-arm mush ball up to the platter all afternoon and he was always ahead of the hitter. His slow curve swept across the plate in eccentric dips that found the Nats swinging futilely and usually when they weren't swinging they were taking called strikes.

For three innings Washington's hitters protested vigorously Umpire Owens' calling of strikes, but the objections became weaker and finally subsided as Miller continued to throw his tantalizing slow stuff past them. When they did connect with the ball it was usually a dribbler to the infield or a pop to the outfield with the hitters forced to supply their own power.

Even Manush's hit was a scratch affair to the infield. Goslin's single to center was the only legitimate wallop off this guy Miller, who was making his first start in the big league in three years. Joe Cronin sent Dave Harris and Bob Boken, right-handed swingers, into the line-up midway in the game in an attempt to break through Miller's defense, but Miller still had what it takes.

Miller Pitches and Simmons Hits.

The White Sox won the ball game very simply. Their methods consisted merely of permitting Miller to pitch and Al Simmons to bat. The idea was to get Haas and Swanson on base and let Simmons hit the fences. They adopted this plan in the fourth and repeated it in the eighth and Simmons had four runs driven in to his credit.

Al Crowder was out there, too, seeking his sixth straight win of the season, against a club that he beat eight times last year. But the club that he beat so regularly in 1932 didn't have Miller and it didn't have Simmons and Haas. That was the difference. Crowder abdicated in the eighth after permitting five runs and ten hits.

The score board had already revealed that the Browns had beaten the Yankees and a victory for the Nats would send them into a virtual tie for first place. But it was not to be. Miller pitched the White Sox into third place, a scant half game behind the Nats and gave them a 2-to-1 edge in the three-game series here.

The box score speaks eloquently of Miller's feat yesterday. Only three Nats reached base during the nine innings—Manush and Goslin, who made hits, and Luke Sewell, who walked twice. Only Sewell advanced as far as second, and that on a sacrifice. And if there is any effort to detract from Miller's performance it must be remembered that in the Sunday morning averages the Nats led all the American League clubs in hitting. You can't take much away from him.

Simmons First Double Near-Homer.

Simmons rattled his first ball off the fence in the fourth inning. Haas had singled and Myer's error put Swanson on base. Simmons slammed one to the left-field bleacher fence, a foot shy of a homer, and two runs scored.

The same pair were on base again in the eighth. Crowder threw Simmons a slow ball, head high, that Simmons missed by a foot. Thus encouraged, Crowder tempted him with another pitch of the same kind. There was nothing slow about the way it rocketed out into left center against the fence for two bases, and Haas and Swanson scored again, Simonizing the bases.

Brown and Red Sox Blank Tigers, 2 to 0

Boston, May 21 (A.P.).—Lloyd Brown, recently acquired Red Sox southpaw, today limited Detroit to six hits to score a 2 to 0 victory.

The shutout, which gave the hustling Sox two of the three-game series with the Tigers, was achieved only through some brilliant support by Brown's teammates and his own defensive accuracy. In the fourth, his throw to Rick Ferrill at the plate cut off Charlie Gehringer who was attempting to score. Bill Werber cut off another run in the seventh when his throw to Ferrell nipped Greenberg.

Harris Brings Tigers Here Today

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

MANAGER BUCKY HARRIS and his trained Tigers beat the regular circus season to the Capital City by a week, opening a three-game set against the Nationals this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. It will be no circus for the Nats, though, if they put their bats to no better use than they did yesterday. Carl Fischer, former Washington southpaw, is expected to twirl for the Harrismen, while Earl Whitehill, who has performed practically all of his major league career to date in Detroit uniform, will face his former mates.

Dave Harris probably will get the call in center if Fischer pitches, although Manager Joe Cronin yesterday did not exactly follow out his announced plan of starting Dave against southpaws and Sam Rice against right handers during Fred Schulte's absence. Because Rice had cracked out four safeties in Saturday's game, he was given the starting call against Southpaw Walter Miller yesterday. In the sixth, however, Harris drew the assignment, hitting for Rice and becoming Miller's fifth strikeout victim.

Sammy West, popular little Nat centerfielder of several years until traded last winter to the St. Louis Browns, arrived in town yesterday. He was hit in the face and suffered a fractured cheek-bone and several loosened teeth in Boston last Thursday and the idea in sending him here is to let him recouperate so that he may get back in the St. Louis line-up when his team shows up here Thursday. But there is not a chance of West playing here, judging from his report yesterday.

West, by the way, was injured in a most unusual and unnecessary manner. He was standing safe on second-base talking to Johnny Hodapp, Red Sox second baseman, during the game when Dale Alexander suddenly lined the ball to the sack, injuring West. His explanation was that he thought Sam was Shortstop Bill Werber and was trying to pick West off the base. Like rain-storms, you never can tell when a brain-storm will hit.

Vice President John Garner was on hand again, but the teams apparently got their signals crossed and it was the Chisox that provided all of the fireworks for his edification.

Two fine catches were turned in by the Nats in the fifth yesterday. Catcher Sewell leaning over a rail and snaring Hayes' foul from a box and Rice scurrying back to the left of the flagpole to fasten himself on the end of a long looper off Haas' bat.

Crowder pitched but two balls to the first two Sox in the seventh, but it took two good catches, by Harris and Manush, to turn them into outs. Harris went up against the stands in left center to snag Dykes' hard-hit liner.

Simmons did not have a chance afield until the Nats' seventh, but he was anything but inactive at the plate, getting two doubles, each of which propelled home two mates. "General" Crowder made Simmons look foolish on a slow ball just before he made his second two-base hit, but Simmons had the last laugh. When the General looped a second one plateward, it never reached its intended destination.

POST MORTEMS . . .

Al Simmons will celebrate his thirtieth birthday today at Boston . . . Al Crowder takes another chaw of tobacco when the situation is tense . . . and looks around at his outfield before throwing the ball . . . it was coincidental that with the Nats losing yesterday the scoreboard revealed that Lloyd Brown and Irving Hadley, former Nats, were winning a couple of well-pitched games to the North . . . Bowie track officials laugh at reports that they are interested in the new track to be built at Martinsburg, W. Va. . . . they say that the numerous tax clauses written into the State racing bill make any racing attempt in West Virginia unprofitable . . . Herman Meddler, who was the author of his second no-hit, no-run game on the sandlots here yesterday, couldn't win consistently in the Capital City League last year.

Bucky Harris and his Tigers and Joe Cronin and his Nats will be guests of the Fox Theater tonight . . . and the players' wives and sweethearts are invited, too . . . under the "Strange As It Seems" caption comes word from Grand Forks, N. Dak., that N. D. State and N. D. U. end their spring grid training with a football game tomorrow night . . . Gene Casey declines to take all the credit for successfully staging the "C" Club meet last Saturday . . . he casts a few votes for Dick Newby . . . Columbia U. regained the Eastern Intercollegiate League lead last week by beating Princeton . . . Columbia took this game handily but had to do a little ticticuffing Saturday before it could make New York U. lay down and play dead . . . Pete Sarron made such a hit in Pittsburgh recently when he knocked out Johnny Datto, that he plays a return engagement there next Friday night . . . he tackles Pete DeGrasse, French-Canadian from Montreal.

Yanks Beaten By Browns Again, 8-4

Hadley Is Wild, But Allows Foe Only Four Hits.

Van Atta Is Routed; Combs Gets Fluke Homer in Sun.

NEW YORK, May 21 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns continued their assaults on the Yankees today, climbing into sixth place in the American League standing as they knocked off the world's champions for the second straight time, 8 to 4.

The Browns piled up fifteen hits off three New York pitchers, giving Russell Van Atta, rookie southpaw, his first defeat of the season, while Irving "Bump" Hadley overcame his wildness by holding the Yanks to four hits to ring up his sixth triumph of the season.

Hadley issued eight passes on balls, but he pitched fine ball in the pinches. Three of the Yankee runs came as the result of a fluke home run in the seventh inning when, with Frank Crosetti and Dixie Walker on base, Ted Gullic lost a fly in the sun and Combs circled the bases.

Gehrig Drives in First Yankee Run.

Lou Gehrig drove in the first Yankee run with an infield hit in the opening round after Combs had drawn Hadley's first pass and Babe Ruth had advanced him with a single.

The Browns got to Van Atta for two runs in the first inning and sent him to the showers in the third when they pushed over another tally. Herb Pennock was batted rather freely, but weakened in the eighth and St. Louis scored three more tallies. The Browns made their last two off Wiley Moore in the ninth.

Irving Burns and Gullic led the Browns, with three hits apiece, and Burns scored three of their runs.

Beginning this afternoon and continuing throughout the remainder of the season, American League games here will start at 3:15 o'clock instead of at 3, President Clark Griffith, of the Washington club, has announced.

This delay of fifteen minutes in starting time was made at the request of bank, stock exchange and Government employes.

Shaw Beaten; Canzoneri's Title Again

10,000 See Italian in New Orleans Win Decisively.

NEW ORLEANS, May 21 (A.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, world lightweight champion, today recaptured the junior welterweight title he lost in January, 1932, by slashing out a 10-round decision over Battling Shaw, the Mexican who won the title from Johnny Jadick, of Philadelphia, a few months ago. Jadick had previously won it from Canzoneri. Ten thousand saw today's battle.

The fighting in the early rounds was comparatively even, but late in the going Canzoneri opened up with a damaging right hook, which put the titleholder down in the seventh round and again in the eighth for a count of nine.

Shaw Awarded Two Rounds.

Shaw, who was born Jose Peres at Laredo, Tex., was awarded two rounds of the fight and given an even break in another, by Referee Jimmy Moran.

One judge's scorecard showed four rounds for Shaw and none even. The other judge's card gave two rounds to Shaw and one even.

SOUTH AFRICA COPS.

Basel, May 21 (A.P.).—South Africa eliminated Switzerland from further Davis Cup play tonight although the final two singles matches were evenly divided.

South Americans Due to Offer Stern Competition.

High Officials to Be Among 2,500 at Zone Finals.

THE crack United States Davis Cup Team—Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, George Lott and John Van Ryn—formally selected last night by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will arrive in Washington today to begin practice for the American zone finals against Argentina Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at Chevy Chase.

Washington tennis devotees have displayed great interest in the forthcoming event—the most important on the District tennis calendar. Vines, American and Wimbledon champion, and conqueror of that sterling French player, Henri Cochet, is appearing in Davis Cup competition here for the second time. Several thousand are expected to watch the matches.

Made Clean Sweep In Canada.

The Yankee team made a clean sweep in the North American zone finals with Canada, but perhaps a little more stubborn opposition is expected from the bronzed Argentinians—Adriano Zappa, Hector Catarruzza and Edelmar Echeverria. For more than a week the South American champions have been practicing feverishly at the Chevy Chase courts.

MARTINSBURG HOPES TO GET RACE TRACK FOR USE IN FALL

Bill Is Passed And Move Is Spurred

State Officials and Horsemen Confer on Proposal.

Plan Is to Have Fair in Conjunction With Meeting.

Special to The Washington Post.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., May 21. Establishment of a horse racing track here in time for use in the fall season was indicated authoritatively yesterday by local persons who have been sponsoring the move and whose activity was heightened by the enactment of the bill by the State Legislature last week legalizing both the racing and use of the parimutuels. The bill became a law without the governor's signature.

Announcement was made yesterday that State officials, including Commissioner of Agriculture J. B. McLaughlin, who will have charge of enforcement of the law, had gone to Washington and Baltimore for a conference with experienced race track officials as to plans.

Dr. Tokin Heads Backers.

Dr. R. G. Tokin, former mayor here, is heading the local group of interested backers of the project. The movement has been in progress for some months. They have conferred with prominent Maryland race officials who showed a practical interest, they said, but only in case the law was enacted. A visit to this city probably immediately after May 30 by the Maryland group has been tentatively arranged.

The plan is to operate a fair in the fall in conjunction with the race meeting as is the case in Cumberland and Hagerstown, Md. The track would be on the same circuit with Cumberland and Hagerstown, under the plan. Both spring and fall meets would be planned.

Several sites were considered for a track when Maryland men were here some months ago. One of them is immediately southeast of the city. Others are farther away.

Four Americans Entered In French Tennis Play

Auteuil, France, May 21 (A.P.).—Four Americans are among the 80 players entered in the eighth annual French hard-court tennis championships which open here tomorrow and continue until June 5.

Frank Shields, of New York, and Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., are the principal American hopes, although they receive valuable assistance from Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, of Stamford, Conn., and Elizabeth Ryan, the Californian who has lived for many years in England.

FREDRICK'S NINE WINS.

Fredrick's Store nine yesterday defeated the Virginia A. C., 11 to 9, with a six-run rally in the ninth inning. Rodes, outfielder for the winners, led the attack with a pair of home runs, a triple and a double, driving in six runs. Gettsinger went the route for the winners.

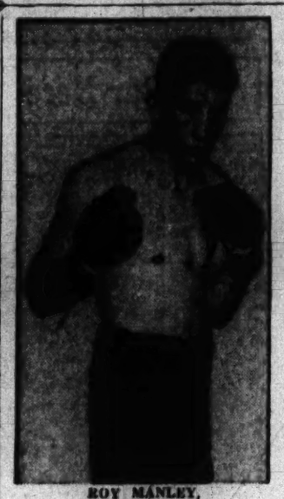
Irving, a Good 'Middle' Man, Set for Overlin, a 'Chinner'

Raymond-Manley Go Tomorrow Draws Interest Also.



ROY MANLEY,
who meets Lou Raymond, of Baltimore, at Portner's Tuesday night.

THE body vs. the chin. Ken Overlin, of Norfolk, vs. Henry Irving, of Washington. That is tomorrow night's feature at Portner's Arena in what is expected to be a slashing battle.

Overlin, the sharpshooter, with a right hand as swift as a rifle shot, is out to knock Irving stiff with a blow to the chin, while Irving will be in there digging away at Ken's body.

It is no secret that Overlin is weak in what the boxing public terms "downstairs." Every time the good-looking Norfolk sailor is plugged there he begins to wobble. But he is a good "chinner."

On the other hand, you can punch at Irving's middle all night and he will still be standing erect, giving as much as he receives. But when it comes to taking a shot on the "kisser" Irving is not so good.

It will be interesting to watch the outcome of this melee between the body puncher and the right-hand artist. During the past indoor season no middleweight in these parts has developed as stiff a body punch as has Irving. The same holds true for Overlin when it comes to sharpshooting.

Another match tomorrow night that has aroused interest is the Lew Raymond-Roy Manley bout. Raymond has defeated Tootsie Bashara, the boxer who outpointed Manley for his only defeat this season.

But Roy has been going so good of late, many figure he has a great chance to pull up ahead of his Baltimore rival.

When Red Journee knocked out Lloyd Phelps in a punch, the fans immediately wanted to see more of him. Not until Billy Strickler came to the front was there a suitable opponent for the hard-hitting redhead. They are to meet in an eight-rounder.

Chief Perry Knowles is anxious to keep up his winning streak by defeating Willie Essinger in the opening six rounder. Knowles' triumph over Young Raspi in Baltimore a few weeks ago signified he is a better boxer than he showed against Doug Swetnam.

Dusek Has 7 Draws With Coleman

Bout Thursday Night to Be Feature on Outdoor Card.

IT IS interesting to note that Messrs. Ernie Dusek and Abe Coleman, principals in the feature bout of the first outdoor wrestling show of the season to be held Thursday at Griffith Stadium, have met on no less than seven occasions without arriving at a decision.

Six of the engagements were 30-minute affairs, but one was a two-hour time limit match. It is easy enough for the boys to waltz around for 30 minutes without damaging one another's reputation but when they go two hours to a draw it looks very much like one of them missed the signals.

After a series of build-up matches, Dusek was put in against J. Londos two weeks ago at the Auditorium. None of the build-up boys has triumphed over Mr. Londos and it was illogical to conceive of Ernie succeeding where so many have failed, especially with a scant 5,000 patrons looking on.

Was Not Thrown, At Any Rate.

Dusek must be given credit for the procedure he followed in going down to defeat. He simply missed a flying tackle, went through the ropes and was rendered hors de combat. He lost, but Londos didn't throw him. Now all he needs is a few more bouts at the ball park to make the win column impressive looking and another bout with Londos is a certainty.

Rudy Dusek and Dick Raines have been matched in the 45-minute semi-final. Other bouts on the program include Vic Christy vs. Nick Condos, Fred Grobmier vs. Henry Piers, and Everett Marshall vs. Jim McMillan.

5,000 See Schmeling In Hardest Workout

Lake Swannanoa, N. J., May 21 (U.P.).—Nearly 5,000 visitors jammed the outdoor arena today and watched Max Schmeling go through the hardest workout of his training preparations for his 15-round bout against Maxie Baer at New York, June 8.

ITALIAN TEAM WINS.

Genoa, May 21 (A.P.).—Italy qualified to meet England in the third round of European Zone Davis Cup tennis competition by defeating Austria, 4 to 1, in their second round series completed today.

The Italian-British series will start at London June 19.

ALLAN BEATS NEE AND WINS CROWN

In the morning round, Allan forged into the finals by topping Ed Steinberg, of City College, 3 and 1. Nee downed Pat Reilly, of Baltimore Polytechnic, 4 and 3.

Allan swept into a commanding lead in his match with Nee. Going to the sixth hole, Nee was four down. Nee won the eighth and ninth to round the turn two down. Nee won the tenth to slice down the lead, but Allan bagged the twelfth, fourteenth, and they halved the sixteenth, where the match ended. Allan, putting in fine form, finished with a 73, three above par. Nee carded a 78.

School Nines End Series Thursday

Tech - Roosevelt Due to Play Today; Meet Listed Friday.

HIGH school athletes enter into their last full week of competition facing the toughest schedule of the year. The annual championship track meet on Friday at Central and Tech's game with Roosevelt in the baseball series are the highlights of the card.

Although not scheduled this week, officials of Tech and Roosevelt have tentatively arranged to play the game between the two today. Tech has a game scheduled with Georgetown Prep, but this will be postponed to make way for the series fray. A Tech victory will give the Maroon and Gray a clear claim to the title.

Central meets Roosevelt Thursday in its final game of the series. Saturday the Blue and White journeys to Lorton for a tussle with the Reformatory nine.

Though the track teams fared rather badly in the "C" Club games yesterday, a close battle for points is expected in the interhigh meet Friday. Tech reigns the favorite despite the fact that both Eastern and Central outscored it yesterday.

Rothschild's Amidon Wins Prix Rainbow

Longchamps, France, May 21 (A.P.).—Baron Rothschild's Amidon won the 5,000 meter Prix Rainbow, feature of a racing card here today, with Juan Antonio Fernandez's Pourquoi Pas second and G. Matossian's Sailor King third. The winner paid 27 francs for 5. The race carried a purse of 50,000 francs (about $2,350 at current exchange).

ST. JOSEPH'S, HEIGHTS WIN

Six-Run Rally Lets Saints Triumph

Federal A. C. Loses Capital City Contest, 13 to 6.

Woltz Nine Bows to Columbia Heights by 5-3 Score.

ST. JOSEPH'S and Congress Heights chalked up their second consecutive victories in the Capital City League yesterday, winning over the Federal A. C. and Woltz Photographers, respectively.

Rallies in the waning moments of the games brought victory to the winners. St. Joseph's shoved six runs across the pan in the seventh inning to put its game under lock and key, 13-6, while Congress Heights came from behind with a four-run splurge in the eighth inning to win over the Photographers, 5-3.

Porter Baffles Woltz Batters.

Joe Porter's southpaw slants baffled the Woltz batters and he held them to four hits, but they made the most of these, and only a great running catch by "Bee" Sweeney, with the bases loaded, in the second frame saved the home team from greater damage.

Freddy Noone, Joe Much and "Irish" Long led St. Joseph's at the plate, collecting seven hits between them.

WASHINGTON A. C. WINS.

Deck Beats O'Neil in Upset As Other Net Favorites Win

ONE more seeded player fell by the wayside in the City of Washington Tennis Association tournament yesterday at the Rock Creek courts when Pat Deck eliminated Maurice O'Neil in three torrid sets. The scores were 13—10, 8—7, 6—1. Otherwise, the favorites survived.

Seeded No. 6, O'Neil offered stout resistance before succumbing to the inexhaustive Deck. The pair battled for three hours before Deck succeeded in accumulating enough points to decide the match.

Later in the afternoon Deck and his partner, Sidell, seeded No. 3 in doubles, were eliminated in straight sets by the team of Garnett and Gould, 6—2, 6—4.

Mrs. Ruth Martines came through with a victory over Bobsy Turner in the second round of the women's singles.

New Method For Naming Golf Team

Challenge Rounds to Be Participated in by Women.

By DAVE HERMAN.

CHALLENGE rounds to determine the strongest line-up for the important intercity matches with Baltimore on Thursday, June 1, at the Manor Club, will be played by members of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association's first team, according to Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, team captain.

The challenge system marks a departure from the present method of selecting players for the various positions on the basis of their handicaps. If the players do not challenge each other before May 29, Mrs. Keefer and her assistant, Mrs. H. R. Quinter, will select a team, regardless of handicaps.

Return Match With Richmond.

Players may challenge their partners in the first team matches to be held at Congressional this morning, and at the Washington course on May 29. Those wishing to be assured of places on the team must challenge a lower handicap player, and turn in the result to Mrs. Keefer by May 29.

The team for the return match with Richmond here Friday and Saturday will be composed of women who went to the Virginia capital.

Here are the teams who will compete this morning at Congressional: 9:15 at No. 1 tee—Columbia vs. Beaver Dam; 9:30 at No. 1—Congressional vs. Washington; 9:30 at No. 10—Army-Navy vs. Kenwood; 9:45 at No. 10—Woodmont vs. Manor; 10:00 at No. 1—Chevy Chase vs . Indian Spring.

Following are the players with handicaps who will participate in the challenge matches to determine the places on the team:

Mrs. J. M. Haynes (2), Mrs. Betty Palmer Mallory (3), Mrs. C. Nicolson (5), Miss Susan Hacker (7), Mrs. W. Bellen (7), Mrs. Hume Wrong (7), Mrs. Donald Scott (8), Mrs. R. B. Quinter (9), Mrs. Harrison Brand (9), Mrs. Jerome Mayer (9), Miss Virginia Pope (9), Mrs. Alma Von Steinner (9), Mrs. Ralph Goldsmith (10), Miss Virginia Williams (10), Mrs. Ralph Talbot (10), Mrs. J. V. Brownell (10), Mrs. T. E. Booker (10) Mrs. G. Chapman (10).

Mrs. J. C. Rhyne (11), Mrs. L. G. Pray (11), Mrs. B. C. Harris (11), Mrs. M. A. Noyes (11), Mrs. A. Knox (11), Mrs. R. J. Richardson (11), Mrs. A. S. Merrill (12), Mrs. B. Luscomb (12), Mrs. J. A. Marr (12), Mrs. Norman Frost (11), Mrs. Leo Walper (13), Mrs. W. S. Davis (13), Mrs. W. E. Hall (13), Mrs. F. B. Platt (14), Mrs. Ralph Orr (12), Miss Louise Carter (14), Mrs. A. E. Rule (14), Miss Elizabeth Browne (12), Mrs. MacCook-Knox (14), Mrs. Catherine May (16).

Carvell Diller, with 98—17—81, and H. A. Mihills, with 95—14—81, tied for top honors in the blind bogey tournament ending yesterday at Indian Spring. W. T. Rodden, with 92—25—73 and, R. R. Reagh, with 93—20—73, tied for third and fourth prizes.

James A. Cosgrove, well-known District lawyer, teamed with Mrs. R. E. Burney yesterday to win the mixed Scotch foursome at Manor. They tallied 101—22—79. Deadlocked for second prize were Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Pray, with 95—15—80, and H. A. Neff and his daughter, Nellie Mae, with 93—13—80.

K. G. Hale beat G. Kupka, 3 and 2, to win first flight honors in the miniature golf tournament in which 66 Beaver Dam members participated.

Dr. C. Bassaches, with 107—42—65, won first prize in the sweepstakes at Woodmont yesterday. Morris Iseman, with 89—19—70 won second, while Leopold V. Preudberg, with 87—16—71 tied for third with Dr. Joseph Mazo, who had 113—42—71.

Mrs. Theodore Peyser is donating a trophy for first prize at the "Ladies Day" tournament at Woodmont tomorrow.

Women golfers of Chevy Chase will qualify tomorrow morning at 9:30 in the French High Commission Cup tournament to determine the 16 low net players, who will compete for the championship.

Qualifying play in the East Potomac spring golf championship gets under way this morning, with 81 competing.

The District of Columbia Women's Golf Association will have no part in the match with the Elkridge Club, of Baltimore Wednesday. The Columbia Country Club feminine team led by Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, will meet the Elkridge woman, it was announced.

TAKOMA A. C. WINNER.

The Takoma A. C. made its debut yesterday, winning a 4-2 victory over the heretofore undefeated Cabin John Fire Department nine in a well-played game. Johnny Pope held the losers to five hits and fanned seven. For games with the winners call Shepherd 2079.

DICKERSON WINS AGAIN.

With Baker showing the way the Dickerson A. C. pounded out a 13-8 victory over the Bethesda A. C. yesterday. Baker connected for four hits in as many trips to the plate.

SESSION HERE VOTES $1,000,000 FUND FOR JEWISH PROTECTION

1,500 Moved by Brilliant Speakers' Denunciation of Hitler Course.

A brilliant group of speakers launched additional denunciations of Hitler and Germany's attitude toward Jews yesterday at sessions of the American Jewish Congress at the Willard Hotel during which more than 1,500 delegates voted unanimously to raise a million-dollar fund for the protection of Jewish rights in Germany and the rest of the world.

Justice Mitchell May, of the Supreme Court of New York, presented the resolution for the "Emergency Defense Fund." It stated that "the masters of Germany have set up an international organization, seeking to infect every nation of the world with the virus of anti-Semitism, the avowed purpose of which is a war of extermination against the Jew."

The resolution also charged that Hitler henchmen were operating in this country to swing the sentiment of one section of the population against the other.

Germany and Equity.

Rabbi Stephen Wise stated that the generosity of President Roosevelt in extending measures of economic security and world peace might be hoped to save the Jews of Germany from German oppression.

"Germany," he asserted, "rightfully demands peace and equity. It need hardly be stated that he who seeks equity must deal in equity, that he who seeks equity must come into court with clean hands. The day will come when the world at Geneva or at some other world tribunal will, and indeed must, demand that if Germany seeks peace with the nations of the world, Germany can not continue its war upon the Jewish people.

Rabbi Wise explains the plans for the World Jewish Congress. He read a cablegram from Prof. Albert Einstein, distinguished scientist, accepting the honorary presidency of the world congress. Prof. Einstein is now living in voluntary exile in Belgium in protest of the treatment of Jews in Germany.

A humorous note was injected in the session of the congress at a banquet last night. Will Rogers, noted humorist, told the meeting that Hitler was "a bum imitation of Mussolini." In his characteristic manner, Rogers stated that the people who were in contact with Jews in this country appreciated their efforts toward creating a higher standard of life.

Solution by Education.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, addressing the banquet meeting, stated that the only solution to the condition of the Jews in Germany was painfully slow. The solution, he asserted, was to educate and help to create an example that all the world can see and profit by.

The friendship of the Roosevelt administration toward the Jews was emphasized by Representative Adolph J. Sabath, of Illinois, who stated that the President will bring home to Germany this country's abhorence of discrimination against any people.

"I know from personal knowledge that the President of the United States and members of his administration have been following the situation in Germany very closely and that considering the circumstances everything has been done which could be done up to the present time."

$68,000 Raised at Banquet.

Sixty-eight thousand dollars was raised at the banquet as contributions toward the defense fund. Louis Lipsky stated that he seriously doubted the value of funds raised for relief of Jewry as it is being carried on by various agencies.

The gathering of funds to feed the hungry and clothe the naked would serve to divert the attention of Jewry from its unavoidable fight for justice and equal treatment, and would enable the civilized nations of the world to avoid once more facing the issue raised by anti-Semitic developments of recent times, Lipsky said.

Job for Statesmanship.

"This issue can not be smothered by evasions or deflected by the plea that other world problems are of greater or more immediate importance. The Jewish question in all its existing and terrible aspects must be given serious thought by enlightened statesmanship," he added.

Justice May aligned himself with the views expressed by Lipsky.

"The situation of German Jewry can not be met with the palliatives of relief funds," he asserted. "Man can not live by bread alone. The purpose of this fund must be to safeguard the emancipation of the Jew brought about by centuries of struggle, through the mobilization of liberal opinion of mankind the world over.

"This is the heart of our problem. Charitable relief, however urgent, and however close our sympathies, dare not be permitted to obscure the issue. Our future and the future of the generations to come rests today upon the outcome of our fight against Hitlerism."

WOODRING SPEAKS TO V. F. W. GROUPS

Pays Tribute to War Dead in Memorial Services at Arlington.

Paying tribute to the Nation's soldier dead and tracing the ideals for which they fought and perished, Harry H. Woodring, Assistant Secretary of War, declared in an address at the Memorial Amphitheater at Arlington Cemetery yesterday that "these national ideals are being threatened . . . by intangible forces which have been loosened upon the world through a partial breakdown of the established economic orders."

Mr. Woodring spoke before the second annual pilgrimage of several hundred members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New York and New Jersey to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Included in the group also were several hundred women from those States, representing the American War Mothers and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies Auxiliary.

After the ceremonies, the New York and New Jersey groups placed Buddy Poppy wreaths on the tomb.

Mr. Woodring declared many readjustments will be necessary to restore economic stability and said it could not be established "by a return to the old order of things, but is dependent upon the establishment of better and more equitable relationships between agriculture, industry, labor, capital and the Government."

The principal speaker was introduced by Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, U. S. N., retired, who also delivered a short address. Stephan C. Parker, New York State quartermaster of the V. F. W., was chairman of the Empire State committee in charge of the pilgrimage, and Charles Peterson, of Newark, chairman of the New Jersey section.

Following the services at Arlington, the groups toured points of interest in the Capital and began their homeward trip last night.

Car of Senator's Wife In Collision; 2 Hurt

A car driven by Mrs. Ewilda Robinson, of 100 Maryland avenue northeast, wife of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, yesterday collided with one occupied by two youths at Connecticut avenue and H street.

Damage was slight, however, and the boys, Frank Shelton, 17, and George Hall, jr., 16, both of Dumbarton, Va., were treated at Emergency Hospital for minor injuries and later released.

Antiquities Tour Tomorrow.

The pilgrimage of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities to Williamsburg, Jamestown and Yorktown, Va., will be made tomorrow. The tour will start from the south side of the Treasury Building at 8:30 a. m. Tickets will be available at the starting point.

Two Holdup Men Add to Three R's They Learned at School With Victim.

"Here, Jerry, we went to school with you. We don't want to take all you have."

With that they tossed back $20 of the $60 they had taken from the manager and then ran down Georgia avenue.

They were later taken into custody by police on a description given by Kennedy. At the Sixth Precinct station they said they are Theodore Tatum, 18, 2521 Kansas avenue, northwest, and Murray Kraft, 18, 1109 Buchanan street, northwest.

EXPLOSION IS FATAL TO WOMAN IN HOME

Friends Blame Blast on Can of Alcohol; Husband Is Seriously Burned.

Mrs. Betty Staunton, 25, is dead and her husband, Robert, is in a local hospital, with slight chance for recovery, as the result of an explosion in their home at 748 Sixth street northwest, early yesterday. Mrs. Staunton died on the operating table at Emergency Hospital, a few hours after she was admitted.

According to police, who questioned several witnesses and the injured man, the couple with some friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Baggette, were drinking when Staunton went to the third floor of the house for more liquor. In a few moments, witnesses said, he called his wife.

A terrific explosion shook the house a few minutes later. Police quoted Staunton and the Baggette couple as saying that ignition of fumes from a can of alcohol which had been confined in a small unventilated room, caused the explosion.

Baggette said that he found Mrs. Staunton on the second floor of the house with her clothing ablaze. He said he thought she must have been blown down a flight of stairs which lead to the room where the alcohol was kept. He said he tore the burning clothing from her but that she was terribly burned before aid reached her.

FATHER HURNEY HITS MILITARY REDUCTION

Protests Inadequate Defense at Rededication of War Memorial Light.

The perpetual memorial light to the American dead of the World War, established at the Church of the Immaculate Conception two years ago, was rededicated yesterday afternoon at special services by the Costello Post of the American Legion. Commander Norman Grant, surrounded by his staff, relighted the lamp while taps were sounded by Director Richard Viancour, of the post drum corps.

A special note in the services was the prayer for the Akron dead. The services were broadcast direct from the church by the Washington Catholic Radio Hour. The music, under the direction of Harry Wheaton Howard, included Miss Florence Yocum, soprano; Miss Ann Arlen, violinist; James F. Nolan, baritone, and the Boys Sanctuary Choir.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, chaplain of Costello Post, gave the address, and said that we owe a duty to the dead to carry on in the same spirit in which they gave their lives, that is, devotion to the highest principle of patriotism. Father Hurney said: "International disarmament and world concord and international peace are at present about the most desired things on the face of the earth. But there seems at the present moment but little indication of any such success. There is a great unrest among the nations of the world, and it would seem a very inopportune time to cripple the armed forces of our country, and yet that is exactly what we are doing. We are nowhere near in strength, either in the Army or the Navy, of what is allowed under the Washington and London conference and what is demanded by the national defense act. Yet it is proposed to practically lay up the Navy and demobilize the Army."

Father Hurney also urged legionnaires to be on the alert to see that men and women disabled by actual service in the World War do not suffer even any unintentional injustice. He also urged organized assistance to disabled veterans whose disability did not proceed from World War service.

FATHER AND 4 SONS CONDUCT BAPTIST CONVENTION RITES

Dr. White, of Miami, Heads Worship of Delegates, Juniors Assisting.

Throngs that crowded the auditorium to overflowing heard Dr. J. L. White, of Miami, Fla., preach the annual convention sermon. Gray-haired and gray-mustached, Dr. White changed his role to that of a listener when two of his sons, Dr. Lee McBride White, of Birmingham, Ala., and the Rev. J. L. White, jr., of Fork Union, Va., led in prayers.

A third son, Dr. Russell H. White, of Louisville, Ky., read the scripture lesson and the Rev. Charles M. White, of Hastings, Fla., conducted the closing prayer and benediction.

Dr. E. M. Dodd, newly-elected president of the convention, pointed out that yesterday's services were the first since the historic Jones family—also a father and four sons—that an entire family had preached in Southern Baptist churches. The Rev. J. William Jones, famed as a Confederate veteran, reared four of his sons to follow him in ministerial careers.

Important Reports Today.

Dr. Dodd, who led the services, announced that today had been set aside for reports of the important social service committee, expected to precipitate convention action on the questions of legalization of beer and repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Dr. White, in the convention sermon, declared in part:

"Our living Lord gives to all who trust Him the hope of blessed immortality. In the darkest day, this hope is our inspiration. There is no need for our discouragement under present world conditions, and no need for irreligious solicitude for God.

"The coming King will bring in the new heaven and the new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness. To accomplish this He is coming in glory with the holy angels to reign on the earth. I am not concerned today about the time of His coming for no one knows, but I am concerned for yourself and myself that we be found faithful when He comes."

Makes Plea for Faith.

Dr. White contended that the Lord's personal return is the beckoning hope of the world. He cited "Paul on the one hand and John on the other, one by argument—the other by imagery—declared the inevitable victory of the throned Lamb slain from the foundation of the world."

With divine insight, he said, they foresaw that good and evil would be personified in men, not dehumanized in institutions, that missions would mean missionaries, empires and emperors.

He declared that forgiveness, sympathy and hope are winning the world for Christ and that one great event toward which the whole world moves is the coronation of the slain Lamb.

He concluded his sermon with a plea to the Nation to be "found faithful" with the return of the Lord.

A feature of today's meetings will be a report on social service by Dr. A. J. Barton, of Wilmington, N. C.

Speakers at tonight's program will include Dr. Wallace Bassett, of Dallas, Tex.; Dr. J. B. Weatherspoon, of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. E. H. Cherrington, of Washington.

Woman Injured in Fall Down Steps at Church

Injured when a broken shoe heel catapulted her down the steps at Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday, Mrs. Hattie Weems, 63, was treated at Emergency Hospital for head injuries and body abrasions. She remained at the hospital for observation.

The following committees were appointed: Committee on committees, Miss May P. Bradshaw, chairman; Miss D. I. Huff, Miss Marguerite Manning, Mrs. F. W. Amadon, Mrs. G. B. McIlwee and James S. Merreitt. Bylaws committee, Chester C. Hutchinson, chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Bair and Miss Lucille Stevens.

Mrs. Dulce Johnson Hurt In Automobile Accident

Mrs. Dulce Johnson, 37, of 511 Seventh street northeast, suffered a possibly fractured skull and other injuries in an auto accident near Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, when a hit-run driver collided with the car in which she was riding early yesterday.

Warren Johnson, 38, of the same address, driver of the car in which Mrs. Johnson was riding, gave police a description of the colliding auto but was not sure of the license numbers. He was uninjured.

Four Hurt as Car Leaves Benning Bridge Roadway

Norris Barron, 25, of 1619 Thirtieth street northwest, was treated at Casualty Hospital for a possible skull fracture and internal injuries. Peter Miller, 22, of 2405 Pennsylvania avenue northwest; John McKenna, 20, of 3233 P street northwest, and George Bell, 21, of 3206 Reservoir road, were treated for minor cuts and bruises.

Graduating Nurses At Baccalaureate

A baccalaureate service was held in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church last night for almost 500 graduating nurses ensembled from the city hospitals. The Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo delivered the sermon entitled "For Her Sake."

The members of the graduating classes were escorted by the superintendent of nurses and the graduate staffs of their respective hospitals. Each hospital sent the following number of graduates: Gallinger, 100; St. Elizabeths, 90; Emergency, 99; Garfield, 80; Sibley, 77; Children's, 35; Homeopathic, 20.

Thieves Get $70 Loot at Store.

After sawing through iron bars on a rear window thieves early yesterday stole cigarettes, fountain pens and several baseball gloves from the store of Isadore Rudash at 2226 Eighteenth street northwest. The total value of the loot amounted to about $70, Rudash told police.

3,000 PARTICIPATE IN PROCESSIONALS AT CHURCHES HERE

Children Take Part in May Day Marches at Six Catholic Services.

More than 3,000 children took part in May Day processionals here yesterday under auspices of six local Catholic churches.

The children of St. Anthony's High School and parish were led by Rose Bateman, queen of the procession. Eighty-five children, who received their first communion yesterday, also participated.

600 March at St. Martin's.

More than 600 children participated in the processional of the St. Martin's School and parish. Elizabeth Callahan was crowned May queen, while Margaret Mayer and Anna Pilson acted as attendants. Eileen Francis and Annette McCarthy were maids of honor. The pages of the procession were Bernard Bayer and Joseph Meagher.

The queen's guards were Miss Rose Melling, Miss Lorraine McLarney, Miss Charlotte McCarthy, Miss Eileen Daly, Miss Mary Von Drehle and Miss Rita Lanahan.

The concluding ceremonies were conducted on the grounds adjacent to the school, where, at a temporary shrine, the statue of the Blessed Virgin, was crowned as queen by Miss Callahan.

The Rev. A. J. Burggraff, of St. Paul's College, delivered the sermon. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament concluded the exercises. The Rev. M. J. Riordan, rector, and the Rev. Stephen McCabe, assistant rector, walked in the procession and assisted in the closing exercises.

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. E. J. Connley addressed children who received first communion at St. Peter's Church. Following the communion, 600 children formed in the May Day procession. Eleanor Walker was crowned queen and Mary Childers and Winifred Watts acted as attendants. Members of the Junior Holy Name Society, Children of Mary and graduating class of the church school participated.

Services At St. Mary's.

Children who participate in the procession of St. Mary's Church followed the statue of the Blessed Virgin, which was carried by eight attendants. The Rev. Norbert Miller preached the sermon. Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Cuthbert Dittmeier. The Rev. Dennis Keenan, acted as deacon; the Rev. Charles Hueppler, sub-deacon, and the Rev. Andrew N. DeMuth, as master of ceremonies. The Rev. Charles J. Trinkauf and the Rev. Michael Gallagher also officiated.

Children of the Church of Nativity parish school were led by Frances Noon, May Queen, in their processional. The Rev. John F. Fannon, pastor, addressed the services. The Sisters of St. Francis arranged the ceremonies.

Nations Cheer As U. S. Quits Old Isolation

Davis Pledges It Will Support Action to Avert Wars.

Says Roosevelt Seeks Prompt Results on Disarming.

Geneva, May 22 (A.P.).—The United States Government today pledged itself never to interfere with international action to deal with a menace of war once the aggressor nation responsible for that menace has been satisfactorily identified.

This far-reaching policy was announced by Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's representative, at the International Disarmament Conference. It was immediately interpreted as meaning that in the future the League of Nations can boycott, blockade and otherwise punish an aggressor without fear of complications by the United States.

Cheers Greet Speech.

Mr. Davis also committed the American Government to participate in "effective, automatic and continuous" international supervision, designed to make certain that the nations carry out their promises in disarmament.

"President Roosevelt's message," he said, "is a clear indication of the fact that the United States will exert its full power and influence and accept its just share of responsibility to make the results in disarmament definite, prompt and effective."

His speech, greeted by the cheers of the delegates of 50 nations, was accepted by European commentators as marking abandonment of the traditional American policy of isolation and neutrality.

Concretely, the American doctrine was interpreted to mean that the British navy now can feel more free to help the League of Nations keep the peace because it will be in no danger of coming to grips with the American Navy.

American Policy in Brief.

After announcing that the United States was willing to consult with other states in case of a threat to peace, Mr. Davis set forth the American policy in these words:

"Further than that, in the event that the states, in conference, determine that a state has been guilty of a breach of the peace in violation of its international obligations and take

French Regard U. S. Move Almost Equal to Entry Into League.

Paris, May 22 (U.P.).—The declaration of the new American foreign policy at Geneva today was regarded tonight as almost equivalent to the entry of the United States into the League of Nations.

Premier Edouard Daladier called a cabinet meeting tomorrow to study the foreign situation, particularly the speech at the Arms Conference by Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate.

The cabinet ministers will be asked to study the advisability of waiving the French claims that security shall be discussed at Geneva prior to consideration again of other phases of the disarmament treaty being drafted there.

TORNADOES SWEEP MIDWEST SECTIONS

Storms in Nebraska, Montana and Kansas Kill at Least 9.

North Platte, Nebr., May 22 (A.P.).—Four unidentified bodies were brought here tonight from Tryon, Nebr., reported swept by a tornado early tonight. The report from Tryon was that six persons were killed there. The town could not be reached by telephone.

Garden City, Kans., May 22 (A.P.).—One man was injured fatally near here, two persons were reported dead at Liberal and ten injured persons were in a local hospital as victims of a tornado which swept across southwestern Kansas today in the wake of a dust storm.

Anda Felt, 55, of Wellington, Kans., was crushed by the overturning of his motor car northwest of Garden City and died later in a hospital.

C. L. Hinman, telephone operator at Louisburg, Kans., said he had talked with linemen near Liberal who reported that two persons were killed there and that the business section of the city was damaged severely. All communication lines direct to Liberal were down and the city was reported to be in darkness.

Mrs. Roy Stephenson and her four children were injured at their farm home northwest of this city. The house was wrecked.

Two trucks, carrying five county employees home from work on the roads, were picked up and overturned several times by the wind, injuring all the occupants, one seriously.

Ernest Parsons suffered a probable skull fracture. The others injured were N. W. McElroy, "Red" Russell, Lloyd Frost and John Hurd.

Bainville, Mont., May 22 (A.P.).—A tornado swept through the main street of this town late today, injuring a dozen persons and demolishing or damaging ten buildings.

Communication lines with the surrounding territory were down.

Al Smith Asks Citizens To Use American Ships

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—American patronage of American shipping was urged tonight by Alfred E. Smith in an address in observance of Maritime Day.

As a result of the Jones-White act of 1928, said the former Democratic Presidential nominee, "we have put the American flag back upon the world's main trade routes and created a reservoir of men and ships available for national emergency."

Capital Train Derailed; Railroad Seeks Cause

Altoona, Pa., May 22 (A.P.).—The cause of an accident that derailed seven cars of a Pennsylvania train bound for Washington, D. C., at Jack's Block Station is sought by railroad officials.

No one was injured. A relief train from Altoona picked up the passengers when the tracks were cleared a few hours after the derailment, last night, and normal traffic resumed.

Marye, Once Envoy To Russia, Very Ill

George T. Marye, 84, 1800 N street northwest, former Ambassador to Russia, who has been in failing health for more than a year, was reported in critical condition at his home last night with little hope for his recovery.

Mr. Marye was one of the last ambassadors from this country to Russia, serving from 1914 to 1916. He has been maintaining a home here since his retirement.

Born in Baltimore in 1849, he married Marie Alice Doyle, of Columbus, Ohio, in 1904. Educated in Europe, Mr. Marye was admitted to the bar in California in 1875, and practiced in San Francisco. Later abandoning his law practice, he became associated with his father in the banking business in San Francisco and Virginia City, Nev. He was decorated by Czar Nicholas with the order of St. Alexander Nevasky. His Washington clubs are Army and Navy and Metropolitan.

New Jersey Will Ratify Dry Law Repeal June 1

Trenton, N. J., May 22 (A.P.).—New Jersey will ratify formally on June 1 repeal of the prohibition amendment.

FIGHT AGAINST ENTIRE QUOTA PLAN DROPPED

Senate Foes Will Stress Efficiency Over Dismissals.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The fight to have the State quota rule for Federal dismissals entirely stricken from the independent offices bill has been quietly dropped by Senate opponents of the apportionment yardstick.

Instead, they will concentrate on saving the Senate appropriations committee language. This requires that "due regard" be given to efficiency as well as apportionment, where separations must be made from the service.

A group of senators and representatives from so-called "over quota" States have talked the matter over informally and have decided that a compromise is the best they can do.

They are hopelessly outnumbered by members from States having less than their quota of workers in the Federal service who are anxious to protect these against reorganization onslaughts.

Civil Service Investigation.

Members from such over-quota States as Virginia, Maryland, Iowa and Vermont believe a compromise can be worked out with the House on the Senate substitute language, whereas all might be lost in conference if they go the limit now in eliminating apportionment as a consideration.

Meanwhile, Representative William W. Hastings (Democrat), Oklahoma, said last night he will go before the House Rules Committee in a day or two to ask a favorable report on his resolution for investigation of the Civil Service Commission for its alleged failure to enforce the old apportionment law relating to appointments.

Representative Hastings said he has every reason to believe the committee will accede to his request and report out a rule making his resolution in order. He asks that not only the Civil Service Commission, but various department heads be called on to explain why they have not always made appointments with a view to State apportionment.

Possible Dismissal Standard.

The so-called "quota clause" in the independent offices bill as it was rewritten by the Senate committee, would require Civil Service officials to weigh both State apportionment and efficiency in making dismissals. Heretofore quotas have been considered only in making appointments.

Senators from over-quota States believe the Senate clause would save at least the more efficient employes from those States and the District. Washingtonians would be hard hit if apportionment is made the dismissal standard. There are more than 10,000 over-quota workers from the District.

Volpe Loses Long Deportation Fight

(Associated Press.)

Anthony ("Mops") Volpe, Chicago gangster, lost his fight in the Supreme Court yesterday to have orders for his deportation to Italy set aside, the highest court upholding the ruling that he go back to his adopted land. Volpe was born in Argentina of Italian parents, who took him to Italy as a child.

In December, 1930, Volpe was arrested at Chicago with a number of others charged with vagrancy in a clean-up campaign aimed at about 2,200 "notorious" characters.

Volpe, who had been charged with being a member of the Al Capone "hoodlums," was held for deportation to Italy on the charge he had entered the country without inspection, a visit to Cuba in 1928 being made the basis for the charge. Volpe married an American woman and he has several children.

CHINESE YIELDING PEIPING TO ENEMY

Gen. Ho Orders Resistance to Japanese Withheld to Save Property.

Peiping, May 22 (U.P.).—The Chinese army in the Peiping area began evacuation today, surrendering the ancient capital to the Japanese without a struggle.

The evacuation order was issued by Gen. Ho Ying-Ching, Nanking's minister of war, who has been in command in north China since the recent resignation of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, young Manchu leader now in Europe.

Gen. Ho, who has been accused in some quarters of dealing with the Japanese, explained that it was better to evacuate peaceably and to preserve the ancient capital from wreckage by gunfire than to try to defend it and lose the city in the end, anyway.

Chinese soldiery streamed through the city from outposts to the north and east on their way to a new concentration point, believed to be at Paoting-Fu, 100 miles south of Peiping.

The United Press understood that Gen. Ho would move his military council to Paoting-Fu, leaving the Chinese civilian regime under Gen. Huang-Fu in charge of north China, as far as the National government at Nanking is concerned. Actually the Japanese will be in complete control of everything between the Peiping-Tientsin area and the Great Wall, to the north.

The Japanese are within striking distance of Peiping on two sides of the city.

Gen. Ho, however, apparently was not entirely convinced they would not enter Peiping once he got out, and commented:

"Despite the conciliatory attitude of the Chinese, the Japanese continue their advance. Therefore, Tientsin and Peiping remain in danger."

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Stabilization of the American dollar in relation to the pound sterling and other international currencies moved a step nearer realization last night when it became know that Oliver Mitchell Wentworth Sprague, Harvard economist, who was President Roosevelt's economics professor at Harvard and who went to London to advise the Bank of England two years ago, will be appointed special economic adviser to the Treasury Department.

This is expected to be the announcement of Secretary of the Treasury Woodin today. Yesterday afternoon President Roosevelt conferred with Prof. Sprague, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board Eugene Black and Undersecretary of the Treasury Dean Acheson.

Academic Circle Widens.

The nomination of Prof. Sprague will give another academic authority to the circle of advisors that have been appointed by the President to assist him in the conduct of national affairs. The work of consultation, preparatory to stabilization, has hitherto been handled by James W. Warburg, of the Bank of Manhattan Trust Co. in New York City. Mr. Warburg is a son of Paul Warburg. He has been coming to Washington several times a week to confer with T. K. Bewley, financial counselor to the British Embassy, on the various proposals that have been made alternately by the British and American technical experts.

The nomination of Prof. Sprague would bring the British and American points of view to comparative agreement on the basis of stabilization and on the ways and means of carrying it out. It is to the direction of the Harvard professor that the British treasury is indebted for many of the methods that have been followed in the fiduciary history of the pound sterling. He was one of the first to urge the adoption of the famous gold equalization fund which enabled the bankers of the city of London and the big French banking houses to act in concert for the protection of the pound from speculators' attacks.

Obstacles in Negotiation.

At present he has terminated his contract with the British authorities and found himself at liberty in the midst of the present disturbed state of the American currency. The striking of a common point of agreement by the American and British experts

Militia Is Ordered To Walkout Duty

Manchester, N. H., May 22 (A.P.).—Four companies of National Guardsmen were ordered into Manchester tonight by Gov. John G. Winant on the request of Mayor Damase Caron after 5,000 striking textile workers stormed the gates of the Amoskeag Mills. The mayor requested the guardsmen as a precautionary measure.

There are 10,000 textile and shoe workers on strike in the city of 80,000 population and the police force had been on duty almost continuously since the walkout in the Amoskeag Mills last Friday. The guardsmen will cooperate with police on strike duty.

Dry Chief Declares War On Profiteering Druggists

Dalrymple Says That Beer Has Closed 50,000 Speakeasies.

San Francisco, May 22 (A.P.).—Maj. A. V. Dalrymple, national director of prohibition, said in a statement here tonight the prohibition department must, "like Caesar's wife, be above suspicion" and that profiteering by druggists in wines and liquors must stop.

Dalrymple, now on a national tour of inspection, said he was prepared, if necessary, to go to Congress and request passage of a price-fixing law to prevent druggists from buying wine at from 75 to 95 cents a gallon and retailing it at from $5 to $7.

To this end, he said, he has prepared a regulation, subject to the approval of the United States Attorney General, providing that case lots of wine may be sold by the bonded winery warehouses themselves, pro-

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan and four of his partners, each in a separate automobile, left late today from the J. P. Morgan & Co. offices in Wall street for Washington and the Senate investigation. With Morgan in the motorcade were Thomas W. Lamont, George Whitney, Thomas S. Lamont and William Ewing.

Fifteen private guards, including Morgan's personal bodyguard, surrounded the automobiles as the financiers entered them and screened the passengers from public gaze.

(Associated Press.)

A Senate Investigating Committee was ready today to throw open the business secrets of J. P. Morgan & Co., America's most famous banking house.

Armed with evidence collected in officials announced last night, will months of scrutiny of Morgan records, the committee planned to climax its long investigation of Wall street with the inquiry into the house of Morgan.

BAPTISTS CONDEMN ROOSEVELT ON BEER

Convention Enjoins Trade With Merchants Who Dispense Brew.

In an atmosphere seemingly as arid as the Sahara Desert, but considerably more animated, the Southern Baptist Convention condemned President Roosevelt at its concluding session last night for using the influence and power of his office for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and enjoined members of the church from patronizing merchants who sell beer.

A faint wave of objection swept over the Washington Auditorium when the latter pronouncement was made. However, it was quickly dispersed by Dr. A. J. Barton, of Wilmington, N. C., chairman of the social service committee, who offered the resolution, and former Representative William D. Upshaw, of Georgia.

The resolution expressed belief that only through shunning the business of beer-selling establishments and stores can the integrity of Baptists be preserved and the morals of their children safeguarded.

Dr. Hildreath Jackson faced the microphone in opposition to what he described as boycott on merchants. He failed to receive much support.

Popularizing of beer and wine was blamed on "faithless and corrupt politicians and the vicious and vice-breeding elements of the public press."

Storm's Prisoners On Island Rescued

Ogden, Utah, May 22 (A.P.).—Thirty-three persons were rescued this afternoon after experiencing all the hardships and thrills of "marooned mariners" in the great Salt Lake.

The party, including five women, was taken off Bird Island in a launch when the wind abated. High waves prevented operation of small craft, which took the excursionists to the island Sunday.

They spent the night without shelter. A rainstorm added to their discomfort. Food, blankets and fresh water were dropped to them today from an airplane, which successfully negotiated the "Pelican Hazard."

CHEVY CHASE BANK JOINED WITH RIGGS

Northeast Savings Patrons Indorse New Hamilton Stock Subscription.

A new development in the local banking situation was disclosed yesterday with an announcement that the Chevy Chase Savings Bank, one of the 18 restricted banking institutions in the city, will soon begin operations as a branch of the Riggs National Bank.

This plan was made public by John C. Walker, conservator of the Chevy Chase Bank, who declared that an agreement had been reached following a conference with Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs Bank, and members of the Chevy Chase board of directors.

Certain assets of the Chevy Chase Savings Bank will be purchased by the Riggs institution, it was announced, thus making available to depositors 60 per cent of their deposits in the former bank.

The purchase is being made on the so-called Spokane plan, it was declared, which required approval of the Comptroller of the Currency and the District Supreme Court. Assets not purchased would remain in the hands of the conservator to be liquidated for further benefit of depositors.

Hearty approval of the plan has been voiced by the majority of Chevy Chase depositors, Mr. Walker said, and a permit will be issued by the

(Associated Press.)

The gigantic administration public works-industrial control bill was unanimously ordered reported to the House last night by the Ways and Means Committee, which at the same time ordered continued for another year all of the excise taxes levied in the billion dollar tax bill enacted a year ago.

The reenactment recommended by the committee came as a distinct surprise at a night session of the powerful group.

It would mean the continuation of tax levies due to expire on June 30, 1934, for 12 additional months, amounting to approximately $500,000,000.

Douglas Asked Continuance.

Chairman Doughton explained that Lewis W. Douglas, Director of the Budget, recommended this drastic step to maintain the stability of the Federal Government's credit and further to assure the sale of the $3,300,000,000 in bonds for the public works section of the far-reaching legislation.

In addition the committee approved an amendment to the $221,000,000 revenue program adopted earlier in the day, providing for retirement of the bond issue through amortization and to meet the interest payments. This provision provides that President Roosevelt may by proclamation suspend the new $221,000,000 program on the date of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

President May Lift Taxes.

The President also would be authorized to suspend proposed new levies calling for increased income tax rates, a boost in the gasoline tax and the making of corporate dividends subject to the new income levies whenever the condition of the Treasury was such as to justify suspension.

The action on extending the excise taxes, as explained by Representative Ragon (Democrat) Arkansas, was due to the controversy in Congress over the extension of the 1-cent gasoline tax for one year, the reduction of postage for local letters and the transfer of the electricity tax from the consumer to producer.

The ways and means committee unanimously approved the bill after this unexpected action was taken. Chairman Doughton planned to submit the formal report to the House today and bring the legislation up for consideration not later than tomorrow under special procedure barring amendments.

1933 West Point Graduate Vanishes

West Point, N. Y., May 22 (A.P.).—Cadet John S. Conner, a member of the 1933 graduating class of the United States Military Academy, has been missing from the academy for 24 hours, Maj. Gen. W. D. Connor, superintendent, announced tonight.

Conner, the superintendent said, was present last night at the "taps check" and his absence was not discovered until reveille this morning. A search for Connor was immediately instituted, but at a late hour today no trace of him had been found.

Conner, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Conner, of Medford, Oreg., was scheduled to receive his diploma and commission as a second lieutenant June 13. He is 23 years old.

HOGAN LIKELY HEAD FOR PUBLIC WORKS

John Philip Hogan has been virtually selected as administrator of the new $3,300,000,000 public works program, it was learned yesterday as President Roosevelt plugged two more gaps in the slowly filling patronage list and asked Congress for power to appoint a resident of the continent as Governor of Hawaii.

Meanwhile, Senate committees considering earlier nominations approved three of them and widened the scope of an investigation into the activities of Guy T. Helvering, nominated as Commissioner of Internal Revenue. C. A. Cobb, of Atlanta, editor of the Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, will be named administrator of cotton production under the new farm act, it was also learned.

Hogan, now a consulting engineer in New York, built the Catskills aqueduct and was director of the New York water power investigation in 1920-23. He took his A. B. at Harvard a year before the President was graduated from the same school.

Message on Hawaii.

The nominations sent to the Senate yesterday were Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, to head the board of directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and Clement L. West, of Omaha, to be collector of customs there. Dr. Morgan's selection was announced last week by the President.

In his message to Congress, the President asked temporary suspension of the law requiring the Governor of Hawaii to have lived there for three years before his appointment.

A heated contention between partisans of various candidates for the post has made it difficult to select an island man who will satisfy all parties, it is reported. This is referred to in the message.

Judge Lindsey Mentioned.

The only candidate from the States who has been mentioned is Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver. Island men who are in the running include John Wilson, Democratic national committeeman for the islands; L. L. McCandless, delegate from the islands; Delbert E. Metger, an attorney there; W. B. Pittman, who represented the defense in the first Massie case and who is a brother of Senator Pittman, of Nevada; Dr. Rufus Hagood and J. B. Poindexter. Mr. Wilson is roported to be leading the field of Hawaiian residents.

Hearings will be held by the Senate Finance Committee today in connection with income tax cases handled by Helvering. The committee voted to go into these in spite of a favorable subcommittee report on his nomination. The committee yesterday also decided to extend its investigation to include postmaster appointments recommended by Helvering when he was a representative from Kansas.

The favorable reports authorized by Senate committees were on Pat Malloy as Assistant Attorney General, Edward B. Doyle as U. S. marshal for the middle district of Georgia, and J. Hoyt Davis, to be U. S. attorney for the same territory.

Honolulu Is Dismayed By Roosevelt's Request

Honolulu, May 22 (A.P.).—Press dispatches from Washington announcing President Roosevelt had requested Congress to suspend the law requiring that the Governor of Hawaii must be a resident of the island caused general dismay in political circles here today.

Indications a few days ago that the President might take this action developed declarations of political leaders that they would "do anything" to prevent the appointment of a mainland man to replace Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, Republican incumbent.

Members of the Democratic central committee indicated they were ready to submit additional recommendations or to name a compromise candidate for the office. They awaited only advice from Congressional Delegate Lincoln L. McCandless national committeeman John H. Wilson and National Committeewoman Mrs. McCandless, all of whom are in Washington.

"Gag" Cry Helps Delay Bank Reform Measure

(Associated Press.)

Cries of "gag" rule arose in the House yesterday as Democratic leaders sought to expedite the Glass-Steagall bank reform bill by shutting down debate, and as a result of continued wrangling only a handful of the bill's provisions were approved despite seven and a half hours of consideration.

Notwithstanding the frequent "gag" arguments, however, the regular Democrats stayed in line with the majority leaders.

The wrangling resulted in the failure of House leaders to obtain unanimous consent to meet at 11 today—an hour earlier than usual—to resume consideration of the bill.

Hitler With Fleet During Maneuvers

Kiel, Germany, May 22 (A.P.).—After declaring that Germany's desire for peace probably is stronger than that of other nations "because we need it to get bread for our millions of unemployed comrades," Chancellor Hitler put out to sea at the head of the German fleet today to participate in night maneuvers.

The cruiser Leipsic roared a 19-gun salute as the chancellor went on board the flagship Schleswig-Holstein. From the docks thousands of spectators looked on.

The chancellor, in Kiel to inaugurate navy week, addressed an audience of officers, sailors and civilians after reviewing sailors and members of civilian boat clubs.

Woman Guilty in Try At Extortion in Mails

San Francisco, May 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Hollie Terstegge, who pleaded guilty here recently to a charge of attempted extortion through the mails, was given a three-month suspended sentence and one year of probation today by Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan.

The woman was arrested after having addressed a letter to Arthur Howell, of Atlanta, demanding $5,000 under threat of exposing an alleged rendezvous with him in Louisville, Ky. Howell is dead and his widow received the letter.

TEXT OF DAVIS' ARMS TALK

(Associated Press.)

Text of speech delivered yesterday before the Geneva Disarmament Conference by Norman H. Davis, chief delegate of the United States:

The initiative taken by the President of the United States in communicating directly with the heads of states participating in the economic and disarmament conferences was prompted by the pressing need for concerted and decisive action to solve the interrelated problems with which these two conferences must deal.

The disarmament conference has reached the moment for definite decisions. We must face the issue; we must now determine whether the nations of the world propose to go forward with progressive disarmament or revert to the prewar system of unrestrained competition in armaments with all the continuance of the international suspicion and fear which this will involve.

At the end of the World War the peoples of all states and their leaders resolved that the suicidal armament policy of the preceding decades must be changed.

They were convinced that this policy had been one of the contributing factors which brought about the war. Hence a new policy regarding armaments was incorporated as a fundamental part of the peace settlement.

Policy to Bar Future Armament Races.

This policy, adopted to prevent a future race in armaments, was based on the principle that armaments are a matter of general concern and that the time had passed when each state should be the sole judge of its armaments.

To carry out this conception, provision was made for the disarmament of the defeated powers and at the same time a decision was taken, unprecedented in history, whereby the victorious states voluntarily assumed an obligation to reduce their own armaments.

As a first step, the peace treaties reduced the armaments of Germany and her allies with a view to rendering impossible any aggression on their part. In fact, the theory behind these treaties was that the military forces of the disarmed powers should be fixed on the basis of the maintenance of internal order and the necessary policing of frontiers, but no more.

The whole purpose of these provisions was to guarantee that the armies of Germany and her former allies should thenceforth stay at home.

It would neither have been just nor wise, nor was it intended, that the central powers should be subject for all time to a special treatment in armaments. There is, and has been, a corresponding duty on the part of the other powers, parties to peace treaties, that by successive stages they, too, would bring their armaments down to a level strictly determined by the needs of self-defense.

While the United States is not bound by the provisions or the implications of those treaties, I have no hesitancy in saying that it is the will of our people, interpreted by President Roosevelt, to join with the other powers in disarming down to that level, and we are prepared to exert our influence to bring this about, not by theoretical statements of good intentions, but by decisive and progressive reduction of armaments through international agreement.

Breakdown of Machinery For Peace Is Cited.

The present situation admits of no further delay. The states of the world must either go forward in good faith to carry out in all its implications the disarmament policy which they adopted in 1919 or we must recognize frankly that this policy has been abandoned and reconcile ourselves to reverting to a race in competitive armament.

If the latter course is taken the consequences are inevitable. Sooner or later there will be the breakdown of the peace machinery which has been so laboriously built up since 1918 and the world will be swept into another war.

The immediate result of a failure here would be a setback to economic recovery, which depends upon such mutual confidence between nations as will permit a real collaboration in the task of restoring international trade and the freer movement of goods.

This is impossible in a situation clouded by the fear of war. National budgets which should be devoted to productive and social end are burdened with excessive and wasteful expenditures for armament. This leads in turn to an almost unbearable load of taxation on all our peoples.

If we thus candidly face the situation there is really no alternative for a sane world to consider. It is inconceivable that the responsible leaders of any country in the world could hesitate over this issue. We can not shirk the duty which this choice imposes upon us. We can not safely delay taking effective steps to reduce armaments to a purely defensive basis.

As far as the position of the United States is concerned, we are frank to recognize that we have a simpler problem to meet than have many of the European powers. Fears and apprehensions based on historical and racial grounds have led to the maintenance of large armaments in Europe. These large armaments have caused resentment, particularly in the less armed countries. The resulting political tension has in turn reacted to keep up the general level of armaments.

Aware of Difficulties In Path of Reduction.

We are not unaware of the difficulties which lie in the way of reduction in armaments here. It is our very detachment from this situation which gives us hope that we may exert a helpful influence toward the realization of our common objective. But we are prepared to aid in other ways than through exerting our influence, and I shall take this opportunity to show what we are prepared to do.

As regards the level of armaments, we are prepared to go as far as the other states in the way of reduction. We feel that the ultimate objective should be to reduce armaments approximately to the level established by the peace treaties—that is, to bring armaments as soon as possible through successive stages down to the basis of a domestic police force.

In particular, as emphasized by President Roosevelt, we are prepared to join other nations in abolishing weapons of an aggressive character, which not only are the more costly to construct and maintain, but at present are the most likely to lead to a breach of the peace.

To cut the power of offense and remove the threat of surprise attack would do more than anything else to lessen the danger of a war.

Almost a year ago the American Government submitted a proposal along these lines. This proposal which received the approval of a large number of states was not acceptable to certain states and was therefore not adopted.

A few weeks ago the British prime minister submitted a detailed proposal which embodies many of the features of the American plan of last year. As the British proposal represents a real measure of disarmament, we accept it whole-heartedly as a definite and excellent step toward the ultimate objective. We, therefore, are prepared to give our full support to the adoption of this plan.

System of Adequate Supervision Is Urged.

In addition, I wish to make it clear that we are ready, not only to do our part toward the substantive reduction of armaments, but if this is effected by general international agreement, we are also ready to contribute in other ways to the organization of peace.

In particular, we are willing to consult the other states in case of a threat to peace with a view to averting conflict.

Further than that, in the event that the states, in conference, determine that a state has been guilty of a breach of the peace in violation of its international obligations and take measures against the violator, then, if we concur in the judgment rendered as to the responsible and guilty party, we will refrain from any action tending to defeat such collective effort which these states may thus make to restore peace.

Finally we believe that a system of adequate supervision should be formulated to insure the effective and faithful carrying out of any measure of disarmament.

We are prepared to assist in this formulation and to participate in this supervision.

We are heartily in sympathy with the idea that means of effective, automatic and continuous supervision should be found whereby nations will be able to rest assured that as long as they respect their obligations with regard to armaments, the corresponding obligations of their neighbors will be carried out in the same scrupulous manner.

Ultimate Objective Is Possible by Stages.

The disarmament conference has already formulated measures for the establishing of a permanent disarmament commission. The powers now proposed for this commission may well be reinforced. The commission will have many important duties, but none more essential than that of effectively supervising the fulfillment of the treaty.

We recognize that the ultimate objective in disarmament must be attained by stages, but we believe that the time for the next and decisive step is long overdue and can not be further postponed.

Virtually all the nations of the world have entered upon the solemn obligation of the Briand-Kellogg pact to renounce war as an instrument of national policy and to settle their disputes only by pacific means.

If we are to keep faith with these obligations, we must definitely make up our minds to settle our disputes around a conference table instead of preparing to settle them on the battlefield.

It was with such a thought that the President proposed an undertaking by the nations that, subject to existing treaty rights, armed forces should not be sent across national frontiers.

In the long run, we may come to the conclusion that the simplest and most accurate definition of an aggressor is one whose armed forces are found on alien soil in violation of treaties.

There have been two main obstacles to disarmament. One was the apprehension that Germany proposed to rearm; the other the reluctance of the armed powers of Europe in the present state of the world to take a real step in disarmament.

Unanimous Action Of All Nations Vital.

If at this decisive point, any nation should fail to give conclusive evidence of its pacific intentions and insist upon the right to rearm, even though the other powers take effective and substantial steps toward disarmament, then the burden of responsibility for the failure of the disarmament conference, with the incalculable consequences of such a failure, would rest on the shoulders of that nation.

The problem with which we are faced can not be solved if one nation insists on rearming while the others disarm. The result inevitably would be another race in armaments.

As regards the action of the other powers, we are not unaware in the United States of the political difficulties which still lie in the way of the reduction of European armaments.

We recognize the legitimate claim which any state has to safeguard its security.

But we are firmly convinced that in the long run this security can best be achieved through a controlled disarmament by which the military strength of the most heavily armed nations is progressively reduced to a level such as that provided for in the peace treaties.

To the extent that armaments create political tension, they in themselves constitute a menace to peace and may jeopardize the security of the very nations which maintain them.

If we take a long step in the direction of disarmament today and agree by stages to achieve our ultimate objective, we can meet any legitimate claim of the powers bound by the peace treaties and at the same time effectively help to insure peace.

A few days ago the conference met a serious obstacle to further progress in its detailed examination of the British plan. Since then there has been an appreciable change.

American Delegation's Attitude on Materials.

The recent speech by the German chancellor before the Reichstag clarifying the German attitude and policy with regard to disarmament and indorsing the proposal of President Roosevelt has been most helpful.

This and also the subsequent announcement made here by our colleague, Herr Nadolny, of Germany's acceptance of the British plan as the basis of the future convention have so altered the situation as to justify us in assuming that we can now resume our consideration of this plan with real hope of agreement.

Our present agenda is a consideration of the chapters on war material. It was understood that other related subjects might be introduced and my colleagues may feel that I have made wide use of the latitude thus given me.

But in closing my remarks and to bring our discussion back to the concrete question before us I desire to state that the American delegation accepts the chapter on material and expresses the hope that the other delegations will join in this acceptance and that the way may thus be cleared for an immediate decision on the concrete proposals in this chapter.

This conference is not only a disarmament conference; it is an emergency conference of a world in a state of political uncertainty and economic depression.

The next weeks will bring the decisive test. It will require courage and statesmanship to meet this test, but the failure to do so will go far to shatter any hope of world organization for peace.

Roosevelt's Message Shows Good Faith.

As far as the United States is concerned, our abilities and our incentive to collaborate whole-heartedly in the continuing task of helping to maintain world peace depends in large measure upon the results achieved here in disarmament.

President Roosevelt's message is a clear indication of the fact that the United States will exert its full power and influence and accept its just share of responsibility to make the results in disarmament definite, prompt and effective.

The results of success here and now would bring benefits beyond all calculation. It would give new confidence and hope—confidence that governments can still govern and leaders lead; hope that a definite step in disarmament having at last been taken, economic recovery will be hastened and the millions in all countries who are only asking for the opportunity to work will have restored to them the possibility of living in peace and of earning their daily bread.

If by a great act of faith, each and every nation will now summon the courage to take a decisive step in general disarmament, conditions throughout the world will so improve that we can henceforth face the future with a real feeling of security and confidence.

With the alternative to success in mind, we can not allow ourselves to fail.

Forestry Domain's Change Is Urged

To maintain the work of the Civilian Conservation Corps, the board of directors of the American Forestry Association yesterday called upon Congress to act at once to bring the public domain under administrative control.

Foreseeing that winter would make work in the high altitudes of the national forests of the West impossible, the association believes that bringing the public domain under administrative control would go far in meeting this problem.

Instead of curtailment of work of the corps and the release of men, the association points out that the public lands are at lower altitudes adjacent to the forests and in the winter the men could be brought there where constructive work could be done during the winter months. Thus the release of the men or their transportation to Southern forests would not be necessary.

POLICY OF ISOLATION ABANDONED BY U. S.

measures against the violator, then, if we concur in the judgment rendered as to the responsible and guilty party, we will refrain from any action tending to defeat such collective effort which these states may thus make to restore peace."

Thus the only condition is that the United States agree with the other nations as to which is the guilty country.

In other words, according to the interpretation accepted in Geneva, America not only puts a curb on her neutrality rights but voluntarily limits her liberty on the sea.

Although America would consult with the other nations, she presumably would not vote in determining an aggressor. But leaders said tonight that Europe or the league was not likely to specify any nation as an aggressor unless it was believed that America would concur.

Mr. David told the conference that either something must be accomplished in disarmament or the nations must become reconciled to reverting to a race in arms.

"If the latter course is taken," he said, "the consequences are inevitable. Sooner or later there will be the breakdown of the peace machinery which has been so laboriously built up since 1918 and the world will be swept into another war."

He proposed drastic arms reductions, saying that the United States was prepared "to go as far as the other states."

"We feel that the ultimate objective should be to reduce armaments approximately to the level established by the peace treaties; that is, to bring armaments as soon as possible through successive stages down to the basis of a domestic police force," he continued.

Offensive Weapon Curb.

"In particular, as emphasized by President Roosevelt, we are prepared to join other nations in abolishing weapons of an aggressive character which are not only the most costly to construct and maintain, but at present are those most likely to lead to a breach of the peace.

"To cut the power of offense and remove the threat of surprise attack would do more than anything else to lessen the danger of a war."

As a result of the Davis speech the disarmament conference took on a distinctly more optimistic aspect. Making good on Chancellor Hitler's promise, Germany virtually agreed to transform the Reichswehr into a standardized conscript army, thus removing one of the chief obstacles in the way of a disarmament convention.

Moreover, it was learned from American sources, Germany is disposed to join a European pact of mutual assistance by which any country, if the victim of aggression, could count upon the help of other signatories.

French See Importance.

The French gave immense importance to America's readiness to participate in the control of armaments.

It was learned that the United States will announce its readiness to consult the nations in the event of a threat to peace by issuing a unilateral declaration. The rest of the world would consider this sufficient.

Thus the United States has given the spur to disarmament, but has frankly warned the world that participation in the machinery of peace will be dependent at least in large measure on achievement of substantial reduction in armaments.

WAR ILLS PENSIONS WILL BE CONTINUED

Gen. Hines Announces Plan to Protect Veterans Under Economy Bill.

(United Press.)

Veterans who have received disability from disease directly resulting from war-time service will be continued as service-connected cases under the economy bill, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, Veterans' Bureau administrator, announced last night.

That means that a veteran suffering from a 10 per cent disability of that nature will be assured of a pension, the Veterans' Bureau head said.

The customary exceptions—that the veteran shall have an honorable discharge and shall not have acquired his disease "because of misconduct"—are made.

New Schedules Modified.

"It is the announced policy," the bureau's statement read, "to afford to veterans suffering from disabilities for which the conditions of military service are responsible every consideration consistent with the law and public welfare in general.

"It is no part of such a policy to reverse former decisions regarding the service incurrence of disease where such former decision was reasonably proper and the veteran now meets the requirements regarding character and conditions of war-time service."

Hines said another order had been issued modifying in some cases the new schedules for rating disabilities. It applies particularly to gunshot wounds, arrested tuberculosis and the other forms of severe disability.

Assurance to Veterans.

"The purpose of this order," it was said, "is to give added assurance that veterans having disability directly traceable to war service would receive a fair pension notwithstanding reductions.

"Veterans may be assured, therefore, that any determinations made in their cases which do not conform to these instructions will be corrected immediately the present review is completed."

President Roosevelt's economy bill slashed approximately $400,000,000 from veterans' compensation, but he subsequently announced he intended to review the reduction in an attempt to avoid injustice.

Texas Bill to Raise Oil Taxes 2 Cents Is Signed

Austin, Tex., May 22 (A.P.).—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today signed a bill to tax the intangible assets of oil pipe lines and to increase the oil production levy to 2 cents per barrel. The taxes will become effective 90 days after the Legislature adjourns.

The present tax on oil production is 2 per cent of the value of the oil, or about half a cent a barrel at prevailing prices.

Import Tax Right Given to Wallace

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wallace last night was left free to impose processing taxes—one of his chief powers under the farm adjustment act—and to use the proceeds to finance acreage reduction programs on farms.

Soon after he had called on Secretary Hull for a conference that included the latter's economic experts, it was learned imposition of compensatory import taxes, required under the act as a companion to processing taxes, was ruled not in conflict with the international tariff truce.

Wallace and George N. Peek, chief administrator, later selected a cotton production administrator, C. A. Cobb, an Atlanta farm editor. They named Guy G. Shephard, of Evanston, Ill., a retired packer, to administer processing and trade agreement activities for packing house products, principally hog products.

ARCHBISHOP CURLEY CLUB DINNER GUEST

Organization Bearing His Name Celebrates Its Eleventh Anniversary.

The Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimroe, was guest of honor at the eleventh anniversary celebration of the Curley Club last night at the Continental Hotel.

The reception for the archbishop, for whom the club was named, was followed by an elaborate entertainment program of music and drama, under the direction of William J. Boyd. Addresses were made by Reland J. Hyland, president; Miss Mary L. McGee, founder, and the Rev. Francis X. Cavanagh, spiritual director.

Persons taking part in the program included Miss Helen Stafford Smith, Miss Helen Regan, Miss Gretchen Baden, Miss Jessie Beehlert, Miss Irene Beehlert and Clement Giebel, Luke O'Reilly, Benjamin Swann, Silvio Poli and James O'Connell.

Guests of the club included the Rev. Cornelius P. Thomas, pastor of St. Patrick's Church; the Rev. P. J. Gavan, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart; the Rev. Eugene J. Connelly, pastor of St. Peter's Church; the Rev. Michael J. Riordan, pastor of St. Martin's Church; the Rev. C. J. Dacey, pastor of St. Paul's Church; the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church; the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and the Rev. Charles J. Trinkaus, pastor of St. Mary's Church.

The club was organized in May, 1922, to raise funds for scholarships for the poor, deserving children, and other charitable enterprises.

Strike of Silk Workers In New Jersey Failure

Paterson, N. J., May 22 (A.P.).—Only a dozen shops, employing a comparatively small number of the 7,500 silk workers in this city, responded to a strike called today, and the general opinion was that the proposed stabilization program of the industry had caused the strike's failure.

Union headquarters reported that a majority of the shops settled their dispute almost at once, agreeing with manufacturers on a 40-hour week and a base weekly pay of $20.

League of Nations Prizes Announced

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—The League of Nations Association today announced Sidney H. Levy, 17, of Buffalo, N. Y., as the winner of its seventh annual competitive examination for high schools on the League of Nations. The prize is a trip to Europe.

Grosvenor W. Bissell, 18, also of Buffalo, won second prize, $50. Five additional prizes of $10 were awarded to Mildred Gittlen and Esther Lobensky, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Claude Baldwin, of Fort Collins, Colo.; Ruth Stafford, of Springfield, Ill., and Marjorie Lee, of Horseheads, N. Y.

Dead Son Blamed In Parents' Death

Austin, Minn., May 22 (A.P.).—An elderly farm couple and their son were found shot to death near here today. Officers said the latter apparently slew his parents and then committed suicide.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Clark, each about 70, were in bed, both shot in the head with a rifle. The body of Ivan Clark, 45, was found near the family barn house. The rifle lay nearby.

Acting Coroner E. C. Rebman, physician to the family twenty years, said he was convinced Ivan had slain the parents and then himself. Money and other valuables were not disturbed.

$5,000,000 SPEEDILY GRANTED TO STATES than $5,000,000 during his first two hours in office.

After being sworn in yesterday Hopkins went at once to the office of Fred Croxton, who has been handling the relief work under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and approved loans totaling $5,386,317 to eight States. Preliminary investigations on the loan applications had already been made, it was explained, accounting for the speed with which they were put through.

Illinois received $2,500,000; Michigan, $1,830,540; Colorado, $302,645; Texas, $611,865; Mississippi, $164,198; Iowa, $47,207; Georgia, $40,622, and Ohio, $39,245.

The relief policy of the administration was outlined by Hopkins as opposed to maintaining millions on destitution relief rolls but as determined to prevent starvation.

"There is an unconscionable number of people getting relief throughout the country," he said. "There are 400,000 families on the relief rolls of New York alone, a total of 1,600,000 persons. If this proportion is kept up throughout the country at least 16,000,000 people are receiving relief.

"I do not think it is my place to perpetuate any system that will keep any such number of people on the rolls.

"I understand it to be the President's plan to put a substantial number of these people on jobs to be created through the public works program.

"Many people, however, must be cared for for some time to come.

"The second factor is the fact that the Federal Government is putting up $500,000,000 for relief. At the rate the country is spending for relief, the expenditures will be well over one billion dollars a year if it keeps up.

"If that is the situation, unless the States, cities and counties do their part, we are licked at the outset."

North Carolina Bank Law Declared Invalid

Marshall, N. C., May 22 (A.P.).—Judge Felix Alley today held unconstitutional the State Sullivan act, which permits depositors in closed banks in 43 North Carolina counties to sell their claims to the banks' debtors to be used to offset loans and other indebtedness.

Judge Alley held that the act, passed by the last General Assembly, was unconstitutional in that it "impaired a contract" and was a "denial of equal rights." Notice of an appeal to the State Supreme Court was filed.
